By Senator Perkins:

Prosper, Texas, April 22, 1909.

Hon. Tom W. Perkins, Austin, Texas.

Dear Sir: We, whose names are subscribed hereto, citizens of Prosper, Collin county, respectfully ask that you support the Cureton bank guarantee bill as passed by the House of Representatives, without amendments calculated to defeat the purpose of providing a straight guarantee of bank deposits, as recommended by the State Commissioner of Banking. We look at the matter from the depositor's standpoint.

Signed—Mack Smith, L. R. Lair, S. E. Kennon, W. H. Shrader, and thirty others.

By Senator Veale:

Seymour, Texas, April 15, 1909.

At a mass meeting this day held in Seymour, Texas, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

We, the business men and farmers of Baylor county in mass meeting assembled, having been called together by the joint action of the Board of Trade of Seymour and the Farmers' Union, petition the Legislature for the passage of a bank guaranty law which shall in effect put all the banks behind every bank and thereby absolutely guarantee the safety of all deposits.

T. H. C. PENRY, Chairman,
B. F. RUPE, Secretary.

By Senator Hume:

Houston, Texas, April 24, 1909.

To the Hon. F. Charles Hume, Jr., Senator from the Sixteenth Senatorial District of Texas, Austin, Texas:

We, the undersigned citizens of your district, take this means of commending you for the high stand taken by yourself and your associates in defense of the dignity of the legislative department of the government, and of the constitutional structure thereof, and we beg to express to you, and through you to them, our high confidence in your ability to construe the demands of the Democratic platform, and to intelligently and faithfully represent the wishes of your immediate constituents, and the entire people of this great State.

By Senator Terrell of McLennan:

To Hon. H. B. Terrell, Senator, and Hon. S. E. Stratton, Hon. John Maxwell, Hon. A. M. Kennedy, and Hon. W. C. O'Bryan, Representatives.

Gentlemen: The Young Men's Business League respectfully petition your earnest support of House bill No. 5, providing for the completion and extension of the State railroad which is now almost completed from Rusk to Palestine, and that you add an amendment thereto providing for the further extension of the road from Palestine westward to Waco.

In bringing this matter to your attention, we believe that the interests of the entire State will be subserved by the operation of such a railroad, especially as a recent appropriation by Congress for the improvement of the Brazos river definitely commits the Federal Government to continued appropriations for the completion of the work of improvements from Waco to the gulf, thereby giving her rates from Central Texas, which, in conjunction with the State road would control freight rates throughout the entire State.

As young men like ourselves, we look forward with confidence to the completion of the State railroad and improvement of the Brazos river for navigation as two of the most important projects now under consideration for the development of Texas during our lifetime.

Respectfully submitted,

ALBERT T. CLIFTON,
President Young Men's Business League.

WILLIAM L. PRATHER, Secretary.

Waco, Texas, April 24, 1909.

Hon. H. B. Terrell, Austin, Texas.

My Dear Sir: I take the liberty to call your attention to the importance of the line of railroad from Palestine to Waco, and to bespeak your support of the bill now pending in the State Legislature regarding State railroads.

I think all our McLennan county Representatives should lend their best efforts to secure passage of this bill.

Yours very truly,

E. ROTAN.

REASONS FOR VOTING.

I am opposed to the passage of this bill, but vote to recommit the bill because I think it due to Senator Ward, the author of the bill, on account of the various charges and insinuations made involving him and the Attorney General's Department. In view, of these charges, I think Senator Ward and the Attorney General's Department should have a hearing before the committee. The Attorney General's Department should have an opportunity to show their connection with this bill in view of the charges made against that department.

MAYFIELD.

I vote to recommend to the Senate to recommit Senate bill No. 16 to Judiciary Committee No. 1, in order that Senator Ward may have the opportunity to explain his bill fully. Personally, I am opposed to the bill, believing as I do that its passage would endanger the efficiency of the present anti-trust laws of this State, but I believe its author should be accorded the courtesy of a full hearing.

VEALE.

I voted "yea" out of deference to Senator Ward, believing and knowing that his motives in introducing this bill should not be criticised; and as no harm could be done, I think it would be nothing but right to recommit the bill to Judiciary Committee No. 1. As the bill presents itself, I am opposed to it.

COFER.

I signed the floor report on this bill without having time to consider it and reserving the right to vote against it, and on investigation I am persuaded to believe if the bill was enacted into a law it would permit the Waters-Pierce Oil Company to come back into Texas, and therefore I vote against favorably considering it.

PEELER.

ADJOURNMENT.

On motion of Senator Hayter, the Senate adjourned to 10 o'clock a. m. tomorrow.

Committee Room,
Austin, Texas, April 22, 1909.

Hon. A. B. Davidson, President of the Senate.

Sir: We, your Committee on Towns and City Corporations, to whom was referred Senate bill No. 15, A bill to be entitled "An Act to amend the city charter of the city of Texarkana, Texas, and the acts amendatory of said city charter, and to amend an act entitled 'An Act to incorporate the city of Texarkana, Texas, as a city of the first class, as a city of ten thousand and over of inhabitants, to grant to the city a special charter; to repeal all laws in conflict herewith, and declaring an emergency,' passed by the Thirtieth Legislature of the State of Texas, approved May 2, 1907, by adding thereto Section 192a, requiring railroad companies owning or operating railroad tracks across Elm street, Oak street and Spruce street in said city to construct a viaduct on one of said streets, and declaring an emergency,"

Have had the same under consideration, and we report same back to the Senate with the recommendation that it do not pass, for the following reasons: It is admitted that Section 57 of Article 3 of the Constitution requiring publication of notice as to application for local or special laws was not complied with. Section 56 of Article 3 and Section 5 of Article 11 of the Constitution designate amendments to city charters as special laws, and while the showing made before the committee would indicate that the relief asked should be granted and justify a favorable report, yet, upon this constitutional objection alone, the committee makes this adverse report.

SENTER, Chairman.

(Floor Report.)

Austin, Texas, April 27, 1909.

Hon. A. B. Davidson, President of the Senate.

Sir: We, your Committee on Roads,

Have had same under consideration, and beg leave to report it back to the Senate with the recommendation that it do pass, and be not printed.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

By Senator Senter:

Venus, Texas, April 24, 1909.

To the Legislature of Texas.

As citizens and taxpayers of Texas, loyal to her interests and earnest in the purpose that her legislation should be both wise and efficient, we emphatically protest against the passage of the Cureton-Mobley bank guaranty bill, or any other bill embodying the same principles.

We do not oppose, but favor, practical legislation that will require State banks of this State to individually furnish such security or indemnity, as may be provided by law, as will afford their depositors absolute protection. We know that such legislation will result in such protection; that it is within the power of the State to enact it; and that the wisdom of the Legislature may be entrusted with its provisions. Not only will such a law protect depositors, but it will accord with sound principles by justly placing the burden of such protection upon the individual banks, requiring each to stand upon its own merits without fictitious advantage, and to answer for its own liabilities.

The effectiveness of such a law to accomplish security for bank depositors removes any pretext for the enactment of the Cureton-Mobley bill, which directly violates the fundamental doctrine of individual merit and individual responsibility by making all State banks answerable for the debts of one—the very essence of Socialistic creed and practice.

The needs of Texas do not require resort to these alien doctrines—always prolific in promise, but always disappointing in actual results; her business honor and integrity deserve no such reproach; and as citizens we protest against her legislative authority being converted into an experimental field for their exploitation.

Numerously signed.

Wortham, Texas, April 24, 1909.

To Hons. A. J. Harper and J. Ross Bell, Austin, Texas.

We, the undersigned, citizens of Wortham and vicinity, respectfully request that you use all honorable means within your power to secure the passage of the Meachum-Greer guaranty bill, amended so as to make it obligatory that all State banks come under this law.

A BILL

To Be Entitled

An Act providing for the completion by the Penitentiary Board of Commissioners of the railroad now owned by the State of Texas at the Rusk Penitentiary; for its maintenance, equipment and operation and for the sale of said railroad by said board, and providing that $200,000 shall be set aside out of any fund to the credit of the general revenue of the State in the State Treasury to be used for the purpose of completing said railroad to the town of Palestine and to properly equip said railroad and also for the purpose of taking up and redeeming twenty bonds of face value of $150,000, authorized and issued by virtue of Chapter 74 of the Acts of the Thirtieth Legislature, and to pay the interest thereon, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That for the purpose of securing the means with which to complete and equip the railroad from Rusk to Palestine, now owned by the State and securing the repayment of the money advanced for use in building same, as provided for in Chapter 74 of the Acts of the Thirtieth Legislature, there shall be and is hereby set aside and appropriated out of any funds to the credit of the general revenue now in the State Treasury the sum of $200,000, which shall be paid out for the purposes hereinafter stipulated upon warrants drawn by the Comptroller of Public Accounts. •

Sec. 2. The sum of $50,000 of said amount set aside under the provisions of Section 1 hereof shall be paid over by the Comptroller of Public Accounts to the Board of Penitentiary Commissioners, as required by said board upon its written orders therefor, to be used by said board for the purposes of completing to the town of Palestine the railroad now owned by the State and extended from the town of Rusk, and to pay all charges that may be necessarily incurred in connection therewith, and to equip said railroad with suitable and sufficient rolling stock.

Sec. 3. The sum of $150,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, set aside and appropriated under the provisions of Section 1 hereof shall be used by the Comptroller of Public Accounts for the purpose of taking up and redeeming twenty bonds, aggregating said amount, authorized by and issued in virtue of Chapter 74 of the Acts of the Thirtieth Legislature.

Sec. 4. The Board of Penitentiary Commissioners shall be authorized, and it is hereby made their duty to complete to the town of Palestine the said railroad owned by the State as speedily as practicable. When said railroad shall be completed to the town of Palestine, it shall be the duty of the Penitentiary Commissioners to advertise the same for sale, by giving notice thereof in at least three daily newspapers published in the State of Texas and in at least one daily newspaper published in the city of New York. Said railroad shall be sold either at public or private sale under conditions as to terms and with respect to all other matters relating thereto as may be fixed by the Board of Penitentiary Commissioners; provided, that the selling price shall not be less than $15,000 per mile, including the rolling stock and other appurtenances thereof.

Sec. 5. When said railroad shall be sold as herein provided for the proceeds shall be appropriated:

Sec. 6. The fact that there now exists no law providing for the means to complete the railroad owned by the State to the town of Palestine, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

MURRAY,
HUME.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

By Senator Weinert:

Seguin, Texas, April 21, 1909.

We, the undersigned constituents of the Hon. F. C. Weinert, Senator from this senatorial district, desire to express our confidence in the judgment and ability of our Senator, and to declare that we have full faith in his unswerving Democracy, his allegiance to the party tenets, and his unquestionable capacity to interpret them. We desire to offer no instructions to him upon pending legislation, because we elected him seeking to avail ourselves of his wisdom and his capacity to protect and further our interests and those of our great State. We believe in legislation providing for safe, wise and conservative banking institutions in this State, and that the party's principles as announced in its platforms should be a guide to its representatives; but in enacting these principles into law we believe it unsafe and unwise to ask our representatives to yield their interpretation of platform principles, and we reiterate our reliance upon the capacity of our Senator to wisely exercise his judgment in seeking to carry out the party's principles on this, as on all other questions.

Numerously signed.

By Senator Meachum:

To the Hon. McDonald Meachum, Member of the Senate of Texas, now in Session.

We, the undersigned citizens of Grimes county and your supporters, believing you at all times receive the views of your constituents with an eye single to legislation to the best interest of the public, and especially to your district, respectfully represent: That we feel it our duty to advise you that we are opposed to the bill now pending before the lower House to build a State railroad and issue bonds therefor and the State School Board ordered to buy these bonds with the permanent school fund. We believe this a departure from the policy of our forefathers and a dangerous investment and a speculation on that sacred fund; therefore, as your supporters, we earnestly request that in your usual vigor you oppose the passage of such a bill should it reach the Senate.

Numerously signed.

Annually, after the first payment to said fund, each bank and trust company subject to the provisions of this act shall pay to said board one-fourth of 1 per cent of its daily average deposits, as above defined, which amount shall be added to said guaranty fund; provided, that when the amount available in said guaranty fund shall reach the sum of two million dollars the Bank Commissioner shall notify all bank and trust companies subject to this act, at least thirty days before the next annual payment and thereafter the banks and trust companies participating shall not pay any further amount into said fund until said fund be depleted, and in the event of the depletion of said fund from any cause so that it falls below two million dollars, said board shall have authority to require the payment for the current year of the full 1 per cent of such average deposits, or such part thereof as may be necessary to restore said fund to the maximum above named, but no bank or trust company coming under the provisions of this act shall ever be required to pay more than 1 per cent of said average daily deposits for any one year; providing further, that first payments herein provided for shall be made to said board without reference to said maximum sum.

Sec. 5. The fund provided for herein shall be deposited with the State Treasurer and a separate account shall be kept thereof, and it shall be paid out on warrant of the Comptroller based on vouchers issued as may be prescribed by the said banking board, and said fund shall never be diverted from the purpose herein specified. The Treasurer may and he shall on order of said banking board, keep 25 per cent of the amount of said guaranty fund deposited in State depositories, subject to demand call of said board; provided, that 50 per cent of all payments required may be held by guaranteed banks as demand deposits, to the credit of said banking board.

Sec. 6. State bank and trust companies organized subsequent to the taking effect of this law, or approval of their applications as provided for in Section 7 of this act, shall pay into said guaranty fund 2 per cent of the amount of their capital stock, which amount shall constitute a credit fund, subject to adjustment on the basis of their deposits as provided for other banks now existing, at the end of one year; provided, however, that said payment shall not be required of banks and trust companies formed by the reorganization or consolidation of banks that have previously complied with the terms of this act.

Should said board decline the application of any bank or trust company it shall state the grounds of such declination to such institution and whether the objection can be removed, and the condition thereof.

Sec. 8. Any national bank in this State may voluntarily avail its depositors of the protection of the depositors' guaranty fund, upon the same terms, payments, conditions and in the same manner as herein provided for State banks.

Sec. 9. Said bond may be recovered upon for the benefit of said guaranty fund.

Sec. 10. In the event the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall take possession of any bank or trust company, subject to this act, as herein provided, the depositors of said bank or trust company, as specified in Section 4 of this act, shall be paid in full out of the cash in said bank or trust company and that can be made immediately available from such bank, and the remainder shall be paid out of the depositors' guaranty fund through the said board in the event the cash available in said institution shall be insufficient; provided, that deposits on which interest is being paid by said bank, its officers or stockholders, to the depositor and deposits otherwise secured, shall not be insured under this act but shall only receive the pro rata amount which may be realized from the assets, resources, and collections of and from such banks or trust company, its stockholders or directors.

Sec. 11. The State shall have, for the benefit of the depositors' guaranty fund, a first lien upon all the assets of such bank or trust company, and all liabilities owing or accruing to such bank or trust company; provided, however, that any deposits on which said bank was paying interest and any other deposits not insured under this act and which are entitled to share in said assets, shall share in the dividends and proceeds of such assets and collections pro rata or as may be provided by law.

Sec. 12. In the event the depositors' guaranty fund, or any part thereof, shall be used by said banking board to pay off the depositors of a national bank which has accepted the provisions of this law, then said banking board shall receive from the receiver or other officer in charge of said bank the pro rata share of the proceeds of the assets and collections which would be due to said depositors to the amount so paid by the banking board.

Sec. 13. Such bank or trust company may print or engrave upon its stationery and advertisements words to the effect that its depositors are protected by the depositors' guaranty fund of the State of Texas, and any person, or any officer or director of any bank or trust company engraving or printing a false statement as to this fact, or using such false statement upon its stationery or advertisements, shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State penitentiary not less than two nor more than five years on conviction thereof.

Sec. 14. Any State bank or banking and trust company, incorporated under the laws of this State, desiring to maintain a savings department or to use or continue to use the word "savings" as part of its corporate name, or in or as a part of any sign or advertisement, or in or upon any stationery used or to be used by it, shall establish and maintain a savings department in compliance with the provisions of this section. Such savings department may be established by the board of directors adopting a resolution providing therefor, at a regular meeting, which shall contain a copy of this section, and a certified copy of which shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and also recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such bank or banking and trust company is located; such copies to be so filed by banks or banking and trust companies maintaining savings departments and using the word "savings" as above provided at the time this act shall take effect, and which desire to continue to do so, within ninety days from the time this act shall take effect, and which desire to continue to do so, within ninety days from the time this act shall take effect, and to be filed by banks desiring to establish such savings departments after this act shall

State, certifying said bonds or notes to be first lien on the land mortgaged.

It shall be the duty of the directors of such bank or banking and trust company, as soon as practicable, to invest the moneys and funds of such savings department, by purchase or otherwise, in the securities above described, and from time to time to sell and reinvest the proceeds of such investments, but for the purpose of meeting current demands in excess of the receipt, any of the securities may be sold, or taken up and replaced in cash by the bank or banking and trust company out of its general fund, and there shall be kept on hand at all times not less than 15 per cent of the whole amount of such deposits in actual cash, in such savings department.

At the end of any period for which such bank or banking and trust company may lawfully declare a dividend upon its stock, it shall be proper to transfer to the general fund of such bank or banking and trust company all accumulated earnings of the said savings department after the payment or credit of all interest due on accrued savings deposits, and the legitimate expenses of such department have been provided for. All such savings departments shall be governed by the terms and provisions of this act so far as same are applicable and are not in conflict with the special provisions of this section, and shall also be governed by such provisions of this section and shall also be governed by such provisions of the laws of this State applicable to saving banks as are not in conflict with any provisions of this act or of this section, and such reasonable rules and regulations for the control of such savings departments may be adopted and put in force by the board of directors at any regular meeting of the stockholders at any annual meeting; provided, that such rules and regulations shall not become effective until they have been submitted to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and by him approved.

It shall be unlawful for any officer or director of any bank or banking and trust company which shall establish or maintain or continue to maintain a savings department or which shall use or continue to use the word "savings" as provided in this section to knowingly misappropriate any moneys or funds belonging to such savings department or to use or consent to the use of any such moneys or funds otherwise than for the payment of lawful demands of savings depositors, and in the making of such investments as are prescribed in this section, and in the payment of such dividends to the shareholders as are allowed by the law to be paid therefrom, or to borrow any of the funds belonging to such savings department, or to in any way be an obligor for moneys loaned by or borrowed of such savings department, or to receive or accept, directly or indirectly, any commission, brokerage or other valuable thing or favor of any kind by reason or on account of any loan or investment made out of the funds of such savings department, or to sell to such savings department any securities or other investment, or wilfully and knowingly do or perform any act or transaction, by or as a result of which at any time the assets of such savings department, including cash, shall not at least equal in amount the deposits in such savings department, at least 15 per cent of which shall be actual cash in such savings department.

Any officer or director of any State bank or banking and trust company who shall knowingly violate the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall, upon conviction, be punished by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than one nor more than five years.

Sec. 15. In the event of the voluntary liquidation of any bank or trust company operating under the provisions of the depositors' guaranty fund, when it shall be made to appear to the State Banking Board that all depositors have been paid in full, said board shall return to such bank or trust company the pro rata part paid by it into such fund then unused.

Sec. 16. Each and every State bank or trust company now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this State, which shall elect to come under the provisions of the bond security system of this act, shall on January 1, 1910, and annually thereafter file with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and his successors in office for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of such banks a bond. Such bond may be executed by individuals; provided, that in any event not less than three such individuals of sound financial responsibility shall execute the same; provided, also, that such individual sureties must be residents of the State of Texas, and must own unencumbered property situated within the State over and above all lawful exemptions, sufficient to insure their solvency upon such bond in accordance with the provisions of this act; and provided further, that in the event such bond is executed by individual surety, each of said sureties shall have the right to designate the specific amount for which he shall be held liable on such bond; provided further, that in any event such bond shall be approved by the county judge of such county in which the bank receiving deposits and making such bond is situated, and such approval by said county judge shall be made a matter of record upon the minutes of the commissioners court, and such bond shall be further subject to the approval of the Attorney General, and

All such bond security banks having a capital stock of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and less, shall execute such bond in an amount equal to double the amount of its capital stock. All such banks having a capital stock in excess of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and not more than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) shall execute such bond in an amount equal to one and one-half times the amount of its capital stock. All such bond security banks having a capital stock in excess of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) shall execute such bond in an amount equal to the amount of its capital stock. It is further provided herein that any such banks mentioned in this section whose capital stock shall be in excess of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) and which, at the time of its defaultation of the payment of its deposits as hereinafter provided, shall have in its possession and ownership good and sufficient exclusive real estate first mortgages or vendors' lien, or good and lawful interest-bearing National, State, county, municipal, school district bonds, or bonds of any political subdivision authorized by law to issue the same, or either of them, which shall be approved by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, then the liability of any such bank as principal and its sureties upon any such bond as herein provided for shall be reduced proportionately to the extent of the approved cash value of such real estate mortgages, or liens, or National, State, county, municipal, school district or other bonds, as may be determined by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking at the time of the accrued liability upon such bonds so executed by such bond security banks for the purpose of securing its depositors.

In the event any person, firm or corporation, or association of persons, executing the bond or guaranty herein provided for as sureties for any such bank shall transfer such portion of his or its property within four months prior to the notice herein provided for in case of the default of the deposits lawfully demanded as that his remaining property over and above all lawful exemptions would be insufficient to meet the requirements of his respective liability upon said bond, then, and in such event, such transfer of property shall be void as to any unpaid balance due and payable under said bond of guaranty, and there shall be and is hereby created a preferred lien upon the property so undertaken to be transferred in favor of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking as trustee for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of any such bond security bank so making default in the payment of its deposits to the extent of any portion of any unpaid legal liability due and owing upon such bond; provided that the satisfaction of such bond as provided for in this act and the terms of such bond shall satisfy and discharge such preferred lien hereinabove provided for; provided, that if any surety upon any such bond provided for in this act, who may desire to do so, shall deposit with the State Treasurer unincumbered exclusive real estate mortgage or other liens, or National, State, county, municipal, school district bonds or bonds of any political subdivision authorized by law to issue the same, or either of them, having an actual cash market value, subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking equal in amount to the liability of such surety on such bond, said Commissioner of Insurance and Banking is authorized to convert such securities so deposited, or such part thereof as may be necessary, into cash money, which shall be by him applied in satisfaction of the liability of such surety upon such bond without any legal process therefor; then, and in that event, such preference lien shall not thereafter exist. After the liability of any surety making such deposit shall expire such securities, or any portion thereof, remaining on deposit with the State Treasurer shall be returned to such surety upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking that such liability has so expired, and it shall be the duty of such Commissioner to account to such surety for any unused portion of the cash resulting from the conversion of such sureties, or any portion thereof, into cash as above provided. The bond provided for in this act shall be deemed and be held cumulative of all other laws and constitutional provisions fixing the liability of stockholders for the obligations and indebtedness of any such bank.

Sec. 24. Any national bank in this State may voluntarily avail its depositors of the protection of the bond security system herein provided for State banks.

As full compensation for the performance of the duties of examiners, each person so appointed shall be entitled to receive a salary of $2000 per annum, besides necessary traveling expenses. An itemized account of such expenses shall be rendered monthly under oath, by each examiner and shall be approved by the Commissioner."

Sec. 26. Every president, director, cashier, teller, clerk or agent of any State bank who embezzles, abstracts or wilfully misapplies any of the moneys, funds or credits of such State bank, or who, without authority from the directors, issues or puts forth any certificate of deposit, draws any order or bill of exchange, makes any acceptance, assigns any note, bond, draft, bill of exchange, mortgage, judgment or decree, or who makes any false entry in any book, report or statement of such State bank, with intent in either case to defraud such State bank, or any other corporation, body politic, or any individual person, firm or association, or to deceive any officer of such State bank, the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, or any examiner or special agent, authorized by law to examine the affairs of any such State bank, and every person who, with like intent, aids or abets any officer, clerk or agent in any violation of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and shall, upon conviction, be imprisoned in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than five years nor more than ten years.

Sec. 27. Any director of a State bank who shall either directly or indirectly borrow any of the funds of such bank in excess of 10 per cent of its capital and surplus without the consent of a majority of the directors of the bank first having been obtained and made a matter of record at a regular meeting of the board, or without the written consent of such majority of the directors other than the borrowers being jointly executed by them and filed in the archives of such bank before the loan is made, and any officer of a State bank who shall knowingly become indebted to such bank, directly or indirectly, in any sum whatever, without the consent of a majority of the board other than the borrower, obtained or recorded, or filed in like manner, and any officer or director of any such bank who shall knowingly loan or assent to the loaning of any of its funds to any officer, or any of its funds to any director in excess of 10 per cent of its capital and surplus without such consent being first obtained and recorded or filed, or who shall knowingly permit any such officer or director to become indebted to the bank or liable to it without such consent, shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than two years, upon conviction thereof.

Sec. 28. Any officer, director or employe of any State bank or trust company who knowingly or wilfully omits to perform any duty imposed upon him by law, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not less than thirty nor more than ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 29. The fact that there is no law in the State providing for a fund for the protection of depositors in banks and trust companies creates an emergency which requires that the constitutional rule that bills be read on three several days be suspended, and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

TERRELL of McLennan,
ALEXANDER.

Senator Mayfield offered the following substitute for the amendment:

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. A State Banking Board is hereby created which shall consist of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, hereinafter referred to as the Commissioner of Banking, and two citizens of this State who shall not be officers or directors of any bank or trust company taking advantage of this act, to be appointed by the Governor, which latter two members of said board shall receive as compensation for such services the sum of $10 per day for each day while actually engaged in discharge of his duties as a member of said board. Said board shall have control, managements and directions of the depositors' security fund herein provided for and shall have power and it is made their duty to adopt and promulgate from time to time rules, regulations and requirements as may be deemed necessary or proper for the accumulation, payment, managements and control and disposition of said fund and to carry out the provisions and intent of their land and inconsistent herewith.

Sec. 2. It is the intent of this act to provide for the creation of a fund to be known as the "depositors' security fund," which shall be ascertained and deemed sufficient to pay probable losses of the lawful depositors of State banks and trust companies in this State, that elect to come under the provisions of this act providing for a "depositors' security fund," and also, to provide for the securing of deposits by the execution of a bond for the purpose and in the manner herein provided for. It is not intended by this act to hold or make liable any State bank or trust company that avails itself of the "depositors' guaranty fund" for the losses to depositors occurring from failures of other State banks or trust companies, but only to the extent and by the contribution to said State security fund, as provided in this act. Each and every bank of deposit and banking and trust company or trust company availing itself of the "depositors' security fund," receiving deposits now or hereafter organized under the laws of this State shall be liable in the manner and proportion and to the extent hereafter provided to pay to the "depositors' security fund" such premiums or sums as may be ascertained to be sufficient to constitute a fund to cover the probable losses to depositors from the failure or failures of State banks or trust companies that shall avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund." Said premiums or sums to be annual premiums or sums and to be fixed and stated and to be paid at fixed and stated times. The said fund is to be accumulated and said premiums are to be ascertained and fixed and paid in the manner hereinafter provided. Said fund is to be created and accumulated by and under the direction of said State Banking Board from annual premiums to be paid by the several State banks and trust companies that elect to come under the provisions of this act providing a "depositors' security fund" and based upon their average lawful deposits and equitably and justly pro rated amongst the several banks and trust companies organized under the laws of this State, that shall avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund."

Sec. 3. Each and every State bank and trust company that elects to come under the provisions of this act providing a depositors' security fund, shall pay into said fund on or by the first day of January, 1910, in such manner as the State board may provide, a sum equal to one-half of one per cent of its daily average lawful deposits for the year 1909, not including United States, State or other public funds otherwise secured, nor deposits of other banks and trust companies, but including savings deposits unsecured and not bearing interest exceeding 5 per cent per annum. And all subsequent annual premiums shall be payable by the first day of January of each year and shall be the premiums or payments for the year preceding, and shall be based upon its daily average lawful deposits of the preceding year. Each and every State bank and trust company organized after the first day of January, 1910, that elects to come under the provisions of this act providing a "depositors' security fund" shall by the first day of January next after its organization pay into said fund one-half of one per cent of its daily average lawful deposits of the year of its organization and shall thereafter pay the annual premium or make payments to said fund in like manner as herein required of all State banks and trust companies that avail themselves of the provisions of this act creating the "depositors' security fund." All premiums or payments to said fund due or owing any State bank or trust company to said fund shall constitute a preference claim or lien upon the assets of said bank and trust company and the same shall apply to any bank or trust company or banking corporation which may have failed while due or owing any such premiums or payment either for that or any previous year.

Sec. 4. Said banking board shall as soon after its organization as is practicable make a full investigation and ascertain and determine after due investigation what sums or premiums paid annually upon the daily average lawful deposits of the State banks and trust companies protected by the "de-positors' security fund" as provided herein, will create and provide a fund deemed sufficient to pay the probable losses sustained by the depositors of such bank and trust companies that shall avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund" from any failures of such banks and trust companies. In ascertaining and fixing such annual premiums or payments, said banking board shall take a sufficient given period of years and from all data and information available shall determine what sum or fund will cover the probable losses to the depositors from failure of State banks and trust companies availing themselves of the "depositors' security fund" during such period of years, and said board shall ascertain, determine and fix an annual premium upon the lawful deposits of such State banks and trust companies availing themselves of the "depositors' security fund," as when collected will create and provide a fund which will cover the probable losses accruing to such depositors from the failure of the State banks and trust companies availing themselves of the "depositors' security fund," ascertained and determined by said board; which annual premiums or payments as ascertained and established shall be paid by every bank and trust company electing to come under the provisions of this act providing a "depositors' security fund," ratable in proportion to its daily average lawful deposits covered by this act; provided no bank or trust company availing itself of the "depositors' security fund" shall be required to pay during any one year any sum created or in excess of the premiums or payments so fixed and established, and provided further, that said premium or payment shall never exceed one-fourth of one per cent of any one year, except for the first year. It is the intention of this act to create a fund for the security of deposits to the extent that such annual premiums or payments and the accumulation therefrom will constitute as herein provided.

Sec. 5. Whenever there shall be on hand a surplus of said fund, after paying the losses to depositors which may have occurred as provided in this act, and when such surplus in the judgment of said board, is sufficient to justify either the suspension of or reduction in the collection of further sums or premiums from the banks and trust companies which have contributed to said surplus, then said board shall reduce or suspend such payments and in subsequent collection of premiums or payments for a year or years shall make due and equitable allowances to or give proper credit to the several banks and trust companies for their respective contributions to said fund, and said banking board shall keep or cause to be kept an account with each bank and trust company showing the amounts paid to said fund by each bank, and said board shall keep or cause to be kept books and records showing when said fund was collected, from whom said fund was collected and the amount of same; and should it become necessary for said board to pay out said fund or any part thereof by reason of any failure or failures of any State bank or trust company, said board shall keep a record of such amount as paid, when the same was paid out and to whom said amount was paid; and shall make an annual detailed report in writing and under oath to the Governor of this State, showing the amount of money received by said board, when and from whom received, the amounts paid out, when and to whom same was paid, if anything, and the amount available of said fund.

Sec. 6. The fund herein provided for shall be deposited with the State Treasurer, who shall be the official custodian of said fund, and who shall cause to be kept a separate account of the same; and said fund shall be paid out on warrants or orders issued by said Banking Board; and said fund, nor any part thereof, shall never be diverted from the purposes herein specified. Said Banking Board may provide from time to time for the deposit of any portion of said fund in the State depositories, subject to the call of said board, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by said board.

Sec. 7. Whenever the surplus accumulated in the said fund shall be deemed by said Banking Board more than sufficient to constitute an available fund for the payment of probable losses, said board shall convert so much of said surplus as may not be required as an available fund for investment, and said board shall invest such fund in good and sufficient State, county or municipal bonds, bearing a rate of interest not less than three per cent per annum, and the interest which shall accrue on the investment of any part of the surplus which the Banking Board may invest in State, county or municipal bonds shall be paid back by the Banking Board as dividends to the several banks and trust companies in proportion to which they have contributed to said surplus; provided, that the Banking Board does not think the interest accrued should be retained and added to the available funds and all of said funds both available and invested shall at all times constitute a fund for the payment of depositors as herein provided and said fund shall be a trust fund for the benefit of depositors and of banks and trust companies contributing thereto.

Sec. 8. All State banks and trust companies now organized under the laws of this State or that may hereafter be organized under the laws of this State shall and are hereby required to secure their depositors by either complying with the provisions of this act creating the "depositors' security fund" or by filing the bond with the Commissioner of Banking as herein provided, as they may elect so to do. And should any State bank or trust company organized under the laws of this State refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Banking to revoke or forfeit the charter of the State bank or trust company so refusing to comply with the provisions of this act. All banks and trust companies electing under the provisions of this act to avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund," as defined in this act, or to execute the bond as defined in this act, shall file with the Commissioner of Banking proper evidence of such action prior to January 1, 1910, and shall be entitled to exercise all the rights and privileges granted to such banks on and after said date, and all banks and trust companies thereafter exercising either of said options shall be entitled to exercise such rights and privileges on and after the election and filing thereof.

Sec. 9. Whenever any State bank or trust company subject to the provisions of this act, creating the "depositors' security fund," shall become insolvent or fail, and its affairs shall come into the hands of the Commissioner of Banking or any other officer or person legally authorized to administer its affairs, as provided by law, then said fund shall be used to pay the lawful depositors of said bank who are not otherwise secured and the savings depositors not secured and whose deposits do not bear interest exceeding five per cent per annum, the losses sustained by them by reason of such deposits, but said funds shall not be used to pay United States, State or other public funds which are secured, nor any accumulation of interest upon any deposits or savings deposits nor deposits due to other banks, bankers or trust companies. But all the funds and assets of such banks or trust companies as avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund" for the payment of depositors which are available or which may be converted into cash within such reasonable time as may be fixed by said Banking Board, shall first be used for that purpose, and then the balance due upon the deposits protected by the "depositors' security fund" shall be paid out of said fund. If the fund on hand shall not be sufficient to pay the claim of such depositors in full, then the said board shall issue evidence of such unpaid balances, under such rules as the board may prescribe, and said balances shall be paid out of said fund whenever the same shall be sufficient for that purpose. Whenever any portion of said fund has been used to pay depositors under this act, then the assets of said bank or trust company availing itself of the "depositors' security fund" for the payment of depositors and which would go to the payment of depositors, which may be left over after the payment in full of its deposit liabilities shall belong to and shall be paid over to said fund to the extent to which said fund may be used.

Sec. 10. The Commissioner of Banking shall issue to all State banks and trust companies electing to comply with the provisions of this act creating the "depositors' security fund" a certificate to that effect, which shall be posted in the office of such bank or trust company. Such banks or trust companies complying with the provisions of this act creating the "depositors' security fund" may print upon its stationery or advertisements words to the effect, "The depositors of this bank are secured in the 'depositors' security fund,'" but no bank or trust company or any officer or employee thereof shall print or advertise in this State or out of it or make any other representation to the effect that its depositors are guaranteed by the State; nor shall any bank, trust company or officer or employee make any false representation or statement in regard to such security; and any bank or trust company violating this section shall have its charter revoked or be subject to pay a fine of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, for the benefit of said fund upon the suit of the Banking Board; and any such officer or employee violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a criminal offense and be fined in any sum not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year.

Sec. 11. Each and every State bank and trust company heretofore incorporated under the laws of this State or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this State, unless it elects to come under the provisions of the act providing a "depositors' security fund" shall file with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking a good and sufficient bond, payable to the Commissioner of Banking and his successors in office for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of such banks. Such bond may be executed by individuals, provided that in any event not less than three such individuals of sound financial responsibility shall execute the same; provided, also, that each individual surety must be a resident of the State of Texas, and must own unincumbered property situated within the State over and above all lawful exemptions, sufficient to insure their solvency upon such bond in accordance with the provisions of this act, and provided further, that in the event if such bond is executed by individual surety each of said sureties shall have the right to designate the specific amount for which he shall be held liable on such bond; provided further, that in any event such bond shall be approved by the commissioners court of such county in which the bank receiving deposits and making such bond is situated and such approval by said commissioners court shall be made a matter of record upon the minutes of said court, and such bond shall be further subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Banking, and by him filed in his office and recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose; such banks shall execute such bond in an amount equal to its capital stock; provided further, that any surety upon any such bond provided for in this act, who may desire to do so, shall deposit with the State Treasurer unincumbered exclusive real estate mortgage or other liens, or National, State, county, municipal, school district bonds or bonds of any political subdivision authorized by law to issue the same, or either of them, having an actual cash market value, subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Banking equal in amount to the liability of such surety on such bond upon the terms and conditions that in case of default upon such bond, said Commissioner of Banking is authorized to convert such securities so deposited, or such part thereof as may be necessary, into cash, which shall be by him applied in satisfaction of the liability of such surety upon such bond without any legal process therefor. After the liability of any surety making such deposit shall expire, such securities or any portion thereof, remaining on deposit with the State Treasurer shall be returned to such surety upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Banking that such liability has so expired, and it shall be the duty of such Commissioner to account to such surety for any unused portion of the cash money resulting from the conversion of such securities, or any portion thereof, into cash as above provided. The bond provided for in this act shall be deemed and held to be cumulative of all laws and constitutional provisions fixing the liability of stockholders for the obligations and indebtedness of any such bank.

Sec. 12. The bond provided for in the preceding section of this act shall be in form and substance as follows:

Sec. 13. The Commissioner of Banking shall be entitled to charge a fee not to exceed twenty dollars ($20) to be paid by the bank executing the bond as hereinafter provided for the examination of any such bond provided for in Sections 4 and 5 of this act provided that in case he shall approve and file same, no additional amount shall be charged for such approval and filing. Out of the proceeds of the fee, the Commissioner shall defray the expenses of investigating the solvency of the sureties upon such bond if any such expenses are incurred and the remainder thereof shall be paid into the general revenue fund of this State.

Sec. 14. The security provided for by this act in Sections 11 and 12 to be executed by bank and trust companies so electing, for the benefits of their depositors may consist of more than one bond, provided that the total amount of liability upon such bond or bonds so filed shall be equal to the amount provided for in this act. Sec. 15. In the event of the default by any such bank or trust company transacting business or receiving deposits, in the payment of any deposit lawfully due, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Banking when such default shall be made known to him to report same forthwith to the Attorney General of the State of Texas, and to give notice thereof to every and all persons who may be obligated by reason of such default, and the conditions of the bond herein provided for and upon the mailing of such notice the full amount of the said bond shall at once become due and payable. And it shall further be the duty of the makers and signers of such bond to pay immediately

All proceeds thus arising herewith from voluntary payments or otherwise, shall be by the Commissioner of Banking or his special agent promptly paid in full or pro rata to all unpaid lawful depositors, upon presentation to him of satisfactory proofs of their claims, which proofs shall be received and filed in his office and a record thereof made by him in a book to be kept for that purpose before payment of any such depositor shall be made and approved by him, and a full report of all such claims and payments signed by said Commissioner of Banking under oath shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such bank is located. In the event any maker or signer as surety of such bond shall be a corporation, incorporated under the laws of Texas, and it shall refuse and fail to pay upon demand as hereinabove provided for the full amount due by it upon such bond its charter shall thereby become subject to forfeiture, and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General of the State of Texas, upon receiving notice thereof from the Commissioner of Banking, to bring suit in the district court of any county in this State where he may elect, to forfeit such charter and upon a hearing thereof decree and judgment may be rendered annulling and forfeiting the charter of such corporation.

In the event any maker or signer as surety of such bond shall be a corporation, incorporated elsewhere than in the State of Texas, and transacting business in this State under a permit from the State, and which shall refuse and fail to pay on demand therefor by the Commissioner of Banking, as herein provided for, the full amount of its liability upon such bond, it shall thereupon be the duty of the Commissioner of Banking to thereafter suspend the permit of said corporation to transact business in this State, until it shall be shown to his satisfaction that it has fully discharged its liability upon such bond upon the default thus made.

Sec. 16. In the event such persons, firms, corporations so executing such bond shall make default in the payment of the same lawfully demanded for a period of fifteen days after such demand and the obligations of such bond are not discharged, it shall be the duty of the Attorney General or any district or county attorney, acting at his instance, to bring suit upon such bond in the name of the State of Texas for the benefit of all persons who may be beneficiaries of said bond by reason of its terms and conditions; such suit shall be instituted in the district court of the county where the bank or trust company executing such bond had its principal place of business at the time of its failure or in any county immediately adjacent thereto, at the option of the Attorney General. The proceeds collected by any such suit or action shall be distributed by the Commissioner of Banking to the depositors entitled thereto in the same manner provided in this act with respect to payments voluntarily made by sureties upon such bonds.

In the event such banks and trust companies shall refuse to or fail to comply with such requirements, the Commissioner of Banking shall proceed as is provided for by law in the case of insolvent banks.

Sec. 18. If any cashier, director or other officer or employe of, or any person connected with any bank or trust company as defined in this act, shall knowingly transfer or otherwise dispose of any of its real estate, mortgage, or lien or any of its National, State, county, municipal, school district or other bonds when such bank or trust company is in a failing or insolvent condition, such cashier, director or other officer or employe of or any person connected with such bank or trust company so transferring the same or aiding, assisting or abetting or knowingly assenting to any such transfer, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, for which prosecution may be had in the district court of the county where such bank or trust company is located, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned in the State penitentiary for not less than two nor more than five years.

Sec. 19. Any national bank in this State approved by the Commissioner of Banking, may voluntarily avail its depositors of the protection of the provisions of this act by application to the State Banking Board in writing, and the said application may be granted upon terms and conditions in harmony with the purposes of this act, to be agreed upon by the State Banking Board, the Commissioner of Banking and the Comptroller of Currency of the United States of America; provided that in the event national banks should be required by Federal enactment to pay assessments to any bank guaranty fund of the Federal Government and thereby the depositors in the national banks in this State should be secured by virtue of Federal Laws, that the national banks having availed themselves of the benefits of this act may withdraw therefrom and have returned to them the unused portion of all premiums levied upon and paid by said banks and trust companies, however, should the courts declare this section of this bill unconstitutional or unauthorized by law, or in conflict with any other section or provisions of this act, or with any existing banking laws of this State, then such decision shall affect only this section, such section being independent of the other sections of this act.

Sec. 20. Each and every national bank heretofore incorporated, organized and existing under and by virtue of the banking laws of the United States of America, shall have the right and privilege at its option, and authority is hereby granted unto each and all such national banks, in so far as the State of Texas may have authority so to do, to come within and under the terms, regulations and stipulations of the provisions of this act for the security of deposits. The words "State banks" when used in this act shall be held to include and apply to all banking corporations heretofore incorporated or which may hereafter be incorporated under the banking laws of this State.

Sec. 21. It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Banking to issue to each State bank or trust company which the State Banking Board shall have approved and certified to him as provided in this act, as being entitled to transact a banking business, a certificate of authority in such form as the State Banking Board shall approve, to be signed by him under his official seal, certifying that such State bank is authorized under the laws of this State to engage in the banking business.

The Commissioner of Banking shall close all State banks and trust companies which the State board shall disapprove and determine not entitled under the laws of this State to transact a banking business, and shall proceed in such cases in the manner provided for by law with respect to insolvent banks, unless such banks shall go into voluntary liquidation.

Sec. 22. The Commissioner of Banking shall issue to all banks and trust companies securing their deposits as provided in Sections 11 and 12 of this act, a certificate to that effect which shall be posted on the office of such banks or trust companies. Such banks or trust companies may print upon its stationery and advertisement words to this effect: "The depositors of this bank or trust company are protected by security bonds under the laws of this State." Any bank or trust company or any officer, director, stockholder or other person for any such bank or trust company who shall write, print, publish or advertise in any manner, or by any means, or permit any one for them, or for said bank or trust company to write, print, publish or advertise any statement that the depositors of any such bank or trust company are secured otherwise than is permitted in this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $1000, or be punished by im-

Pending the reading of the substitute, on motion of Senator Watson, the same was dispensed with.

Amend the bill by striking out all after the enacting clause, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Each and every bank of deposit or discount or banking and trust company hereafter incorporated under the laws of this State shall be and is hereby required to secure the payment of funds deposited with any such bank or trust company, by giving a bond as hereinafter provided or by availing its depositors of the protection of the State bank guaranty fund, to be created in the manner hereinafter set forth; all banks or banking and trust companies taking advantage of this act by securing their depositors by bond as hereinafter provided shall be denominated herein as bond security banks; all banks or banking and trust companies availing their depositors of the protection of the State bank guaranty fund as hereinafter provided, shall be denominated herein as guaranty fund banks; and whenever in this act the words bond security banks are used and applied the same shall be deemed and held to apply to all such banks, banking and trust companies as may secure their deposits by the bond system hereinafter provided for; whenever the words guaranty fund banks are used or applied in this act the same shall be deemed and held to apply to each and every such bank or banking and trust company availing its depositors of the protection of the State bank guaranty fund.

Sec. 2. Each and every bank of deposit or discount or banking and trust company heretofore organized and incorporated under and by virtue of Chapter 10 of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas and known as the State banking law, shall be required to secure its deposits by the manner, methods and under the terms, provisions and regulations as set forth in this act for bond security banks or guaranty fund banks; provided, that any such banks or banking and trust companies so securing their depositors shall have the privilege and option of accepting and coming in under the terms and provisions of this act as the same applies to bond security banks or guaranty fund banks; such option and privilege to be exercised in the manner as hereinafter provided. Nothing in this act shall be construed as making it compulsory for any such bank or banking and trust company heretofore incorporated to accept either the bond security system or the guaranty fund system, but the adoption of either such system as to them shall be voluntary.

Sec. 3. Each and every National bank heretofore incorporated, organized and existing under and by virtue of the banking laws of the United States of America shall have the right and privilege at its option, and authority is hereby granted unto each and all such National banks, in so far as the State of Texas may have authority so to do, to come within and under the terms, regulations and stipulations of the provisions of this act for the security of deposits by either the bond security system or the guaranty fund bank system, as hereinafter set forth. The words "State banks" when used in this act shall be held to include and apply to all banking corporations heretofore incorporated or which may hereafter be incorporated under the banking laws of this State.

Sec. 4. Each and every State bank hereafter incorporated, which shall elect to come under the provisions of this act as a bond security bank, shall file annually with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking a good and sufficient bond, payable to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and his successors in office for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of such banks. Such bond may be executed by individuals; provided, that in any event not less than three such individuals of sound financial responsibility shall execute the same; provided, also, that such individual sureties must be residents of the State of Texas, and must own unincumbered property situated within the State over and above all lawful exemptions, sufficient to insure their solvency upon such bond in accordance with the provisions of this act; and provided further, that in the event such bond is executed by individual surety each of said sureties shall have the right to designate the specific amount for which he shall be held liable on such bond; provided further, that in any event such bond shall be approved by the commissioners court of such county in which the bank receiving deposits and making such bond is situated, and such approval by said commissioners court shall be made a matter of record upon the minutes of said court, and such bond shall be further subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and by him filed in his office and recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose; such bond shall be executed in respective amounts according to the respective amounts of its capital stock, as follows, to-wit:

All such bond security banks having a capital stock of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and less, shall execute such bond in an amount equal to double the amount of its capital stock. All such banks having a capital stock in excess of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and not more than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) shall execute such bond in an amount equal to one and one-half times the amount of its capital stock. All such bond security banks having a capital stock in excess of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) shall execute such bond in an amount equal to the amount of its capital stock. It is further provided herein that any such banks mentioned in this section whose capital stock shall be in excess of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) and which, at the time of its defalcation of the payments of its deposits as hereinafter provided, shall have in its possession and ownership good and sufficient exclusive real estate first mortgages or vendors' lien, or good and lawful interest-bearing National, State, county, municipal, school district bonds, or bonds of any political subdivision authorized by law to issue the same, or either of them, which shall be approved by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, then the liability of any such bank as principal and its sureties upon any such bond as herein provided for shall be reduced proportionately to the extent of the approved cash value of such real estate mortgages, or liens, or National, State, county, municipal, school district or other bonds, as may be determined by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking at the time of the accrued liability upon such bonds so executed by such bond security banks for the purpose of securing its depositors.

In the event any person, firm or corporation, or association of persons, executing the bond or guaranty herein provided for as sureties for any such bank shall transfer such portion of his or its property within four months prior to the notice herein provided for in case of the default of the deposits lawfully demanded as that his remaining property over and above all lawful exemptions would be insufficient to meet the requirements of his respective liability upon said bond, and in such event, such transfer of such property shall be void as to any unpaid balance due and payable under said bond or guaranty, and there shall be and is hereby created a preferred lien upon the property so undertaken to be transferred in favor of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking as trustee for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of any such bond security bank so making default in the payment of its deposits to the extent of any portion of any unpaid legal liability due and owing upon such bond; provided, that the satisfaction of such bond as provided for in this act and the terms of such bond shall satisfy and discharge such preferred lien hereinabove provided for; provided, that if any surety upon any such bond provided for in this act, who may desire to do so, shall deposit with the State Treasurer unincumbered exclusive real estate mortgage or other liens, or National, State, county, municipal, school district bonds or bonds of any political subdivision authorized by law to issue the same, or either of them, having an actual cash market value, subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking equal in amount to the liability of such surety on such bond upon the terms and conditions that in case of default upon such bond, said Commissioner of Insurance and Banking is authorized to convert such securities so deposited, or such part thereof as may be necessary, into cash money, which shall be by him applied in satisfaction of the liability of such surety upon such bond without any legal process therefor; then, and in that event, such preference lien shall not thereafter exist. After the liability of any surety making such deposit shall expire, such securities, or any portion thereof remaining on deposit with the State Treasurer shall be returned to such surety upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking that such liability has so expired, and it shall be the duty of such Commissioner to account to such surety for any unused portion of the cash money resulting from the conversion of such securities, or any portion thereof, into cash as above provided. The bond provided for in this act shall be deemed and held to be cumulative of all other laws and constitutional provisions fixing the liability of stockholders for the obligations and indebtedness of any such bank.

Sec. 5. The bond provided for in the preceding section of this act shall be in form and substance as follows:

Sec. 16. Each and every State bank or trust company now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this State, which shall elect to come under the provisions of the bond security system of this act, shall on January 1, 1910, and annually thereafter file with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and his successors in office for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of such banks a bond. Such bond may be executed by individuals; provided, that in any event not less than three such individuals of sound financial responsibility shall execute the same; provided, also, that such individual sureties must be residents of the State of Texas, and must own unencumbered property situated within the State over and above all lawful exemptions, sufficient to insure their solvency upon such bond in accordance with the provisions of this act; and provided further, that in the event such bond is executed by individual surety, each of said sureties shall have the right to designate the specific amount for which he shall be held liable on such bond; provided further, that in any event such bond shall be approved by the county judge of such county in which the bank receiving deposits and making such bond is situated, and such approval by said county judge shall be made a matter of record upon the minutes of the commissioners court, and such bond shall be further subject to the approval of the Attorney General, and

All such bond security banks having a capital stock in excess of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) shall execute such bond in an amount equal to the amount of its capital stock. In the event any person, firm or corporation, or association of persons, executing the bond or guaranty herein provided for as sureties for any such bank shall transfer such portion of his or its property within four months prior to the notice herein provided for in case of the default of the deposits lawfully demanded as that his remaining property over and above all lawful exemptions would be insufficient to meet the requirements of his respective liability upon said bond, then, and in such event, such transfer of property shall be void as to any unpaid balance due and payable under said bond of guaranty, and there shall be and is hereby created a preferred lien upon the property so undertaken to be transferred in favor of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking as trustee for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of any such bond security bank so making default in the payment of its deposits to the extent of any portion of any unpaid legal liability due and owing upon such bond; provided that the satisfaction of such bond as provided for in this act and the terms of such bond shall satisfy and discharge such preferred lien hereinabove provided for; provided, that if any surety upon any such bond provided for in this act, who may desire to do so, shall deposit with the State Treasurer unincumbered exclusive real estate mortgage or other liens, or National, State, county, municipal, school district bonds or bonds of any political subdivision authorized by law to issue the same, or either of them, having an actual cash market value, subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking equal in amount to the liability of such surety on such bond, said Commissioner of Insurance and Banking is authorized to convert such securities so deposited, or such part thereof as may be necessary, into cash money, which shall be by him applied in satisfaction of the liability of such surety upon such bond without any legal process therefor; then, and in that event, such preference lien shall not thereafter exist. After the liability of any surety making such deposit shall expire such securities, or any portion thereof, remaining on deposit with the State Treasurer shall be returned to such surety upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking that such liability has so expired, and it shall be the duty of such Commissioner to account to such surety for any unused portion of the cash resulting from the conversion of such sureties, or any portion thereof, into cash as above provided. The bond provided for in this act shall be deemed and be held cumulative of all other laws and constitutional provisions fixing the liability of stockholders for the obligations and indebtedness of any such bank.

An itemized account of such expenses shall be rendered monthly under oath, by each examiner and shall be approved by the Commissioner."

Sec. 26. Every president, director, cashier, teller, clerk or agent of any State bank who embezzles, abstracts or wilfully misapplies any of the moneys, funds or credits of such State bank, or who, without authority from the directors, issues or puts forth any certificate of deposit, draws any order or bill of exchange, makes any acceptance, assigns any note, bond, draft, bill of exchange, mortgage, judgment or decree, or who makes any false entry in any book, report or statement of such State bank, with intent in either case to defraud such State bank, or any other corporation, body politic, or any individual person, firm or association, or to deceive any officer of such State bank, the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, or any examiner or special agent, authorized by law to examine the affairs of any such State bank, and every person who, with like intent, aids or abets any officer, clerk or agent in any violation of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and shall, upon conviction, be imprisoned in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than five years nor more than ten years.

Sec. 27. Any director of a State bank who shall either directly or indirectly borrow any of the funds of such bank in excess of 10 per cent of its capital and surplus without the consent of a majority of the directors of the bank first having been obtained and made a matter of record at a regular meeting of the board, or without the written consent of such majority of the directors other than the borrowers being jointly executed by them and filed in the archives of such bank before the loan is made, and any officer of a State bank who shall knowingly become indebted to such bank, directly or indirectly, in any sum whatever, without the consent of a majority of the board other than the borrower, obtained or recorded, or filed in like manner, and any officer or director of any such bank who shall knowingly loan or assent to the loaning of any of its funds to any officer, or any of its funds to any director in excess of 10 per cent of its capital and surplus without such consent being first obtained and recorded or filed, or who shall knowingly permit any such officer or director to become indebted to the bank or liable to it without such consent, shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than two years, upon conviction thereof.

Sec. 28. Sec. 29. The fact that there is no law in the State providing for a fund for the protection of depositors in banks and trust companies creates an emergency which requires that the constitutional rule that bills be read on three several days be suspended, and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

TERRELL of McLennan,
ALEXANDER.

Senator Mayfield offered the following substitute for the amendment:

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. A State Banking Board is hereby created which shall consist of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, hereinafter referred to as the Commissioner of Banking, and two citizens of this State who shall not be officers or directors of any bank or trust company taking advantage of this act, to be appointed by the Governor, which latter two members of said board shall receive as compensation for such services the sum of $10 per day for each day while actually engaged in discharge of his duties as a member of said board. Said board shall have control, managements and directions of the depositors' security fund herein provided for and shall have power and it is made their duty to adopt and promulgate from time to time rules, regulations and requirements as may be deemed necessary or proper for the accumulation, payment, managements and control and disposition of said fund and to carry out the provisions and intent of their land and inconsistent herewith.

Sec. 2. It is the intent of this act to provide for the creation of a fund to be known as the "depositors' security fund," which shall be ascertained and deemed sufficient to pay probable losses of the lawful depositors of State banks and trust companies in this State, that elect to come under the provisions of this act providing for a "depositors' security fund," and also, to provide for the securing of deposits by the execution of a bond for the purpose and in the manner herein provided for. It is not intended by this act to hold or make liable any State bank or trust company that avails itself of the "depositors' guaranty fund" for the losses to depositors occurring from failures of other State banks or trust companies, but only to the extent and by the contribution to said State security fund, as provided in this act. Each and every bank of deposit and banking and trust company or trust company availing itself of the "depositors' security fund," receiving deposits now or hereafter organized under the laws of this State shall be liable in the manner and proportion and to the extent hereafter provided to pay to the "depositors' security fund" such premiums or sums as may be ascertained to be sufficient to constitute a fund to cover the probable losses to depositors from the failure or failures of State banks or trust companies that shall avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund." Said premiums or sums to be annual premiums or sums and to be fixed and stated and to be paid at fixed and stated times. The said fund is to be accumulated and said premiums are to be ascertained and fixed and paid in the manner hereinafter provided. Said fund is to be created and accumulated by and under the direction of said State Banking Board from annual premiums to be paid by the several State banks and trust companies that elect to come under the provisions of this act providing a "depositors' security fund" and based upon their average lawful deposits and equitably and justly pro rated amongst the several banks and trust companies organized under the laws of this State, that shall avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund."

Sec. 3. Each and every State bank and trust company that elects to come under the provisions of this act providing a depositors' security fund, shall pay into said fund on or by the first day of January, 1910, in such manner as the State board may provide, a sum equal to one-half of one per cent of its daily average lawful deposits for the year 1909, not including United States, State or other public funds otherwise secured, nor deposits of other banks and trust companies, but including savings deposits unsecured and not bearing interest exceeding 5 per cent per annum. And all subsequent annual premiums shall be payable by the first day of January of each year and shall be the premiums or payments for the year preceding, and shall be based upon its daily average lawful deposits of the preceding year. Each and every State bank and trust company organized after the first day of January, 1910, that elects to come under the provisions of this act providing a "depositors' security fund" shall by the first day of January next after its organization pay into said fund one-half of one per cent of its daily average lawful deposits of the year of its organization and shall thereafter pay the annual premium or make payments to said fund in like manner as herein required of all State banks and trust companies that avail themselves of the provisions of this act creating the "depositors' security fund." All premiums or payments to said fund due or owing any State bank or trust company to said fund shall constitute a preference claim or lien upon the assets of said bank and trust company and the same shall apply to any bank or trust company or banking corporation which may have failed while due or owing any such premiums or payment either for that or any previous year.

Sec. 4. Said banking board shall as soon after its organization as is practicable make a full investigation and ascertain and determine after due investigation what sums or premiums paid annually upon the daily average lawful deposits of the State banks and trust companies protected by the "de-positors' security fund" as provided herein, will create and provide a fund deemed sufficient to pay the probable losses sustained by the depositors of such bank and trust companies that shall avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund" from any failures of such banks and trust companies. In ascertaining and fixing such annual premiums or payments, said banking board shall take a sufficient given period of years and from all data and information available shall determine what sum or fund will cover the probable losses to the depositors from failure of State banks and trust companies availing themselves of the "depositors' security fund" during such period of years, and said board shall ascertain, determine and fix an annual premium upon the lawful deposits of such State banks and trust companies availing themselves of the "depositors' security fund," as when collected will create and provide a fund which will cover the probable losses accruing to such depositors from the failure of the State banks and trust companies availing themselves of the "depositors' security fund," ascertained and determined by said board; which annual premiums or payments as ascertained and established shall be paid by every bank and trust company electing to come under the provisions of this act providing a "depositors' security fund," ratable in proportion to its daily average lawful deposits covered by this act; provided no bank or trust company availing itself of the "depositors' security fund" shall be required to pay during any one year any sum created or in excess of the premiums or payments so fixed and established, and provided further, that said premium or payment shall never exceed one-fourth of one per cent of any one year, except for the first year. It is the intention of this act to create a fund for the security of deposits to the extent that such annual premiums or payments and the accumulation therefrom will constitute as herein provided.

Sec. 5. Whenever there shall be on hand a surplus of said fund, after paying the losses to depositors which may have occurred as provided in this act, and when such surplus in the judgment of said board, is sufficient to justify either the suspension of or reduction in the collection of further sums or premiums from the banks and trust companies which have contributed to said surplus, then said board shall reduce or suspend such payments and in subsequent collection of premiums or payments for a year or years shall make due and equitable allowances to or give proper credit to the several banks and trust companies for their respective contributions to said fund, and said banking board shall keep or cause to be kept an account with each bank and trust company showing the amounts paid to said fund by each bank, and said board shall keep or cause to be kept books and records showing when said fund was collected, from whom said fund was collected and the amount of same; and should it become necessary for said board to pay out said fund or any part thereof by reason of any failure or failures of any State bank or trust company, said board shall keep a record of such amount as paid, when the same was paid out and to whom said amount was paid; and shall make an annual detailed report in writing and under oath to the Governor of this State, showing the amount of money received by said board, when and from whom received, the amounts paid out, when and to whom same was paid, if anything, and the amount available of said fund.

Sec. 6. The fund herein provided for shall be deposited with the State Treasurer, who shall be the official custodian of said fund, and who shall cause to be kept a separate account of the same; and said fund shall be paid out on warrants or orders issued by said Banking Board; and said fund, nor any part thereof, shall never be diverted from the purposes herein specified. Said Banking Board may provide from time to time for the deposit of any portion of said fund in the State depositories, subject to the call of said board, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by said board.

Sec. 7. Whenever the surplus accumulated in the said fund shall be deemed by said Banking Board more than sufficient to constitute an available fund for the payment of probable losses, said board shall convert so much of said surplus as may not be required as an available fund for investment, and said board shall invest such fund in good and sufficient State, county or municipal bonds, bearing a rate of interest not less than three per cent per annum, and the interest which shall accrue on the investment of any part of the surplus which the Banking Board may invest in State, county or municipal bonds shall be paid back by the Banking Board as dividends to the several banks and trust companies in proportion to which they have contributed to said surplus; provided, that the Banking Board does not think the interest accrued should be retained and added to the available fund; and all of said fund, both available and invested, shall at all times constitute a fund for the payment of depositors as herein provided, and said fund shall be a trust fund for the benefit of depositors and of banks and trust companies contributing thereto.

Sec. 8. All State banks and trust companies now organized under the laws of this State or that may hereafter be organized under the laws of this State shall and are hereby required to secure their depositors by either complying with the provisions of this act creating the "depositors' security fund" or by filing the bond with the Commissioner of Banking as herein provided, as they may elect so to do. And should any State bank or trust company organized under the laws of this State refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Banking to revoke or forfeit the charter of the State bank or trust company so refusing to comply with the provisions of this act. All banks and trust companies electing under the provisions of this act to avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund," as defined in this act, or to execute the bond as defined in this act, shall file with the Commissioner of Banking proper evidence of such action prior to January 1, 1910, and shall be entitled to exercise all the rights and privileges granted to such banks on and after said date, and all banks and trust companies thereafter exercising either of said options shall be entitled to exercise such rights and privileges on and after the election and filing thereof.

Sec. 9. Whenever any State bank or trust company subject to the provisions of this act, creating the "depositors' security fund," shall become insolvent or fail, and its affairs shall come into the hands of the Commissioner of Banking or any other officer or person legally authorized to administer its affairs, as provided by law, then said fund shall be used to pay the lawful depositors of said bank who are not otherwise secured and the savings depositors not secured and whose deposits do not bear interest exceeding five per cent per annum, the losses sustained by them by reason of such deposits, but said funds shall not be used to pay United States, State or other public funds which are secured, nor any accumulation of interest upon any deposits or savings deposits nor deposits due to other banks, bankers or trust companies. But all the funds and assets of such banks or trust companies as avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund" for the payment of depositors which are available or which may be converted into cash within such reasonable time as may be fixed by said Banking Board, shall first be used for that purpose, and then the balance due upon the deposits protected by the "depositors' security fund" shall be paid out of said fund. If the fund on hand shall not be sufficient to pay the claim of such depositors in full, then the said board shall issue evidence of such unpaid balances. Under such rules as the board may prescribe, and said balances shall be paid out of said fund whenever the same shall be sufficient for that purpose. Whenever any portion of said fund has been used to pay depositors under this act, then the assets of said bank or trust company availing itself of the "depositors' security fund" for the payment of depositors and which would go to the payment of depositors, which may be left over after the payment in full of its deposit liabilities shall belong to and shall be paid over to said fund to the extent to which said fund may be used.

Sec. 10. The Commissioner of Banking shall issue to all State banks and trust companies electing to comply with the provisions of this act creating the "depositors' security fund" a certificate to that effect, which shall be posted in the office of such bank or trust company. Such banks or trust companies complying with the provisions of this act creating the "depositors' security fund" may print upon its stationery or advertisements words to the effect, "The depositors of this bank are secured in the 'depositors' security fund;" but no bank or trust company or any officer or employe thereof shall print or advertise in this State or out of it or make any other representation to the effect that its depositors are guaranteed by the State; nor shall any bank, trust company or officer or employe make any false representation or statement in regard to such security; and any bank or trust company violating this section shall have its charter revoked or be subject to pay a fine of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, for the benefit of said fund upon the suit of the Banking Board; and any such officer or employe violating any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a criminal offense and be fined in any sum not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year.

Sec. 11. Each and every State bank and trust company heretofore incorporated under the laws of this State or hereafter incorporated under the laws of this State, unless it elects to come under the provisions of the act providing a "depositors' security fund" shall file with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking a good and sufficient bond, payable to the Commissioner of Banking and his successors in office for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of such banks. Such bond may be executed by individuals, provided that in any event not less than three such individuals of sound financial responsibility shall execute the same; provided, also, that each individual surety must be a resident of the State of Texas, and must own unincumbered property situated within the State over and above all lawful exemptions, sufficient to insure their solvency upon such bond in accordance with the provisions of this act, and provided further, that in the event if such bond is executed by individual surety each of said sureties shall have the right to designate the specific amount for which he shall be held liable on such bond; provided further, that in any event such bond shall be approved by the commissioners court of such county in which the bank receiving deposits and making such bond is situated and such approval by said commissioners court shall be made a matter of record upon the minutes of said court, and such bond shall be further subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Banking, and by him filed in his office and recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose; such banks shall execute such bond in an amount equal to its capital stock; provided further, that any surety upon any such bond provided for in this act, who may desire to do so, shall deposit with the State Treasurer unincumbered exclusive real estate mortgage or other liens, or National, State, county, municipal, school district bonds or bonds of any political subdivision authorized by law to issue the same, or either of them, having an actual cash market value, subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Banking equal in amount to the liability of such surety on such bond upon the terms and conditions that in case of default upon such bond, said Commissioner of Banking is authorized to convert such securities so deposited, or such part thereof as may be necessary, into cash, which shall be by him applied in satisfaction of the liability of such surety upon such bond without any legal process therefor. After the liability of any surety making such deposit shall expire, such securities or any portion thereof, remaining on deposit with the State Treasurer shall be returned to such surety upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Banking that such liability has so expired, and it shall be the duty of such Commissioner to account to such surety for any unused portion of the cash money resulting from the conversion of such securities, or any portion thereof, into cash as above provided. The bond provided for in this act shall be deemed and held to be cumulative of all laws and constitutional provisions fixing the liability of stockholders for the obligations and indebtedness of any such bank.

Sec. 12. The bond provided for in the preceding section of this act shall be in form and substance as follows:

Pending the reading of the substitute, on motion of Senator Watson, the same was dispensed with.

Amend the bill by striking out all after the enacting clause, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Each and every bank of deposit or discount or banking and trust company hereafter incorporated under the laws of this State shall be and is hereby required to secure the payment of funds deposited with any such bank or trust company, by giving a bond as hereinafter provided or by availing its depositors of the protection of the State bank guaranty fund, to be created in the manner hereinafter set forth; all banks or banking and trust companies taking advantage of this act by securing their depositors by bond as hereinafter provided shall be denominated herein as bond security banks; all banks or banking and trust companies availing their depositors of the protection of the State bank guaranty fund as hereinafter provided, shall be denominated herein as guaranty fund banks; and whenever in this act the words bond security banks are used and applied the same shall be deemed and held to apply to all such banks, banking and trust companies as may secure their deposits by the bond system hereinafter provided for; whenever the words guaranty fund banks are used or applied in this act the same shall be deemed and held to apply to each and every such bank or banking and trust company availing its depositors of the protection of the State bank guaranty fund.

Sec. 2. Each and every bank of deposit or discount or banking and trust company heretofore organized and incorporated under and by virtue of Chapter 10 of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas and known as the State banking law, shall be required to secure its deposits by the manner, methods and under the terms, provisions and regulations as set forth in this act for bond security banks or guaranty fund banks; provided, that any such banks or banking and trust companies so securing their depositors shall have the privilege and option of accepting and coming in under the terms and provisions of this act as the same applies to bond security banks or guaranty fund banks; such option and privilege to be exercised in the manner as hereinafter provided. Nothing in this act shall be construed as making it compulsory for any such bank or banking and trust company heretofore incorporated to accept either the bond security system or the guaranty fund system, but the adoption of either such system as to them shall be voluntary.

Sec. 3. Each and every National bank heretofore incorporated, organized and existing under and by virtue of the banking laws of the United States of America shall have the right and privilege at its option, and authority is hereby granted unto each and all such National banks, in so far as the State of Texas may have authority so to do, to come within and under the terms, regulations and stipulations of the provisions of this act for the security of deposits by either the bond security system or the guaranty fund bank system, as hereinafter set forth. The words "State banks" when used in this act shall be held to include and apply to all banking corporations heretofore incorporated or which may hereafter be incorporated under the banking laws of this State.

Sec. 4. Each and every State bank hereafter incorporated, which shall elect to come under the provisions of this act as a bond security bank, shall file annually with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking a good and sufficient bond, payable to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and his successors in office for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of such banks. Such bond may be executed by individuals; provided, that in any event not less than three such individuals of sound financial responsibility shall execute the same; provided, also, that such individual sureties must be residents of the State of Texas, and must own unincumbered property situated within the State over and above all lawful exemptions, sufficient to insure their solvency upon such bond in accordance with the provisions of this act; and provided further, that in the event such bond is executed by individual surety each of said sureties shall have the right to designate the specific amount for which he shall be held liable on such bond; provided further, that in any event such bond shall be approved by the commissioners court of such county in which the bank receiving deposits and making such bond is situated, and such approval by said commissioners court shall be made a matter of record upon the minutes of said court, and such bond shall be further subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and by him filed in his office and recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose; such bond shall be executed in respective amounts according to the respective amounts of its capital stock, as follows, to wit:

All such bond security banks having a capital stock of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and less, shall execute such bond in an amount equal to double the amount of its capital stock. All such banks having a capital stock in excess of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and not more than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) shall execute such bond in an amount equal to one and one-half times the amount of its capital stock. All such bond security banks having a capital stock in excess of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) shall execute such bond in an amount equal to the amount of its capital stock. It is further provided herein that any such banks mentioned in this section whose capital stock shall be in excess of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) and which, at the time of its defalcation of the payments of its deposits as hereinafter provided, shall have in its possession and ownership good and sufficient exclusive real estate first mortgages or vendors' lien, or good and lawful interest-bearing National, State, county, municipal, school district bonds, or bonds of any political subdivision authorized by law to issue the same, or either of them, which shall be approved by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, then the liability of any such bank as principal and its sureties upon any such bond as herein provided for shall be reduced proportionately to the extent of the approved cash value of such real estate mortgages, or liens, or National, State, county, municipal, school district or other bonds, as may be determined by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking at the time of the accrued liability upon such bonds so executed by such bond security banks for the purpose of securing its depositors.

In the event any person, firm or corporation, or association of persons, executing the bond or guaranty herein provided for as sureties for any such bank shall transfer such portion of his or its property within four months prior to the notice herein provided for in case of the default of the deposits lawfully demanded as that his remaining property over and above all lawful exemptions would be insufficient to meet the requirements of his respective liability upon said bond, and in such event, such transfer of such property shall be void as to any unpaid balance due and payable under said bond or guaranty, and there shall be and is hereby created a preferred lien upon the property so undertaken to be transferred in favor of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking as trustee for and on behalf of the lawful depositors of any such bond security bank so making default in the payment of its deposits to the extent of any portion of any unpaid legal liability due and owing upon such bond; provided, that the satisfaction of such bond as provided for in this act and the terms of such bond shall satisfy and discharge such preferred lien hereinabove provided for; provided, that if any surety upon any such bond provided for in this act, who may desire to do so, shall deposit with the State Treasurer unincumbered exclusive real estate mortgage or other liens, or National, State, county, municipal, school district bonds or bonds of any political subdivision authorized by law to issue the same, or either of them, having an actual cash market value, subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking equal in amount to the liability of such surety on such bond upon the terms and conditions that in case of default upon such bond, said Commissioner of Insurance and Banking is authorized to convert such securities so deposited, or such part thereof as may be necessary, into cash money, which shall be by him applied in satisfaction of the liability of such surety upon such bond without any legal process therefor: then, and in that event, such preference lien shall not thereafter exist. After the liability of any surety making such deposit shall expire, such securities, or any portion thereof remaining on deposit with the State Treasurer shall be returned to such surety upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking that such liability has so expired, and it shall be the duty of such Commissioner to account to such surety for any unused portion of the cash money resulting from the conversion of such securities, or any portion thereof, into cash as above provided. The bond provided for in this act shall be deemed and held to be cumulative of all other laws and constitutional provisions fixing the liability of stockholders for the obligations and indebtedness of any such bank.

Sec. 5. The bond provided for in the preceding section of this act shall be in form and substance as follows:

All proceeds thus arising herewith from voluntary payment or otherwise, shall be by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking or his special agents promptly paid in full or pro rata to all unpaid lawful depositors, upon presentation to him of satisfactory proofs of their claims, which proofs shall be received and filed in his office and a record thereof made by him in a book to be kept for that purpose before payment of any such depositor shall be made and approved by him, and a full report of all such claims and payments signed by said Commissioner of Insurance and Banking under oath shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such bank is located. In the event any maker or signer as surety of such bond or policy of insurance and other guaranty of indemnity shall be a corporation, incorporated under the laws of Texas, and it shall refuse and fail to pay upon demand therefor as hereinbefore provided for the full amount due by it upon such bond, its charter shall thereby become subject to forfeiture, and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General of the State of Texas, upon receiving notice from the Commissioner of

In the event any maker or signer as security of such bond or policy of insurance and other guaranty of indemnity shall be a corporation, incorporated under the laws of Texas, and it shall refuse and fail to pay upon demand therefor as hereinbefore provided for the full amount due by it upon such bond, its charter shall thereby become subject to forfeiture, and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General of the State of Texas, upon receiving notice thereof from the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, to bring suit in the district court of any county in this State which he may elect to forfeit such charter, and upon hearing thereof decree and judgment may be rendered annulling and forfeiting the charter of such corporation.

Sec. 21. In the event such persons, firms, corporation, so executing such bank security bond shall make default in the payment of the same lawfully demanded for a period of fifteen days after such demand and the obligation or such bond is not discharged, it shall be the duty of the Attorney General, or any district or county attorney, acting

The proceeds collected by any such suit or action shall be distributed by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to the depositors entitled thereto in the same manner provided in this act with respect to payments voluntarily made by sureties upon such bonds.

Sec. 22. Sec. 14. It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to issue to each State bank which the State Banking Board shall have approved and certified to him as provided in this act as being entitled to transact a banking business, a certificate of authority in such form as the State Banking Board shall approve to be signed by him under his official seal, certifying that such State bank is authorized under the laws of this State to engage in the banking business. Such certificate of authority when issued to guaranty fund banks shall contain the following statement on the face thereof in bold type: "The non-interest-bearing and unsecured deposits of this bank are protected by the State bank guaranty fund." And when issued to the State banks other than guaranty fund banks and bond security banks, it shall contain neither of these, nor any similar statement. The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall close all State banks which the State Banking Board shall disapprove and determine not entitled under the laws of this State to transact a banking business, and shall proceed in such cases in the manner provided by law with respect to insolvent banks, unless such banks shall go into voluntary liquidation.

All the liabilities of guaranty fund banks other than liabilities to stockholders on account of stock owned by them, except debts due by such banks for which they have given collateral or other security, and debts due depositors, or other persons, upon which such guaranty fund banks or any person for them or on their behalf have directly or indirectly paid or agreed to pay, or have become liable in law to pay, any interest, bonus, commission or other compensation, whatever shall be considered and defined and hereinafter referred to as their "guaranteed deposits" and the persons to whom such liabilities are or may become due and payable, shall be considered and defined and hereinafter

Sec. 17. For the purpose of carrying out and enforcing the provisions of this act, there is hereby created the State Banking Board, which shall be composed of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, who is hereafter referred to in this act as the Commissioner, the Attorney General and a citizen of this State, who shall be appointed by the Governor of this State, and who, prior to his appointment, shall have had five years' experience as an active officer of a bank and who shall receive as his compensation as a member of the State Banking Board the sum of $10 per day for each day while engaged in active discharge of his duties as a member of said board. Immediately after this act shall take effect, said board shall cause to be made by the State bank examiners, who are hereby placed under the direction and control of said board for that purpose, a full and careful examination of the affairs of each and every State bank doing business in this State, for the purpose of ascertaining its financial condition, the character, amount and values of its assets, the extent of its liabilities, the financial responsibility of its stockholders, the general reputation as to competency and business qualifications of its officers and directors, and such other facts as said board may deem advisable and may direct; and said board shall require a full and detailed report of such examination of each such corporation, to be made by the State Bank Examiner making such examination, under his oath of office, such report to be filed with said board not later than the first day of December, 1909. It shall be the duty of the State Banking Board, from time to time after this act shall take effect, and prior to January 1, 1910, as the reports of examinations provided for in this section shall be filed with it, to consider and pass upon such reports, and to determine therefrom, and from such additional facts as may be submitted for its consideration, or as it may ascertain from other investigation, whether such State bank is solvent and its capital stock unimpaired, and whether its officers and directors are of good general reputation as being competent to properly discharge the duties incumbent upon them as such officers or directors and whether it is entitled under the laws of this State to continue to transact a banking business, provided that any ruling or decision of said State Banking Board shall be subject to review by any district court having jurisdiction of the persons composing said board upon the suit of any party affected thereby brought within twenty days after the date of such ruling or decision. Said board shall keep a record of its proceedings and findings relative to each bank considered and passed upon, and shall file a certified copy thereof, signed by each member of said board, in the office of the Commissioner, which shall be by him duly recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose.

"(2). The name of the city or town and county in which the corporation is to be located.

"(3). The amount of the capital stock of the corporation, which shall be divided into shares of $100 each; that the same has been bona fide subscribed and actually paid up in lawful money of the United States, and is in the custody of the persons named as the first board of directors or managers.

"(4). The name and place of residence of the several shareholders, and the number of shares subscribed by each.

"(5). The number of directors or managers, and the names of those agreed upon for the first year.

"(6). The number of years the corporation is to continue, which in no case shall exceed fifty years."

Such articles shall be signed and acknowledged by the parties thereto, shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and when so filed shall be immediately submitted to the Attorney General for his approval, and if found by him to be in accordance with law, he shall so certify and return the same to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, who shall record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall make a certified copy thereof, under his hand and seal, and shall immediately deliver such certified copy to a State bank examiner, by whom he shall cause to be made an examination for the purpose of ascertaining whether the requisite capital stock of such corporation has been fully paid up as required by the Constitution and laws of this State. No certificate of incorporation under this act shall be valid unless at the time the articles of association were signed and acknowledged, the capital stock therein prescribed shall have been bona fide subscribed and paid up in lawful money of the United States. If, upon such examination, it shall be found that the Constitution and laws have been fully complied with, the person making such examination shall deliver to the president or cashier of said corporation the certified copy of its articles of incorporation, and shall take therefor the receipt of such corporation, and of the person to whom the same shall be delivered. Upon the deliverance of such certified copy and the execution of the receipt therefor and upon the filing for record of such certified copy in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the corporation is to be located, the same shall become valid and effective as to the charter of said corporation, which shall thereupon be allowed to open its doors and engage in business as a State bank. It shall be the duty of the examiner to immediately make a report of such examination under his oath of office to the State Banking Board, whose duties it shall be to forthwith consider and act upon the same and to determine therefrom and from such additional facts as may be submitted for its consideration, or as it may ascertain from other investigation, whether such corporation is solvent and its capital stock unimpaired, and whether its officers and directors are of good general reputation as being competent to properly discharge the duties incumbent upon them as such officers or directors, and whether it is entitled under the laws of this State to transact a banking business.

If the State Banking Board shall have approved the chartering of such bank, upon receipt of its certificate, the Commissioner shall issue to such corporation the certificate of authority above provided for. In case the State Banking Board shall disapprove the report of the examiner, and refuse to certify that such corporation is entitled to a certificate of authority, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner to immediately close the office of such corporation, unless it shall go into voluntary liquidation, and to proceed in the manner provided by law with respect to insolvent banks. All amendments to the charters of all banking corporations heretofore or hereafter formed shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and approved by the Attorney General and recorded by said Commissioner, when so approved, in the same manner as original charters.

The articles of agreement shall be signed and acknowledged by the parties thereto and recorded in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, who shall submit the same to the Attorney General for his approval, and if found by him to be in accordance with the law, he shall so certify and return the same to said Commissioner, who shall record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose and make a certified copy thereof under his hand and seal, and thereafter the same steps shall be taken, and the same course pursued as provided by law with respect to the incorporation of banks of deposit or discount, or both of deposits and discounts."

Sec. 20. Section 5 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas, is hereby amended, so as to hereafter read as follows:

Provided, that a banking corporation may be formed with a capital, with not less than $50,000, having power to transact business in any city or town having 6000 inhabitants or more, at a point designated in its charter, not less than one mile removed from the place of business, at the time such corporation is formed, of any banking corporation organized under the laws of Texas, or of those of the United States. The population of all towns and cities for the purpose of fixing the minimum capital stock of banks under this act shall be ascertained by the Commissioner of

All State banks transacting business in this State shall be required on and after the first day of January, 1910, to hold a certificate of authority to transact a banking business, issued by the Commissioner, in compliance with the provisions of this act, and to keep the same conspicuously posted at all times in the banking house where such business is transacted. Any person, or persons, who shall in any capacity, transact or hold themselves out as transacting business of banking for or on behalf of any State bank or banking or trust company, after the first day of January, 1910, without such bank or banking and trust company shall hold a certificate of authority as herein provided for, except in cases where such certificates shall not yet have been issued to newly incorporated banks as herein provided for, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished for each offense, each day being considered a separate offense, by a fine of not less than $100 and not exceeding $1000, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 22. No State bank shall be entitled to transact the banking business unless its officers and directors are men of good general reputation in the community in which they may reside, as being competent to properly discharge the duties incumbent or to be incumbent upon them as such officers or directors.

Sec. 23. The Commissioner shall, during the month of November, 1909, and of each calendar year thereafter, require the cashier of each State bank which has been so organized and doing business for one year prior to November 1 of each calendar year, to file with him a sworn statement of the average daily deposits of such bank for said year ending November 1; and he shall require the cashiers of all other State banks to each file with him, during said month of November, a sworn statement of the total amount of the capital, surplus and undivided profits of their respective banks, as of said first day of November.

Sec. 24. Immediately after the first day of November, 1909, the State Banking Board, shall for the purpose of creating a State bank guaranty fund.

levy against each guaranty fund bank, which it shall have approved as being entitled to transact the banking business, an assessment of 1 per cent of its average daily deposits for the year ending on the first day of November, 1909, if it shall have transacted business for one year prior to said date, or an assessment of 3 per cent of its total capital, surplus and undivided profits, as of the first day of November, 1909, if it shall not have transacted business for one year prior to that date; provided, that if said assessment shall not, in the aggregate, provide a fund of at least three hundred thousand ($300,000) dollars, then the same shall be proportionately increased to such percentage of the average daily deposits and of the capital, surplus and undivided profits, respectively, as will provide a fund of that amount, immediately after the first day of December of each year, after 1909, the State Banking Board shall relevy and readjust the assessment above provided for in the same manner except that they shall each succeeding year increase the percentage of the assessment upon the average daily deposits of the banks to which such assessment is applicable by one-fourth of 1 per cent, and they shall increase the percentage of assessment upon the capital, surplus and undivided profits of banks to which such assessment is applicable by three-fourths of 1 per cent, until such time as the total amount of said State bank guaranty fund shall equal 5 per cent of the average daily deposits of all of the guaranty fund banks, which have been in business for as much as one year. added to 15 per cent of the capital, surplus and undivided profits of all other guaranty fund banks. Each guaranty fund bank shall pay such assessments by crediting the State bank guaranty fund with the amount thereof upon its books, as of date January 1, next, after the said assessment is made, as a demand deposit. subject to check, upon the order of the State Banking Board, and shall, prior to said date, forward to the Commissioner proper evidence of such credit and each guaranty fund bank shall charge the amount of each such assessment as credited to the State bank guaranty fund upon its books to "interest in State bank guaranty fund," and shall be entitled to treat in its statements of condition and otherwise the amount of its said interest in said fund, as shown by its books, as a portion of its assets; provided, that the amount of its said interest in said fund shall not include any of the amounts paid out upon general checks drawn by the order of the State Banking Board. The relevy and readjustment of the assessment herein provided for shall be made on such basis as will provide a State bank guaranty fund, as of January 1, of each succeeding year, equal to the percentages herein prescribed of the average annual deposits and capital, surplus and undivided profits, respectively, for each succeeding year, until the maximum percentage herein prescribed shall be attained and thereafter such relevy and readjustment shall be made each year upon such a basis as will provide a fund upon January 1, of each year amounting to 5 per cent of the annual deposits and 15 per cent of the capital, surplus and undivided profits. as hereinbefore provided for.

If, in the making of such relevy and readjustment, it becomes necessary to reduce the amount of the assessment of any guaranty fund bank, said board shall order a check to be signed by the Commissioner, and countersigned by some other member of said board, designated for that purpose. drawn upon said guaranty fund bank in favor of itself, dated January 1, next thereafter, for the amount of such reduction, which the Commissioner shall forthwith transmit to such bank, and if it shall be necessary to increase the assessment of any guaranty fund bank, it shall direct the Commissioner to notify such bank of the amount of such increase, and require that it credit the State bank guaranty fund with the amount of such increase, as of date the first day of January, next thereafter, and send to the Commissioner proper evidence of such credit, prior to said date. Any State bank which shall become a guaranty fund bank, in accordance with the provisions of this act at any time after the first day of January, 1910, shall, before it shall be issued a certificate of authority to transact a banking business as a guaranty fund bank, shall credit the State bank guaranty fund, as herein before provided, with an amount equal to 1 per cent of its average daily deposits for the year ending November 1, preceding, if it shall have transacted business for that period, or 3 per cent of its capital, surplus and undivided profits, if it shall not have transacted business for such period or 3 per cent of its capital stock and paid in surplus, if any, if a newly incorporated bank, and furnish the Commissioner with proper evidence of such credit. Whenever the amount deposited to the credit of the State bank guaranty fund on the books to be appointed by the Governor, which latter two members of said board shall receive as compensation for such services the sum of $10 per day for each day while actually engaged in discharge of his duties as a member of said board. Said board shall have control, managements and directions of the depositors' security fund herein provided for and shall have power and it is made their duty to adopt and promulgate from time to time rules, regulations and requirements as may be deemed necessary or proper for the accumulation, payment, managements and control and disposition of said fund and to carry out the provisions and intent of their land and inconsistent herewith.

Sec. 2. It is the intent of this act to provide for the creation of a fund to be known as the "depositors' security fund," which shall be ascertained and deemed sufficient to pay probable losses of the lawful depositors of State banks and trust companies in this State, that elect to come under the provisions of this act providing for a "depositors' security fund," and also, to provide for the securing of deposits by the execution of a bond for the purpose and in the manner herein provided for. It is not intended by this act to hold or make liable any State bank or trust company that avails itself of the "depositors' guaranty fund" for the losses to depositors occurring from failures of other State banks or trust companies, but only to the extent and by the contribution to said State security fund, as provided in this act. Each and every bank of deposit and banking and trust company or trust company availing itself of the "depositors' security fund," receiving deposits now or hereafter organized under the laws of this State shall be liable in the manner and proportion and to the extent hereafter provided to pay to the "depositors' security fund" such premiums or sums as may be ascertained to be sufficient to constitute a fund to cover the probable losses to depositors from the failure or failures of State banks or trust companies that shall avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund." Said premiums or sums to be annual premiums or sums and to be fixed and stated and to be paid at fixed and stated times. The said fund is to be accumulated and said premiums are to be ascertained and fixed and paid in the manner hereinafter provided. Said fund is to be created and accumulated by and under the direction of said State Banking Board from annual premiums to be paid by the several State banks and trust companies that elect to come under the provisions of this act providing a "depositors' security fund" and based upon their average lawful deposits and equitably and justly pro rated amongst the several banks and trust companies organized under the laws of this State, that shall avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund."

Sec. 3. Each and every State bank and trust company that elects to come under the provisions of this act providing a depositors' security fund, shall pay into said fund on or by the first day of January, 1910, in such manner as the State board may provide, a sum equal to one-half of one per cent of its daily average lawful deposits for the year 1909, not including United States, State or other public funds otherwise secured, nor deposits of other banks and trust companies, but including savings deposits unsecured and not bearing interest exceeding 5 per cent per annum. And all subsequent annual premiums shall be payable by the first day of January of each year and shall be the premiums or payments for the year preceding, and shall be based upon its daily average lawful deposits of the preceding year. Each and every State bank and trust company organized after the first day of January, 1910, that elects to come under the provisions of this act providing a "depositors' security fund" shall by the first day of January next after its organization pay into said fund one-half of one per cent of its daily average lawful deposits of the year of its organization and shall thereafter pay the annual premium or make payments to said fund in like manner as herein required of all State banks and trust companies that avail themselves of the provisions of this act creating the "depositors' security fund." All premiums or payments to said fund due or owing any State bank or trust company to said fund shall constitute a preference claim or lien upon the assets of said bank and trust company and the same shall apply to any bank or trust company or banking corporation which may have failed while due or owing any such premiums or payment either for that or any previous year.

Sec. 4. Said banking board shall as soon after its organization as is practicable make a full investigation and ascertain and determine after due investigation what sums or premiums paid annually upon the daily average lawful deposits of the State banks and trust companies protected by the "de-positors' security fund" as provided herein, will create and provide a fund deemed sufficient to pay the probable losses sustained by the depositors of such bank and trust companies that shall avail themselves of the "depositors' security fund" from any failures of such banks and trust companies. In ascertaining and fixing such annual premiums or payments, said banking board shall take a sufficient given period of years and from all data and information available shall determine what sum or fund will cover the probable losses to the depositors from failure of State banks and trust companies availing themselves of the "depositors' security fund" during such period of years, and said board shall ascertain, determine and fix an annual premium upon the lawful deposits of such State banks and trust companies availing themselves of the "depositors' security fund," as when collected will create and provide a fund which will cover the probable losses accruing to such depositors from the failure of the State banks and trust companies availing themselves of the "depositors' security fund," ascertained and determined by said board; which annual premiums or payments as ascertained and established shall be paid by every bank and trust company electing to come under the provisions of this act providing a "depositors' security fund," ratable in proportion to its daily average lawful deposits covered by this act; provided no bank or trust company availing itself of the "depositors' security fund" shall be required to pay during any one year any sum created or in excess of the premiums or payments so fixed and established, and provided further, that said premium or payment shall never exceed one-fourth of one per cent of any one year, except for the first year. It is the intention of this act to create a fund for the security of deposits to the extent that such annual premiums or payments and the accumulation therefrom will constitute as herein provided.

Sec. 5. Whenever there shall be on hand a surplus of said fund, after paying the losses to depositors which may have occurred as provided in this act, and when such surplus in the judgment of said board, is sufficient to justify either the suspension of or reduction in the collection of further sums or premiums from the banks and trust companies which have contributed to said surplus, then said board shall reduce or suspend such payments and in subsequent collection of premiums or payments for a year or years shall make due and equitable allowances to or give proper credit to the several banks and trust companies for their respective contributions to said fund, and said banking board shall keep or cause to be kept an account with each bank and trust company showing the amounts paid to said fund by each bank, and said board shall keep or cause to be kept books and records showing when said fund was collected, from whom said fund was collected and the amount of same; and should it become necessary for said board to pay out said fund or any part thereof by reason of any failure or failures of any State bank or trust company, said board shall keep a record of such amount as paid, when the same was paid out and to whom said amount was paid; and shall make an annual detailed report in writing and under oath to the Governor of this State, showing the amount of money received by said board, when and from whom received, the amounts paid out, when and to whom same was paid, if anything, and the amount available of said fund.

Sec. 6. Said Banking Board may provide from time to time for the deposit of any portion of said fund in the State depositories, subject to the call of said board, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by said board.

Sec. 7. be necessary, into cash, which shall be by him applied in satisfaction of the liability of such surety upon such bond without any legal process therefor. After the liability of any surety making such deposit shall expire, such securities or any portion thereof, remaining on deposit with the State Treasurer shall be returned to such surety upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Banking that such liability has so expired, and it shall be the duty of such Commissioner to account to such surety for any unused portion of the cash money resulting from the conversion of such securities, or any portion thereof, into cash as above provided. Nothing in this act shall be construed as making it compulsory for any such bank or banking and trust company heretofore incorporated to accept either the bond security system or the guaranty fund system, but the adoption of either such system as to them shall be voluntary.

Sec. 3. Each and every National bank heretofore incorporated, organized and existing under and by virtue of the banking laws of the United States of America shall have the right and privilege at its option, and authority is hereby granted unto each and all such National banks, in so far as the State of Texas may have authority so to do, to come within and under the terms, regulations and stipulations of the provisions of this act for the security of deposits by either the bond security system or the guaranty fund bank system, as hereinafter set forth. The words "State banks" when used in this act shall be held to include and apply to all banking corporations heretofore incorporated or which may hereafter be incorporated under the banking laws of this State.

Sec. 4. Each and every State bank hereafter incorporated, which shall elect to come under the provisions of this act surety on such bond upon the terms and conditions that in case of default upon such bond, said Commissioner of Insurance and Banking is authorized to convert such securities so deposited, or such part thereof as may be necessary, into cash money, which shall be by him applied in satisfaction of the liability of such surety upon such bond without any legal process therefor; then, and in that event, such preference lien shall not thereafter exist. After the liability of any surety making such deposit shall expire, such securities, or any portion thereof remaining on deposit with the State Treasurer shall be returned to such surety upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking that such liability has so expired, and it shall be the duty of such Commissioner to account to such surety for any unused portion of the cash money resulting from the conversion of such securities, or any portion thereof, into cash as above provided. In the event any maker or signer as surety of such bond or policy of insurance and other guaranty of indemnity shall be a corporation, incorporated under the laws of Texas, and it shall refuse and fail to pay upon demand therefor as hereinbefore provided for the full amount due by it upon such bond, its charter shall thereby become subject to forfeiture, and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General of the State of Texas, upon receiving notice from the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, to bring suit in the district court of any county in this State which he may elect, to forfeit such charter, and upon hearing thereof decree and judgment may be rendered annulling and forfeiting the charter of such corporation.

In the event any maker or signer as surety of such bond shall be a corporation, incorporated elsewhere than in the State of Texas, and transacting business in this State under a permit from the State, and which shall refuse and fail to pay on demand therefor by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, as herein provided for, the full amount of its liability upon any such bond, it shall thereupon be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to thereafter suspend the permit of said corporation to transact business in this State, until it shall be shown to his satisfaction that it has fully discharged its liability upon such bond upon the default thus made.

Sec. 9. In the event such persons, firm, corporation, so executing such bank security bond shall make default in the payment of the same lawfully demanded for a period of fifteen days after such demand and the obligation or such bond is not discharged, it shall be the duty of the Attorney General or any district or county attorney, acting at his instance, to bring suit upon such bond in the name of the State of Texas for the benefit of all persons who may be beneficiaries of said bond by reason of its terms and conditions; such suit shall be instituted in the district court of the county where the bond security bank had its principal place of business at the time of its failure, or in any county immediately adjacent thereto, at the option of the Attorney General. And in any such suit so brought upon any such bond, the Attorney General shall have the right by writ of sequestration, as is provided by law, except that no bond or affidavit shall be required of the State of Texas before the issuance thereof, to seize and take possession of the property and effects of any such sureties upon such bond of any bond security bank so failing and defaulting in the payment of its deposits when lawfully demanded as hereinbefore provided for. The proceeds collected by any such suit or action shall be distributed by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to the depositors entitled thereto in the same manner provided in this act with respect to payments voluntarily made by sureties upon such bonds.

Sec. 10. If at any time it appears to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking that the bond of any bond security bank, which has elected to come under the provisions of this act, is insufficient, he shall have the authority and it shall be his duty to require such bond security banks to file new and additional security in an amount sufficient to protect its depositors in accordance with the provisions of this act as applicable to bond security banks. In the event such bond security banks shall refuse to or fail to comply with such requirements the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall proceed as is provided for by this act in the case of insolvent banks.

Sec. 11. If any cashier, director or other officer or employe of or any person connected with any bond security bank as defined in this act, shall knowingly transfer or otherwise dispose of any of its real estate mortgages or liens, or any of its National, State, county, municipal, school district or other bonds, when such bank is in a failing or insolvent condition, such cashier, director or other officer or employe of or any person connected with such bond security bank so transferring the same or aiding, assisting or abetting, or knowingly assenting to any such transfer, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, for which prosecution may be had in the district court of the county where such bond security bank is located, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned in the State penitentiary for not less than two nor more than five years.

Sec. 12. Any State bank incorporated prior to the taking effect of this act may avail its depositors of the protection provided by this act relating to bond security banks or of the provisions of this act relating to guaranty fund banks at its option in the following manner: The board of directors of any State bank may and are required upon the written request of the owners of a majority portion of the capital stock to call a meeting of the stockholders to be held at the office of such State bank, of which each stockholder shall be given not less than ten days' notice by registered mail, for the purpose of determining whether or not such State bank shall avail its depositors of the protection afforded by the provisions of this act relating to either of such systems, and if at such stockholders' meeting the holders of a majority of the capital stock or their duly authorized proxies, shall vote to so avail their depositors of the protection afforded by the provisions of this act relating to bond security banks or those relating to guaranty fund banks, in either event such vote shall be entered upon the minutes of the corporation and a duly certified copy thereof, attested by the president and cashier shall be immediately forwarded to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, who shall file the same in his office and shall record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose, and thereafter as hereinafter provided such State bank shall be in all respects subject to and governed by all the provisions of this act applicable to guaranty fund banks or to all the provisions of this act applicable to bond security banks, as the case may be. The corporators of all State banks hereafter incorporated shall be required to file with their articles of incorporation a statement signed by them, availing their depositors of the protection afforded either by the provisions of this act relating to bond security banks, or of those relating to guaranty fund banks, and all such State banks hereafter incorporated shall be governed by the provisions of this act so accepted in such statement.

All State banks electing under the provisions of this act to become bond security banks as defined in this act or guaranty fund banks as defined in this act, in the manner provided for, which shall exercise the right of such election prior to October 1, 1909, shall file with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking proper evidence of such action prior to October 1, 1909, and shall be entitled to exercise all the rights and privileges granted to such banks on and after said date, and all State banks thereafter exercising either of said options shall be entitled to exercise such rights and privileges on and after the beginning of the first quarter of a calendar year, after they shall file proper evidence of such action.

Sec. 13. Any national bank in this State, approved by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, may voluntarily avail its depositors of the protection of the provisions of this act relating to bond security banks or of those relating to guaranty fund banks, by application to the State Banking Board, in writing, and the said application may be granted upon terms and conditions in harmony with the purposes of this act, to be agreed upon by the State Banking Board, the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and the Comptroller of Currency of the United States of America; provided, that in the event national banks should be required by Federal enactment to pay assessments to any bank guaranty fund of the Federal Government and thereby the deposits in national banks in this State should be guaranteed by virtue of Federal laws, that the national banks having availed themselves of the benefits of this act may withdraw therefrom and have returned to them the unused portion of all assessments levied upon and paid by said banks; however, should the courts declare this section of this bill unconstitutional or unauthorized by law, or in conflict with any other section or provision of this act, or with any existing banking laws of this State, then such decision shall effect this section, such section being independent of the other sections of this act.

Sec. 14. It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to issue to each State bank which the State Banking Board shall have approved and certified to him as provided in this act as being entitled to transact a banking business, a certificate of authority in such form as the State Banking Board shall approve to be signed by him under his official seal, certifying that such State bank is authorized under the laws of this State to engage in the banking business. Such certificate of authority when issued to guaranty fund banks shall contain the following statement on the face thereof in bold type: "The non-interest-bearing and unsecured deposits of this bank are protected by the State bank guaranty fund." And when issued to bond security banks shall contain the following statement on the face thereof in bold type: "All the deposits of this bank are protected by security bond under the laws of the State of Texas." And when issued to the State banks other than guaranty fund banks and bond security banks, it shall contain neither of these, nor any similar statement. The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall close all State banks which the State Banking Board shall disapprove and determine not entitled under the laws of this State to transact a banking business, and shall proceed in such cases in the manner provided by law with respect to insolvent banks, unless such banks shall go into voluntary liquidation.

Sec. 15. All guaranty fund banks provided for in this act are hereby authorized and empowered if they desire so to do, to publish, either by forms of advertising which they may adopt, or upon their stationery, the following words:

"The non-interest-bearing and unsecured deposits of this bank are protected by the State bank guaranty fund." All bond security banks provided for in this act are hereby authorized and empowered if they desire to do so, to publish either by forms of advertising which they may adopt, or upon their stationery, the following words: "All the deposits of this bank are protected by security bonds under the laws of this State." Any guaranty fund bank or bond security bank or any officer, director, stockholder, or other person for any such bank, who shall write, print, publish or advertise in any manner or by any means or permit any one for them or for said bank to write, print, publish or advertise any statement that the deposits of any such bank are secured otherwise than as permitted in this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $100, nor more than $500, or confined in the county jail for not less than three months nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any person who shall write, print, publish or advertise the above statement authorized to be used by bond security banks or guaranty fund banks other than for and on behalf of such banks shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500, or confined in the county jail for not less than three months nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 16. On and after the first day of January, 1910, all guaranty fund banks shall be liable pro rata, in the manner and proportion and to the extent hereinafter provided for the payment of all the liabilities of each such guaranty fund bank to its guaranteed depositors as hereinafter defined.

All the liabilities of guaranty fund banks other than liabilities to stockholders on account of stock owned by them, except debts due by such banks for which they have given collateral or other security, and debts due depositors, or other persons, upon which such guaranty fund banks or any person for them or on their behalf have directly or indirectly paid or agreed to pay, or have become liable in law to pay, any interest, bonus, commission or other compensation, whatever shall be considered and defined and hereinafter referred to as their "guaranteed deposits" and the persons to whom such liabilities are or may become due and payable, shall be considered and defined and hereinafter

Sec. 17. For the purpose of carrying out and enforcing the provisions of this act, there is hereby created the State Banking Board, which shall be composed of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, who is hereafter referred to in this act as the Commissioner, the Attorney General and a citizen of this State, who shall be appointed by the Governor of this State, and who, prior to his appointment, shall have had five years' experience as an active officer of a bank and who shall receive as his compensation as a member of the State Banking Board the sum of $10 per day for each day while engaged in active discharge of his duties as a member of said board. Immediately after this act shall take effect, said board shall cause to be made by the State bank examiners, who are hereby placed under the direction and control of said board for that purpose, a full and careful examination of the affairs of each and every State bank doing business in this State, for the purpose of ascertaining its financial condition, the character, amount and values of its assets, the extent of its liabilities, the financial responsibility of its stockholders, the general reputation as to competency and business qualifications of its officers and directors, and such other facts as said board may deem advisable and may direct; and said board shall require a full and detailed report of such examination of each such corporation, to be made by the State Bank Examiner making such examination, under his oath of office, such report to be filed with said board not later than the first day of December, 1909. It shall be the duty of the State Banking Board, from time to time after this act shall take effect, and prior to January 1, 1910, as the reports of examinations provided for in this section shall be filed with it, to consider and pass upon such reports, and to determine therefrom, and from such additional facts as may be submitted for its consideration, or as it may ascertain from other investigation, whether such State bank is solvent and its capital stock unimpaired, and whether its officers and directors are of good general reputation as being competent to properly discharge the duties incumbent upon them as such officers or directors and whether it is entitled under the laws of this State to continue to transact a banking business, provided that any ruling or decision of said State Banking Board shall be subject to review by any district court having jurisdiction of the persons composing said board upon the suit of any party affected thereby brought within twenty days after the date of such ruling or decision. Said board shall keep a record of its proceedings and findings relative to each bank considered and passed upon, and shall file a certified copy thereof, signed by each member of said board, in the office of the Commissioner, which shall be by him duly recorded in a book to be kept for that purpose.

Sec. 18. Section 2 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature is hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Section 2. The articles of association shall set out:

"(1). The corporate name of the proposed corporation, which shall not be the name of any corporation heretofore incorporated in this State for similar purposes, or any imitation of such name, and which shall include as part thereof, either the word 'bank' or 'banking.'

"(2). The name of the city or town and county in which the corporation is to be located.

"(3). The amount of the capital stock of the corporation, which shall be divided into shares of $100 each; that the same has been bona fide subscribed and actually paid up in lawful money of the United States, and is in the custody of the persons named as the first board of directors or managers.

"(4). The name and place of residence of the several shareholders, and the number of shares subscribed by each.

"(5). The number of directors or managers, and the names of those agreed upon for the first year.

"(6). The number of years the corporation is to continue, which in no case shall exceed fifty years."

Such articles shall be signed and acknowledged by the parties thereto, shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and when so filed shall be immediately submitted to the Attorney General for his approval, and if found by him to be in accordance with law, he shall so certify and return the same to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, who shall record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall make a certified copy thereof, under his hand and seal, and shall immediately deliver such certified copy to a State bank examiner, by whom he shall cause to be made an examination for the purpose of ascertaining whether the requisite capital stock of such corporation has been fully paid up as required by the Constitution and laws of this State. No certificate of incorporation under this act shall be valid unless at the time the articles of association were signed and acknowledged, the capital stock therein prescribed shall have been bona fide subscribed and paid up in lawful money of the United States. If, upon such examination, it shall be found that the Constitution and laws have been fully complied with, the person making such examination shall deliver to the president or cashier of said corporation the certified copy of its articles of incorporation, and shall take therefor the receipt of such corporation, and of the person to whom the same shall be delivered. Upon the deliverance of such certified copy and the execution of the receipt therefor and upon the filing for record of such certified copy in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the corporation is to be located, the same shall become valid and effective as to the charter of said corporation, which shall thereupon be allowed to open its doors and engage in business as a State bank. It shall be the duty of the examiner to immediately make a report of such examination under his oath of office to the State Banking Board, whose duties it shall be to forthwith consider and act upon the same and to determine therefrom and from such additional facts as may be submitted for its consideration, or as it may ascertain from other investigation, whether such corporation is solvent and its capital stock unimpaired, and whether its officers and directors are of good general reputation as being competent to properly discharge the duties incumbent upon them as such officers or directors, and whether it is entitled under the laws of this State to transact a banking business.

If the State Banking Board shall have approved the chartering of such bank, upon receipt of its certificate, the Commissioner shall issue to such corporation the certificate of authority above provided for. In case the State Banking Board shall disapprove the report of the examiner, and refuse to certify that such corporation is entitled to a certificate of authority, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner to immediately close the office of such corporation, unless it shall go into voluntary liquidation, and to proceed in the manner provided by law with respect to insolvent banks. All amendments to the charters of all banking corporations heretofore or hereafter formed shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and approved by the Attorney General and recorded by said Commissioner, when so approved, in the same manner as original charters.

Sec. 19. Section 10 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature is hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Section 10. The articles of agreement shall be signed and acknowledged by the parties thereto and recorded in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, who shall submit the same to the Attorney General for his approval, and if found by him to be in accordance with the law, he shall so certify and return the same to said Commissioner, who shall record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose and make a certified copy thereof under his hand and seal, and thereafter the same steps shall be taken, and the same course pursued as provided by law with respect to the incorporation of banks of deposit or discount, or both of deposits and discounts."

Sec. 20. Section 5 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas, is hereby amended, so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Section 5. That hereafter the capital stock of all banking corporations, which shall be fully paid up, shall not be less than $10,000, if the business is to be transacted in towns or cities having less than 750 inhabitants, nor less than $25,000 if the business is to be transacted in towns or cities having 750 or more and less than 3000 inhabitants, nor less than $50,000 if the business is to be transacted in towns or cities having 3000 or more and less than 6000 inhabitants; nor less than $100,000 if the business is to be transacted in towns or cities having 6000 inhabitants or more. Provided, that a banking corporation may be formed with a capital, with not less than $50,000, having power to transact business in any city or town having 6000 inhabitants or more, at a point designated in its charter, not less than one mile removed from the place of business, at the time such corporation is formed, of any banking corporation organized under the laws of Texas, or of those of the United States. The population of all towns and cities for the purpose of fixing the minimum capital stock of banks under this act shall be ascertained by the Commissioner of

Sec. 21. All State banks transacting business in this State shall be required on and after the first day of January, 1910, to hold a certificate of authority to transact a banking business, issued by the Commissioner, in compliance with the provisions of this act, and to keep the same conspicuously posted at all times in the banking house where such business is transacted. Any person, or persons, who shall in any capacity, transact or hold themselves out as transacting business of banking for or on behalf of any State bank or banking or trust company, after the first day of January, 1910, without such bank or banking and trust company shall hold a certificate of authority as herein provided for, except in cases where such certificates shall not yet have been issued to newly incorporated banks as herein provided for, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished for each offense, each day being considered a separate offense, by a fine of not less than $100 and not exceeding $1000, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 22. No State bank shall be entitled to transact the banking business unless its officers and directors are men of good general reputation in the community in which they may reside, as being competent to properly discharge the duties incumbent or to be incumbent upon them as such officers or directors.

Sec. 23. The Commissioner shall, during the month of November, 1909, and of each calendar year thereafter, require the cashier of each State bank which has been so organized and doing business for one year prior to November 1 of each calendar year, to file with him a sworn statement of the average daily deposits of such bank for said year ending November 1; and he shall require the cashiers of all other State banks to each file with him, during said month of November, a sworn statement of the total amount of the capital, surplus and undivided profits of their respective banks, as of said first day of November.

Sec. 24. Immediately after the first day of November, 1909, the State Banking Board, shall for the purpose of creating a State bank guaranty fund, levy against each guaranty fund bank, which it shall have approved as being entitled to transact the banking business, an assessment of 1 per cent of its average daily deposits for the year ending on the first day of November, 1909, if it shall have transacted business for one year prior to said date, or an assessment of 3 per cent of its total capital, surplus and undivided profits, as of the first day of November, 1909, if it shall not have transacted business for one year prior to that date; provided, that if said assessment shall not, in the aggregate, provide a fund of at least three hundred thousand ($300,000) dollars, then the same shall be proportionately increased to such percentage of the average daily deposits and of the capital, surplus and undivided profits, respectively, as will provide a fund of that amount, immediately after the first day of December of each year, after 1909, the State Banking Board shall relevy and readjust the assessment above provided for in the same manner except that they shall each succeeding year increase the percentage of the assessment upon the average daily deposits of the banks to which such assessment is applicable by one-fourth of 1 per cent, and they shall increase the percentage of assessment upon the capital, surplus and undivided profits of banks to which such assessment is applicable by three-fourths of 1 per cent, until such time as the total amount of said State bank guaranty fund shall equal 5 per cent of the average daily deposits of all of the guaranty fund banks, which have been in business for as much as one year, added to 15 per cent of the capital, surplus and undivided profits of all other guaranty fund banks. Each guaranty fund bank shall pay such assessments by crediting the State bank guaranty fund with the amount thereof upon its books, as of date January 1, next, after the said assessment is made, as a demand deposit, subject to check, upon the order of the State Banking Board, and shall, prior to said date, forward to the Commissioner proper evidence of such credit and each guaranty fund bank shall charge the amount of each such assessment as credited to the State bank guaranty fund upon its books to "interest in State bank guaranty fund," and shall be entitled to treat in its statements of condition and otherwise the amount of its said interest in said fund, as shown by its books, as a portion of its assets; provided, that the amount of its said interest in said fund shall not include any of the amounts paid out upon general checks drawn by the order of the State Banking Board. The relevy and readjustment of the assessment herein provided for shall be made on such basis as will provide a State bank guaranty fund, as of January 1, of each succeeding year, equal to the percentages herein prescribed of the average annual deposits and capital, surplus and undivided profits, respectively, for each succeeding year, until the maximum percentage herein prescribed shall be attained and thereafter such relevy and readjustment shall be made each year upon such a basis as will provide a fund upon January 1, of each year amounting to 5 per cent of the annual deposits and 15 per cent of the capital, surplus and undivided profits, as hereinbefore provided for.

If, in the making of such relevy and readjustment, it becomes necessary to reduce the amount of the assessment of any guaranty fund bank, said board shall order a check to be signed by the Commissioner, and countersigned by some other member of said board, designated for that purpose, drawn upon said guaranty fund bank in favor of itself, dated January 1, next thereafter, for the amount of such reduction, which the Commissioner shall forthwith transmit to such bank, and if it shall be necessary to increase the assessment of any guaranty fund bank, it shall direct the Commissioner to notify such bank of the amount of such increase, and require that it credit the State bank guaranty fund with the amount of such increase, as of date the first day of January, next thereafter, and send to the Commissioner proper evidence of such credit, prior to said date. Any State bank which shall become a guaranty fund bank, in accordance with the provisions of this act at any time after the first day of January, 1910, shall, before it shall be issued a certificate of authority to transact a banking business as a guaranty fund bank, shall credit the State bank guaranty fund, as herein before provided, with an amount equal to 1 per cent of its average daily deposits for the year ending November 1, preceding, if it shall have transacted business for that period, or 3 per cent of its capital, surplus and undivided profits, if it shall not have transacted business for such period or 3 per cent of its capital stock and paid in surplus, if any, if a newly incorporated bank, and furnish the Commissioner with proper evidence of such credit. Whenever the amount deposited to the credit of the State bank guaranty fund on the books of the various guaranty fund banks, shall at any time be reduced by the payment of checks drawn upon them by order of the State Banking Board, for the purpose of paying the guaranteed deposits of any guaranty fund bank as hereinafter provided for, below the amount of such credit as of the 15th day of January next preceding, it shall be the duty of the State Banking Board to immediately levy an assessment based upon the average daily deposits, and upon the capital, surplus and undivided profits, as shown by the sworn statements filed in the preceding November, as herein provided, sufficient to make good such reduction; provided, that the total assessments made for the purpose of making good such reduction shall not exceed 2 per cent of such average daily deposits for any one calendar year, exclusive of the one-fourth of 1 per cent required to be placed to the credit of the bank guaranty fund each year as heretofore stated, and the guaranty fund banks shall immediately furnish the Commissioner proper evidence of such additional credit; but this provision shall not apply to special checks drawn only on certain banks by order of said board as hereinbefore provided.

It shall be the duty of the Commissioner to keep a strict account with each guaranty fund bank, subject to the provisions of this act, in which any portion of the State bank guaranty fund is deposited, in a book to be kept for that purpose, showing all amounts credited to said fund, in each bank, and all checks drawn against the same, and it shall be his duty to immediately notify any such bank of any discrepancy between the status of its account as shown upon his books and any statement made by such bank, or any report of its examination, and he shall also call such discrepancy to the attention of the State Banking Board.

Whenever any guaranty fund bank shall pay off and discharge all its liabilities to its creditors and go into liquidation, for the purpose of voluntarily winding up its affairs and surrender to the Commissioner its certificate of authority, it shall be the duty of the State Banking Board, upon a showing of these facts, to order the Commissioner to draw a check upon such bank, in its favor for the amount of the State bank guaranty fund on deposit therewith, which shall be thereon repaid to it upon such liquidation; provided, nothing in this act shall be construed so as to guarantee interest-bearing deposits in such bank.

It shall be the duty of the State

Banking Board, within ten days after January 1, 1910, to order the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to draw checks to be countersigned by some other member of said board, designated for that purpose, upon all guaranty fund banks, for 25 per cent of the amount of the State bank guaranty fund held by on deposit each of them or pro rata for the sum of $100,000, whichever is the greater, and to deposit the proceeds thereof in cash with the State Treasurer of this State, to be held by him for the purposes of this act, and to be paid out by him upon warrants drawn by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, upon the order of the State Banking Board, such warrants to be countersigned by some other member of said board, designated for that purpose, as hereinafter provided. Within ten days after the first day of January of each year, after 1910, the State Banking Board shall readjust the proportion of the State bank guaranty fund to be kept in cash on deposit with the State Treasurer, in accordance with the provisions of this section, so that the same shall equal 25 per cent of the amount of the State bank guaranty fund, as of January 1, preceding, or the sum of $100,000, whichever is the greater. In making such readjustment, it shall return to any guaranty fund bank the amount of such cash theretofore contributed by it and then on deposit, in excess of its pro rata part, or shall draw checks upon any guaranty fund bank necessary to make up its pro rata part as the case may be. The provisions of this section shall apply only to guaranty fund banks, as defined in this act, or to those becoming guaranty fund banks, in accordance with its provisions.

Sec. 25. Whenever the Commissioner shall have reason to believe that the capital stock of any State bank is reduced by impairment or otherwise below the amount required by law or by its certificates of authority or articles of incorporation, he shall present the matter to the State Banking Board for its consideration, and if said board shall determine thereupon that the capital stock of such State bank is impaired to the extent of not more than 25 per cent thereof, the Commissioner shall require such State bank to make good the deficiency within sixty days after the date of such requisition. If said board shall determine that the impairment exceeds 25 per cent of the amount of the capital stock, the Commissioner shall require that such State bank forthwith reduce the amount of such impairment to less than 25 per cent and to make good the whole impairment within sixty days from the date of such requisition. The Commissioner may examine or cause to be examined any such State bank to ascertain the amount of such impairment and whether the deficiency has been made good, as required by him. The directors of every such State bank upon which such requisition shall have been made shall give notice of such requisition to each stockholder of the corporation and of the amount of the assessment which he must pay for the purpose of making good such deficiency by a written or printed notice mailed to such stockholder at his place of residence or served personally upon him, and a meeting of the stockholders of such bank shall forthwith be called for the purpose of determining whether or not such bank shall make good such deficiency or impairment or liquidate; and if it be decided to make good such deficiency or impairment, each stockholder shall thereupon become liable for, and shall pay his pro rata part of said assessment, and if any stockholder shall refuse or neglect to pay the assessment specified in such notice within the time provided by the requisition of the Commissioner, the directors shall have the right to sell to the highest bidder at public auction the stock of such stockholder, after giving previous notice of such sale for two weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the principal office of such corporation is located; or such stock may be sold at private sale and without such published notice; provided, however, that before making private sale thereof an offer in writing to purchase such stock shall be obtained and a copy thereof served upon the owner of record of the stock caused to be sold either personally or by mailing a copy of such offer to such owner at his place of residence or address furnished by him to such State bank; and if after service of such offer such owner shall still refuse or neglect to pay such assessment within two weeks from the time of service of such offer, the said directors may accept such offer and sell such stock to the person or persons making such offer, or to any other person or persons making larger offer than the amount named in the offer submitted to such stockholder; but such stock shall in no event be sold for a smaller sum than the valuation put on it by the Commissioner in his determination and certificate, which valuation shall not be less than the amount of the assessment called for and the necessary costs of sale.

Out of the avails of the stock sold the directors shall pay the necessary cost of sale and the amount of the assessment called for thereon. The balance, if any, shall be paid to the person or persons whose stock has been thus sold. The sale of stock as herein provided shall effect the cancellation of the outstanding certificate or certificates evidencing the stock so sold, and shall make the same null and void, and a new certificate or new certificates shall be issued to the purchaser or purchasers of said stock. If it shall appear to the Commissioner that any State bank has violated its charter or any law binding upon it, he may, by an order under his hand and official seal, addressed to such State bank direct the discontinuance of such violation; or, if it shall appear to the Commissioner that any such State bank is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner he may in like manner direct discontinuance of such unsafe or unauthorized practice. Such order shall require such State bank to show cause before the State Banking Board at a time and place to be fixed by the Commissioner why said order should not be observed.

Sec. 26. If the capital stock of any State bank shall be impaired and such impairment is not made good as required by law, or if any such State bank shall refuse to submit its books, papers and concerns to the inspection of any examiner, or if any officer thereof shall refuse to be examined upon oath touching the concerns of such State bank, or if it shall violate its charter, or any law of the State, or if such State bank shall suspend payment of its obligations, or if such State bank shall conduct its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner, or if from any examiner's or other report provided for by law the Commissioner shall conclude that such State bank is in an unsafe or unsound condition to transact the business for which it is organized, or that it is unsafe and inexpedient for it to continue business, and the Commissioner shall communicate the facts to the Attorney General, an action to procure a judgment dissolving such corporation and forfeiting its charter may be maintained.

Sec. 27. Whenever it shall appear to the Commissioner that any State bank has violated its charter or any law of the State, or is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner, or if any such State bank shall refuse to submit its books, papers and concerns to the inspection of any examiner, or if any officer thereof shall refuse to be examined upon oath touching the concern of any such State bank, or to answer upon oath any interrogatories touching such concern, sent him by the Commissioner through the mails with the request for such answer, within ten days after the same shall have been mailed to him at his address by registered letter, or if any such State bank shall suspend payment of its obligations, or if from any examination or report provided for or authorized by law the Commissioner shall have reason to conclude that such State bank is in an unsound or unsafe condition to transact the business for which it is organized, or that it is unsafe or inexpedient for it to continue business, or if any such State bank shall neglect or refuse to observe an order or requisition of the Commissioner to reduce or make good the impairment in its capital stock, as required by law, the Commissioner may forthwith take possession of the property and business of such State bank and retain such possession until such State bank shall resume business, or its affairs are finally liquidated, as herein provided. On taking possession of the property and business of any such State bank, the Commissioner shall forthwith give notice of such fact to any and all banks, trust companies, associations and individuals holding or in possession of any assets of any such State bank.

No bank, trust company, association or individual knowing of such taking possession by the Commissioner, or notified as aforesaid, shall have a lien or charge for any payment, advance or clearance thereafter made, or liability thereafter incurred against any of the assets of the State bank of whose property and business the Commissioner shall have taken possession as aforesaid. Such State bank may, with the consent of the State Banking Board, resume business upon such condition as may be approved by it, which permission shall be evidenced by a written statement to that effect from the Commissioner. Upon taking possession of the property and business of such State bank, the Commissioner is authorized to collect moneys due to such corporation, and do such other acts as are necessary to conserve its assets and business, and shall proceed to liquidate the affairs thereof as hereinafter provided. The Commissioner shall collect all debts due and claims belonging to such State bank, and upon the order of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the county in which it was located and transacting business, may sell or compound all bad or doubtful debts, and on like order may sell the real or personal property of such State bank on such terms as the court shall direct; and may, if necessary to pay the debts of such State bank, enforce the individual liability of the stockholders. The Commissioner may, under his hand and official seal, appoint one or more special agents to assist him in the duty of liquidation and distribution, the certificate of appointment to be filed in the office of the Commissioner and a certified copy in the office of the clerk of the county court in which such State bank was located and transacted business. The Commissioner may, from time to time, authorize a special agent to perform such duties connected with such liquidation and distribution as the said Commissioner may deem proper. The Commissioner may employ such counsel and procure such expert assistance and advice as may be necessary in the liquidation and distribution of the assets of such State bank, and may retain such of the officers or employes of such State bank as he may deem necessary. The Commissioner shall require from a special agent and from such assistants such security for the faithful discharge of their duties as he may deem proper. The Commissioner shall cause notice to be given by advertisement in such newspapers as he may direct, weekly, for three consecutive months, calling on all persons who may have claims against such State bank to present the same to the Commissioner and make legal proof thereof at a place and within a time not earlier than the last day of publication to be therein specified, which notice shall contain a statement, in larger type than that in which the body of said notice is printed, specifically stating that all such claims of guaranteed depositors must be presented and legal proof thereof made at the place designated within forty-five days after the date which the property and business of such State bank was taken possession of by the Commissioner, and that all claims of guaranteed depositors presented after the expiration of forty-five days shall not be entitled to payment of any portion thereof out of the State bank guaranty fund. The Commissioner shall mail a similar notice to all persons whose names appear as creditors upon the books of the State bank. If the Commissioner doubts the justice and validity of any claim, he may reject the same and serve notice of such rejection upon the claimant, either by mail or personally. An affidavit of the service of such notice, which shall be prima facie evidence thereof, shall be filed with the Commissioner. The action upon a claim so rejected must be brought within six months after such service. Claims presented after the expiration of the time fixed in the notice to the creditors shall be entitled to share in the distribution only to the extent of the assets in the hands of the Commissioner equitably applicable thereto. Upon taking possession of the property and assets of such State bank, the Commissioner shall make an inventory of the assets of such State bank in duplicate, one to be filed in the office of the Commissioner and one in the office of the clerk of the county court in which such State bank was located and transacting business; upon the expiration of the time fixed for the presentation of claims presented, including and specifying such claims as have been rejected by him, and showing fully all claims and amounts paid to guaranteed depositors out of the State bank guaranty fund, and the amount to which said fund is entitled by reason of its subrogation to the rights of such guaranteed depositors so paid, and all amounts held by him on account of claims of guaranteed depositors, which have been rejected or are in dispute, one to be filed in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county in which such State bank was located and transacted business. Such inventory and list of claims shall be open at all reasonable times to inspection. All compensation of special agents, counsel and other employees and assistants, and all expenses of supervision and liquidation shall be fixed by the Commissioner, subject to the approval of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such State bank was located and transacting business, on notice to such State bank; provided, that the compensation of such special agents shall always be the same as is provided by law for State bank examiners, and shall, upon the certificate of the Commissioner, be paid out of the fund of such State banks in the hands of the Commissioner. The moneys collected by the Commissioner shall be from time to time deposited in one or more State banks, and, in case of the suspension or insolvency of the depository, such deposits shall be preferred before all other deposits. And any time after the expiration of the date fixed for the presentation of claims, the Commissioner may, out of the funds remaining in his hands, after the payment of expenses, declare one or more dividends, and after the expiration of one year from the first publication of a notice to creditors, he may declare a final dividend, such dividends to be paid to such person and in such manner and upon such notice as may be directed by the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such State bank was located and transacted business. In the declaration and payment of all such dividends the State bank guaranty fund shall be entitled to receive as its dividend such portions of the amounts due and payable to guaranteed depositors as shall have been paid to them out of the State bank guaranty fund, together with 6 per cent interest thereon from the date or dates upon which checks were drawn upon all State banks, as hereinafter provided, to provide for the payment of the guaranteed deposits of such State banks, and the Commissioner shall forthwith distribute such dividends to State banks upon which checks were drawn for such payment of guaranteed depositors in proportion to the amounts of such checks, respectively. Objections to any claim not rejected by the Commissioner may be made by any party interested by filing a copy of such objections with the Commissioner, who shall present the same to the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, at the time of the next application to declare a dividend. The court may make proper provision for unproved or unclaimed deposits. Whenever any such State bank, of whose property and business the Commissioner has taken possession as aforesaid, deems itself aggrieved thereby, it may, at any time within ten days after such taking possession, apply to the district court, if in session, or to the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such bank is located and transacting business to enjoin further proceedings, and said court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, after citing the Commissioner to show cause why further proceedings should not be enjoined, and hearing the allegations and proofs of the parties and determining the facts, may, upon the merits dismiss such application or enjoin the Commissioner from further proceedings and direct him to surrender such business and property to such State bank. Whenever the Commissioner shall have paid to each and every depositor and creditor of such State bank (not including stockholders), except for the amount of their deposits over and above their liability under the law as stockholders, whose claim or claims as such creditor or depositor shall have been duly proven and allowed, the full amount of such claims, and shall have repaid to the State bank guaranty fund all amounts paid out of it to guaranteed depositors of such State bank, together with 6 per cent interest thereon from the date when the checks to provide for such payment were drawn and shall have made proper provision for unclaimed and unpaid deposits or dividends, and shall have paid all the expenses of the liquidation, the Commissioner shall call a meeting of the stockholders of such State bank by giving notice thereof for thirty days in one or more newspapers in the county where such State bank was located and transacted business. At such meeting the stockholders shall determine whether the Commissioner shall be continued as liquidator, and shall wind up the affairs of such State bank, or whether an agent or agents shall be elected for that purpose, and in so determining the said stockholders shall vote by ballot, in person or by proxy, each share of stock entitling the holder to one vote, and a majority of the stock shall be necessary to a determination. In case it is determined to continue the liquidation under the Commissioner, he shall complete the liquidation of such corporation, and after paying the expenses thereof shall distribute the proceeds among the stockholders in proportion to the several holdings of stock in such manner and upon such notice as may be directed by the district court. In case it is determined to appoint an agent or agents to liquidate, the stockholders shall thereupon select such agent or agents by ballot, a majority of the stock present and voting, in person or by proxy, being necessary for a choice. Such agent or agents shall execute and file with the Commissioner a bond, in such amount, with such sureties and in such form as shall be approved by the Commissioner, conditioned for the faithful performance of all the duties of his or their trust, and thereupon the Commissioner shall transfer and deliver to such agent or agents all the undivided and unclaimed or other assets of such State bank then remaining in his hands; and upon such transfer and delivery the said Commissioner shall be discharged from any and all further liability to such State bank and its creditors and stockholders. Such agent or agents shall convert the assets coming into his or their possession into cash, and shall account for and make distribution of the property of said State bank, as is herein provided in the case of distribution by the Commissioner, except that the expenses thereof shall be subject to the direction and control of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such State bank was located and transacted business. In case of the death, removal or refusal to act of such agent or agents, the stockholders, on the same notice, to be given by the Commissioner, upon proof of such death, removal or refusal to act being filed with him, and by the same vote hereinbefore provided, may select a successor, and shall have the same power and be subject to the same liabilities and duties as the agent originally elected. Dividends and unclaimed deposits remaining unpaid in the hands of the Commissioner for six months after the order for final distribution, shall be by him deposited in some State bank to be designated by the State Banking Board to the credit of the Commissioner in his name of office, in trust for the several depositors with and creditors of the liquidated State bank from which they were received, who are entitled thereto. The Commissioner shall show in his official report the names of the State banks so taken possession of and liquidated, and the amounts of unclaimed and unpaid deposits or dividends, with respect to each of them, respectively. The Commissioner shall pay over the moneys so held by him to the persons respectively entitled thereto, upon the order of the State Banking Board, who shall direct such payment to such persons upon being furnished satisfactory evidence of their right to the same. In case of doubt or conflicting claims, the State Banking Board may require an order of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, authorizing and directing the payment thereof. The State Banking Board may apply the interest earned by the moneys held by the Commissioner, or may authorize him to apply the same toward defraying the expenses incurred in the payment and distribution of such unclaimed deposits or dividends to the depositors and creditors entitled to receive the same, and the Commissioner shall include in his official report a statement of the amount of interest earned by such unclaimed dividends. Any State bank may, at any time, place its affairs and assets under the control of the Commissioner by posting a notice on its front door, as follows: "This institution is in the hands of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of the State of Texas." The posting of this notice or of the same notice by the Commissioner or any State bank examiner at any time when he shall have taken possession of the property and business of a State bank, shall be sufficient to place all its assets and property of whatever nature in the possession of the Commissioner and shall operate as a bar to any attachment proceedings whatever.

Sec. 28. When any guaranty fund bank shall voluntarily place itself in the hands of the Commissioner, or when he shall take possession of the property and business of any guaranty fund bank, the State Banking Board shall immediately order the Commissioner to draw a warrant or warrants upon the State Treasurer, in the manner provided in this act, for such portion of the amount of the State bank guaranty fund deposited with the State Treasurer, in cash, as may be necessary to pay in full the amount due the guaranteed depositors of such bank. If the amount so necessary to pay such guaranteed depositors shall exceed the entire amount on deposit with the State Treasurer in cash, the State Banking Board shall immediately order the Commissioner to draw checks, countersigned by some other member of said board designated for that purpose, which shall be known and marked as "special checks" on such of the State banks and for such portions of the amount of the State bank guaranty fund on deposit therewith, respectively, as it may determine and direct, for amounts sufficient in the aggregate in addition to such amount on deposit with the State Treasurer, to pay in full the amount due the guaranteed depositors of said guaranty fund bank. The State Banking Board shall have the right to order additional special checks drawn as above provided, in case they shall find that the amount originally estimated will prove insufficient to pay all guaranteed depositors. Such special checks shall be made payable to the order of some State bank, and shall be deposited by the Commissioner in such bank as a special deposit, for the purpose of paying the guaranteed depositors in the guaranty fund bank of which he shall have taken possession, and shall be subject to his check for that use and purpose. The Commissioner may, if so directed by the State Banking Board, draw upon the sums so deposited in cash upon the checks made payable to himself, for the purpose of paying in cash the guaranteed depositors of said closed guaranty fund bank. With the fund so provided, the Commissioner shall immediately proceed, either personally or through his special agent, to pay all claims of guaranteed depositors, as they may be presented and proven up, taking receipts therefor in such form as may be prescribed by the State Banking Board. At the expiration of forty-five days after the Commissioner shall have taken possession of the property and business of any guaranty fund bank, whose guaranteed depositors he shall have paid in cash, he shall make report to the State Banking Board of the total amount of guaranteed deposits of such institution, and of the amount of such guaranteed deposits paid by him, and to whom paid, and of the amount of claims presented by guaranteed depositors, which he has rejected and disallowed, and of any amount of cash he has on hand, on account of such claims, and of any amount which he may have paid or contracted to pay out of said State bank guaranty fund in connection with the expenses incident to the payment of such guaranteed deposits, and of the amount remaining in his hands or on special deposit in his name out of the funds provided by special checks for the payment of the guaranteed depositors of such bank, and of the amount of money in his hands belonging to said closed bank, which may be properly paid into the State bank guaranty fund, on account of the guaranteed deposits paid out of such fund. Such report shall be accompanied by proper vouchers for all expenditures so made by the Commissioner or his special agent. The State Banking Board shall thereupon consider such report, and carefully audit the same in connection with the vouchers submitted therewith, and if it approve the same, it shall order the Commissioner to draw checks countersigned by some other member of said board, designated for that purpose, upon all guaranty fund banks, other than those upon whom such special checks were drawn for their respective proportionate amounts of such sum as may be necessary in addition to such amount as may remain unexpended in the hands of the Commissioner out of the proceeds of such special checks, and such amount belonging to said closed bank as may be in his hands, which is due and payable as aforesaid, to the State bank guaranty fund, to repay the amounts drawn by such special checks. Each of the checks so drawn shall be for that proportion of such sum which the amount of the State bank guaranty fund on deposit in each such guaranty fund bank bears to the total amount of said State bank guaranty fund, and such checks shall be payable to the order of some State bank in which they shall be deposited by the Commissioner to his credit as a special deposit, and against such special deposit he shall immediately draw his check in favor of such of the guaranty fund banks upon whom special checks were drawn for the difference between the amount of such special checks drawn upon each bank and its proportionate amount of the cash raised upon all of such special checks so drawn, and he shall immediately transmit the same to such banks upon whom such special checks were drawn in repayment of the amount advanced by them, over and above the amount proportionately due by them. When any part or all of the cash on deposit with the State Treasurer shall have been used in the payment of the guaranteed deposits of any guaranty fund, it shall be the duty of the State Banking Board, to immediately order the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to draw checks to be countersigned by some other member of the board, designated for that purpose, upon all guaranty fund banks, for the pro rata part of such sum as may be necessary to restore the amount of such cash on deposit with the State Treasurer, as of January 10, preceding, and to pay the proceeds of such checks to such State Treasurer. The Commissioner, within ninety days after he shall have taken possession of any guaranty bank, shall make a full report to the State Banking Board, showing the amounts collected and disbursed by him in the payment of guaranteed depositors, accompanied by proper vouchers for all disbursements, and showing all amounts remaining in his hands and on what account the same is held, which report shall be carefully audited by the State Banking Board, in connection with the vouchers submitted therewith. A copy of such report shall be recorded in the office of the Commissioner, and a certified copy shall be recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county where such State bank was located and transacted business, and a printed copy shall be mailed by the Commissioner to each guaranty fund bank in the State.

Sec. 29. If the Commissioner, or his special agent, shall disallow or reject any claim presented by a guaranteed depositor, he shall nevertheless include the amount of such disallowed or rejected claim in the amount for the payment of which provision is to be made out of the State bank guaranty fund, and like provisions shall be made for such claim as for those duly allowed and paid; but the Commissioner shall retain in his hands such an amount pending the final settlement and an adjudication of such rejected or disputed claim, and shall apply the same in payment thereof, if it shall be found that such State bank was legally liable therefor, and shall equitably distribute the same to the various banks in which the State bank guaranty fund is deposited, if it shall be finally determined that such State bank is not so liable.

Sec. 30. Any deposit made by the Commissioner, as provided by this act, in any State bank, for the purpose of providing for the payment of guaranteed depositors, whether of special checks or checks drawn upon all banks in which the State bank guaranty fund may be deposited or otherwise, and all deposits of any portion of the State bank guaranty fund originally credited thereto in any State bank, as provided by this act, shall be preferred before all other deposits in case of the insolvency or suspension of the depository.

Sec. 31. If from the sworn statement of the average daily deposits of any bank for the year ending on the first day of November, 1909, or of any subsequent year, filed with the Commissioner as provided in this act, it shall appear that such average daily deposits for such year amounted to more than five times the capital stock and surplus of such bank on November 1 of such year, if the capital stock of such bank is not more than $10,000, or more than six times such capital stock and surplus if the capital stock is more than $10,000 and less than $20,000, or seven times such capital stock and surplus if the capital stock is $20,000 or more and less than $40,000, or eight times such capital stock and surplus if the capital stock is $40,000 or more and less than $75,000, or nine times such capital stock and surplus if the capital stock is $75,000 or more and less than $100,000, or ten times such capital stock and surplus if such capital stock is $100,000 or more, then in any such case it shall be the duty of the State Banking Board to require that such State bank shall within sixty days thereafter increase its capital by 25 per cent thereof, and it shall be the duty of the Commissioner to immediately furnish such State bank with a certified copy of the order making such requirement, and upon the receipt of such requisition the directors of such State bank shall, within the time required, cause such increase to be made in its capital stock, and if the same is not done within such time, it shall be unlawful for such bank to thereafter receive any deposits at any time when its total demand and time deposits shall in the aggregate amount to more than the limitation herein placed upon deposits.

Sec. 32. Section 39 of Chapter 10 of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Section 39. It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, at least once in each quarter of each calendar year to cause each banking corporation, subject by law to examination, to be thoroughly and fully examined, and any such corporation may be examined whenever such Commissioner may deem it necessary or expedient. Such Commissioner and the State bank examiners shall have the power to administer oaths to any person whose testimony may be desired for the purpose of any such examinations. The expenses of every general and special examination shall be paid by the corporation examined in such amount as the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall certify to be just and reasonable. Provided, such expenses shall be paid in proportion to the amount of capital stock of the various corporations as follows: Those with a capital stock of $10,000 shall not pay more than $12.50; those with a capital stock of more than $10,000 and not exceeding $25,000 shall not pay more than $15; those with a capital stock of more than $25,000 and not exceeding $50,000 shall not pay more than $20; those with a capital stock of more than $50,000 and not exceeding $100,000 shall not pay more than $30; those with a capital stock of more than $100,000 and not exceeding $250,000 shall not pay more than $37.50; those with a capital stock of more than $250,000 and not exceeding $500,000 shall not pay more than $75; those with a capital stock of more than $500,000 and not exceeding $1,000,000 shall pay not more than $125; those with a capital stock of more than $1,000,000 and not exceeding $2,000,000 shall not pay more than $150; those with a capital stock of more than $2,000,000 and not exceeding $4,000,000 shall not pay more than $200; and those with a capital stock exceeding $4,000,000 shall not pay more than $300.

"The permanent surplus of any such corporation shall be reckoned in ascertaining the fees for examination as a part of its capital stock. All sums collected as examination fees shall be paid by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking directly into the State Treasury, to the credit of the general revenue fund. Payments for salaries and expenses of examinations and for expenses of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking in enforcing this act shall be made upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking by warrant on the Comptroller upon the State Treasurer.

"The result of each examination shall be certified by the examiner upon the record of the corporation examined, and the report of all examinations made during each year shall be embodied in an annual report pertaining to banking matters, to be made by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to the Governor. The result of all such examinations shall be reported semi-annually to the Comptroller."

Sec. 33. Section 44 of Chapter 10 of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

"Section 44. The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall from time to time appoint such number of State bank examiners as may be necessary to make the examinations of banking corporations required by law, which number shall at no time exceed one for each forty banking corporations then subject to examination under the laws of this State. As full compensation for the performance of the duties of examiners, each person so appointed shall be entitled to receive a salary of $2000 per annum, besides necessary traveling expenses. An itemized account of such expenses shall be rendered monthly under oath by each examiner and shall be approved by the Commissioner."

Sec. 34. No State bank shall make any loan or discount on the security of the shares of its own capital stock, nor be the purchaser or holder of any such shares, unless such security or purchase shall be necessary to prevent a loss upon a debt previously contracted in good faith; and stock so purchased or acquired shall, within six months from the time of its purchase, be sold or disposed of at public or private sale, or, in default thereof, such State bank shall be considered to have its capital stock impaired to the extent of the par value of such shares.

Sec. 35. No State bank shall, at any time, be indebted or in any way liable, to an amount exceeding the amount of its capital stock at such time, actually paid in and remaining undiminished by losses, or otherwise, except on account of demands of the nature following:

(1) Money deposited with, or collected by such State bank.

(2) Bills of exchange or drafts drawn against money actually on deposit to the credit of such State bank, or due thereto.

(3) Liabilities to the stockholders of such bank on account of the stock held by them and for dividends and undivided profits.

Sec. 36. It shall be unlawful for any such bank to hypothecate or pledge as collateral security for money borrowed upon bills payable or certificates of deposit, or otherwise, its securities to an amount more than 50 per cent greater than the amount borrowed thereon, or for any State bank to issue or execute any bills or other evidence of indebtedness, secured or to be secured, by the pledge or hypothecation of any of its securities which shall not contain a provision that in the event such State bank shall, for any cause, have its property and business taken possession of by the Commissioner, at any time before such pledge or hypothecation shall have been actually foreclosed, a grace of thirty days after the date of such taking possession shall be allowed in which such bank or Commissioner shall be permitted to redeem such securities so hypothecated or pledged by the payment of the amount due as principal and interest on such indebtedness.

Sec. 37. After this act shall take effect, it shall be unlawful for any State bank to make a loan, secured by the stock of any other banking corporation, if by the making of such loan as the total stock of such other banking corporation held by it as collateral, will exceed in the aggregate 10 per cent of the capital stock of such other banking corporation, unless the taking of a greater percentage of such capital stock as collateral shall be necessary, to prevent loss upon a debt previously contracted, in good faith, and any such excess so taken as collateral, or owned by such State bank, shall not be held as collateral or owned by it for a longer period than six months.

Sec. 38. After this act shall take effect, no State bank shall make a loan upon real estate security, directly or indirectly, which shall not be due and payable within five years from the date upon which such loan is made, or a loan upon other than real estate security which shall not be due and payable not more than one year from the date upon which such loan is made.

Sec. 39. Each director of a State bank, when appointed or elected, shall take an oath that he will so far as the duty devolves upon him, diligently and honestly administer the affairs of such corporation, and will not knowingly violate, or wilfully permit to be violated any of the provisions of the law applicable to such State bank; and he is the owner in good faith, and in his own right, of the number of shares of stock required by law, subscribed by him or standing in his name on the books of the corporation, and that the same is not hypothecated, or in any way pledged as security for any loan or debt, and, in case of re-election or reappointment, that such stock was not hypothecated, or in any way pledged as security for any loan or debt during his previous term. Such oath shall be subscribed by the director making it, and certified by the officer before whom it is taken, and shall be immediately transmitted to the Commissioner, and filed and preserved in his office.

Sec. 40. The directors of every State bank shall hold a regular meeting once a month, at which it shall be the duty of the cashier, or some other officer designated for that purpose by resolution of the board of directors, duly recorded in its minutes, to prepare and submit to each director a written statement of all purchases and sales of securities, and of every discount and loan, exclusive of discounts and loans of less amounts than $1000, if the capital stock of such State bank be $100,000 or more, and exclusive of discounts and loans of less than 1 per cent of its capital stock, if it be less than $100,000, made since the last regular meeting of the board, describing the collateral to the loans so made, as of the date of the meeting at which such statement is submitted. Such statement shall also contain a list giving the aggregate of loans and discounts to each individual, firm, corporation or association, whose liability to such bank has been increased since the last regular meeting of the board, $1000 or more, if such State bank has a capital of $100,000 or more, and 1 per cent of its capital stock, if the same be less than $100,000 together with a description of the collateral to such loans, held by such corporation at the date of the meeting at which such statement is submitted. A copy of such statement shall be immediately mailed to each director not present at such meeting, whether or not a quorum of such directors shall attend, and a copy thereof together with a list of the directors present at such meeting and of those to whom such statements were mailed, verified by the affidavit of the officer or officers charged with the duty of preparing such statement, shall be filed with the records of such State bank, within one day after such meeting, and be presumptive evidence of the matters therein stated.

Sec. 41. Section 50 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature is hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

"Section 50. No bank and no bank or trust company or any member of either, shall, during the time it shall continue in banking or banking and trust operations, withdraw or permit to be withdrawn, either in the form of dividends or otherwise any portion of its capital. If losses have at any time been sustained by any such association equal to or exceeding its undivided profits then on hand, no dividend shall be made; and no dividend shall ever be made by a bank or bank and trust company while it continues its banking and trust operations to an amount greater than its net profits then on hand, deducting therefrom its losses and bad debts. (All debts due to any State bank on which interest is past due and unpaid for a period of six months unless the same are well secured and in process of collection, shall be considered bad debts within the meaning of this section.)

"The board of directors of any bank or trust company organized under this act may declare a semi-annual or quarterly dividend, if such dividend has been earned, provided the corporation be fully solvent, without such earnings proposed to be divided. But they shall not declare a dividend at any time when the capital of such corporation shall have become impaired to such an extent that it is not worth in good resources the full amount paid in after the payment of all liabilities, and any officer or director of such corporation who shall assent to declaring and paying dividends where the capital stock is so impaired, shall be personally liable to the creditors of the corporation to the amount of his proportion of the proposed dividend, if any loss occur by reason of the payment of such dividend."

Sec. 42. Section 53 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Section 53. No incorporated bank, nor trust company, organized under this act, shall loan its money to any individual, corporation or company, directly or indirectly, or permit any individual, corporation or company to become at any time indebted or liable to it in a sum exceeding 25 per cent of its capital stock, or permit a line of loans or credits to any greater amount to any individual, corporation or company, a permanent surplus, the setting apart of which shall have been certified to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, may be taken and considered as a part of the capital stock for the purpose of this section, provided such surplus is in amount not less than 50 per cent of the capital stock of said bank; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed as in any wise to interfere with the rules and regulations of any clearing association in this State in reference to the daily balances between banks, and that this section shall not apply to balances due from correspondents subject to draft, and that the discounting of the following classes of papers shall not be included in the limitations placed upon loans and credits by this section, viz.:

"1. The discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actual existing values.

"2. The discount of paper upon the collateral security of warehouse receipts or other written instruments conveying a lien with the right to take immediate possession covering agricultural and manufactured products in store, elevators and warehouses, or conveniently deposited elsewhere under the following conditions:

"(a) That the actual market value of the property held in store and covered by such receipts, if other than cotton and cotton seed products, shall at all times exceed, by at least 25 per cent, the amount loaned upon the same, and if it be cotton or cotton seed products, it shall be at least 10 per centum of the amount loaned upon the same.

"(b) That the full amount of the loans shall at all times be covered by policies of fire insurance issued by companies admitted to do business in this State to the extent of their ability to cover such loans, and then by companies having sufficient paid-up capital to be so admitted, and all such policies shall be made payable in case of loss to the bank or holder of such warehouse receipts, or other instruments."

Sec. 50. Any guaranty fund bank incorporated under the laws of this State, desiring to maintain a savings department or to use or continue to use the word "savings" as a part of its corporate name, or in or as a part of any sign or advertisement, or in or upon any stationery used or to be used by it, shall establish and maintain a savings department in compliance with the provisions of this section. Such savings department may be established by the board of directors adopting a resolution providing therefor, at a regular meeting, which shall contain a copy of this section, and a certified copy of which shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and also recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such bank or banking and trust company is located: such copies to be so filed by banks or banking and trust companies maintaining savings departments and using the word "savings" as above provided at the time this act shall take effect, and which desire to continue to do so, within ninety days from the time this act shall take effect, and to be filed by the banks desiring to establish such savings departments after this act shall take effect prior to the establishment of such department. All banks or banking and trust companies establishing or maintaining a savings department or using the word "savings" as above provided after this act shall take effect, or which having such departments or so using the word "savings" at the time this act shall take effect, shall continue to maintain such departments or to so use the word "savings" more than ninety days thereafter shall keep the business of such department entirely separate and distinct from the general business of the bank or banking and trust company, and shall keep all moneys received as such savings deposits and the funds and securities in which the same may be invested, at all times segregated from and unmingled with the other money and funds of the bank or banking and trust company, and may invest not more than 85 per cent of the total amount of such savings deposits in any of the following classes of securities, and not otherwise, to wit:

(1) In bonds or interest-bearing notes or obligations of the United States, or of those for which the faith of the United States is pledged for the payment of principal and interest.

(2) In bonds of any city, county, town or school district or other subdivision of this State, now organized or which may be hereafter organized, and which is now or may hereafter be authorized to issue bonds under the Constitution and laws of this State, which has not defaulted in the payment of any part of either principal or interest thereof, within five years previous to making such investments.

(3) In bonds of the State of Texas or of any State in the Union that has not within the last five years previous to making such investment, defaulted in the payment of any part of either principal or interest thereof.

(4) In the first mortgage bonds of any steam or electric railroad, the income of which is sufficient to pay all operating expenses and fixed charges, which has its domicile in the State.

(5) In bonds and notes secured by first mortgage, deed of trust, or other valid first lien on unincumbered improved real estate to run for a term not longer than ten years, situated in the State, worth at least twice the amount loaned thereon, such bonds or notes to be always accompanied by a complete abstract of title to the property mortgaged and an attorney's certificate or title insurance policy in some company incorporated under the laws of this State, certifying said bonds or notes to be a first lien on the land mortgaged.

It shall be the duty of the directors of such bank or banking and trust company, as soon as practicable, to invest the moneys and funds of such savings department, by purchase or otherwise, in the securities above prescribed and from time to time to sell and reinvest the proceeds of such investment, but for the purpose of meeting current demands in excess of the receipts, any of the securities may be sold, or taken up and replaced in cash by the bank or banking and trust company out of its general fund, and there shall be kept on hand at all times not less than 15 per cent of the whole amount of such deposits in actual cash, in such savings department.

It shall be lawful to require sixty days' written notice of the withdrawal of any savings deposit, as provided for in this section, at the option of the bank or banking and trust company. In case of the insolvency or liquidation of any State bank or banking and trust company which shall establish or maintain a savings department under the terms of this section, its savings depositors shall have an exclusive prior lien upon all the assets, including cash, of such savings department, which shall be first applied to the payment of their claims, and the remainder, after they have been paid in full, shall be applied in payment of claims of general creditors. It shall be the duty of the president or vice president and the cashier of each State bank or banking and trust company maintaining a savings department under the provisions of this section to file with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking not less than ten days after the first day of each calendar month, a statement of the assets and liabilities of such savings department, upon a form to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and it shall be unlawful for any officer of any State bank or banking and trust company to receive or assent to the receiving of any savings deposits when the last preceding monthly statement, as herein provided for, is not conspicuously posted in the office or room where its business is transacted.

The directors of any guaranty fund bank establishing or maintaining or continuing to maintain a savings department may provide that such rate of interest shall be paid on its savings deposits as it may see fit, payable at such periods and upon such terms and conditions as may be reasonable; provided, that in case the earnings of such savings department are insufficient to pay any interest due upon any savings deposits, such interest or the deficiency therein shall be paid by the bank or banking and trust company out of its general funds. At the end of any period for which such bank or banking and trust company may lawfully declare a dividend upon its stock, it shall be proper to transfer to the general funds of such bank or banking and trust company all accumulated earnings of the said savings department after the payment or credit of all interest due and accrued on savings deposits and the legitimate expenses of such departments have been provided for. In computing the aggregate amount of the average annual deposits of any bank or banking and trust company for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not it shall be required to increase its capital stock as provided in Section 17 of this act, the deposits of its saving department, as provided in this section, shall not be included. All such savings departments shall be governed by the terms and provisions of this act, so far as the same are applicable and are not in conflict with the special provisions of this section, and shall also be governed by such provisions of the laws of this State applicable to savings banks as are not in conflict with any provisions of this act, or of this section, and such reasonable rules and regulations for the control of such savings departments may be adopted and put in force by the board of directors at any regular meetings or by the stockholders at any annual meeting; provided, that such rules and regulations shall not become effective until they have been submitted to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and by him approved.

It shall be unlawful for any officer or director of any State bank or banking and trust company which shall establish or maintain or continue to maintain a savings department or which shall use or continue to use the word "savings" as provided in this section to knowingly misappropriate any moneys or funds belonging to such savings department or to use or consent to the use of any such moneys or funds otherwise than for the payment of lawful demands of savings depositors, and in the making of such investments as are prescribed in this section, and in the payment of such dividends to the shareholders as are allowed by law to be paid therefrom, or to borrow any of the funds belonging to such savings department, or to in any way be an obligor for moneys loaned by or borrowed of such savings department, or to receive or accept directly or indirectly, any commission, brokerage or other valuable thing or favor of any kind by reason or on account of any loan or investment made out of the funds of such savings department, or to sell to such savings department any securities or other investment, or wilfully and knowingly do or perform any act or transaction, by or as a result of which at any time, the assets of such savings department, including cash, shall not at least equal in amount the deposits in such savings department, at least 15 per cent of which shall be actual cash in such savings department.

Any officer or director of any State bank or banking and trust company who shall knowingly violate the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and shall upon conviction be punished by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than one nor more than five years.

Sec. 51. Any bank or trust company created by virtue of a special act of the Legislature of the State of Texas, that is now and has been for more than three years engaged in the general banking business in Texas and which at the time has only one place of business, and which has heretofore or may hereafter, prior to the taking effect of this law, accepted one or more of the provisions of the Acts of the Twenty-ninth Legislature, known as the State Banking Law, thereby submitting itself to the jurisdiction of the State Banking Department, may, with the approval of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of the State of Texas, avail itself of the provisions of this act, either as a bond security bank, or as a guaranty fund bank.

Sec. 52. Neither the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking or any regularly appointed clerk or employe of the Department of Insurance and Banking, or any State bank examiner, shall, at any time during his incumbency, be financially interested, directly or indirectly, in any State bank or banking and trust company, subject to the supervision of the Department of Insurance and Banking, or knowingly be or become indebted either directly or indirectly to any such State bank or banking and trust company.

Any officer or employe named in this section violating its provisions shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $500, and the venue in such case shall be in the county wherein such State bank or banking and trust company is located. The violation of the provisions of this section shall work a forfeiture of the office or position held by the person guilty of such violation.

Sec. 53. Section 40 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature is hereby repealed.

Sec. 54. The fact that if this act shall become a law, as much time as possible prior to the first day of January, 1910, will be necessary for the thorough and strict examination of all State banks and other necessary preparation before that time, and the fact that there are now practically no criminal penalties provided for violating the provisions of the State Banking Laws, constitute an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

And amend the caption so as to read as follows:

A bill to be entitled "An Act to provide for the more effective regulation and supervision of banking corporations; and providing for the better securing of depositors of such corporations; providing for and defining bond security banks; and providing for and defining guaranty fund banks; and providing that all banking corporations hereafter formed shall avail their depositors of the protection provided for by this act either for bond security banks or guaranty fund banks at their option; and that all banks heretofore incorporated and all banks incorporated prior to the adoption of the Constitution of 1876 and all National banks transacting business in this State, may, if they desire, at their option, voluntarily avail their depositors of the protection afforded by this act, either as bond security banks or guaranty fund banks; amending Chapter 10 of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas; prescribing additional regulations and safeguards for the protection of depositors and the safe conduct of banking corporations; prescribing powers and duties of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking; and creating the State Banking Board and prescribing its powers and duties; and providing for penalties for the violation of this act, and declaring an emergency.

mit from the State, and that the makers or signers as sureties of any bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity executed hereunder upon making payments thereunder shall be subrogated to the rights of the depositors for whose benefit such payments shall be made, and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act and for their enforcement, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. It shall be the duty of each banking corporation, or other corporation receiving funds on deposit, created under the laws of the State of Texas and transacting business in the State, to file annually with the Superintendent of Banking a bond, policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity in an amount equal to twice the amount of its capital stock, which said bond, policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity shall be for and inure to the benefit of all depositors. Such instrument and the security thereby provided shall be approved by the county judge of the county in which such business is domiciled, and by the Superintendent of Banking, and shall take effect and be in force from and after the time it is approved and filed in the office of the Superintendent of Banking. Every such corporation shall comply with the provisions of this act within thirty days after the time said act shall take effect, and every such corporation that may hereafter be incorporated shall comply with the provisions of this section before it shall be permitted to receive deposits. Every such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity filed as provided for in this act shall secure depositors at the time said bond is filed and approved and all deposits made during the period of twelve months thereafter.

Sec. 2. Any person, firm or corporation other than as described in Section 1 hereof transacting lawfully a banking business in this State, or lawfully receiving funds on deposit, shall be authorized to take advantage of the provisions of this act and to file with the Superintendent of Banking a bond, or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity. Any such corporation shall, in such event, file a bond, or policy of insurance, or guaranty of indemnity in like amount as it would be required to file if incorporated under the laws of Texas. Any such person or firm transacting the business of a private bank shall in such event file a bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity in an amount equal to the average of the daily deposits with such person or firm for the preceding period of twelve months; provided, that no person or firm shall be permitted to take the benefit of this act unless such person or firm shall have been engaged in such business in the State of Texas for the period of at least twelve months; provided, that any such person, firm or corporation shall submit to the Superintendent of Banking such reports and statements concerning its deposits and concerning the solvency of such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity as he may require in order to enable him to determine the sufficiency of such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity, and shall pay all such reasonable expenses as may be incurred by him in the making of an examination thereof; provided further, that such bond, policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity shall be approved by the county judge and the Superintendent of Banking, and filed with said Superintendent of Banking as provided for in Section 1 hereof.

Sec. 3. In the event of default by any person, firm or corporation transacting such business of receiving deposits which shall make, execute or file the bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity provided for herein, in the payment of a deposit lawfully demanded, it shall be the duty of the Superintendent of Banking, when such default shall be made known to him, to report the same to the Attorney General of the State, and to give notice thereof to each and all persons who may be obligated by reason of such default and of the conditions of such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity, and upon the mailing of such notice, the full amount of the same shall thereby become due and payable.

When any bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity provided for herein shall become due and payable in accordance with the provisions of this act, it shall be the duty of the makers and signers thereof to pay over the full amount of the same to the Superintendent of Banking, or such part thereof as he may demand, to be held by him in trust for the depositors with the person, firm or corporation furnishing such bond, or policy of in-insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity. All proceeds thus arising, either from voluntary payment or otherwise, shall be payable to the Superintendent of Banking and shall be by him promptly paid over pro rata to unpaid depositors upon presentation to him of satisfactory proofs of their claims, which proofs shall be received and filed, and before payment thereof shall be approved by him.

In the event any maker or signer as surety of such bond, or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity shall be a corporation incorporated under the laws of Texas and it shall refuse or fail to pay over upon demand therefor, as herein provided, the full amount due by it upon such bond, or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity, its charter shall thereby become subject to forfeiture, and it shall be the duty of the Attorney General upon receiving notice thereof from the Superintendent of Banking to bring suit in the district court of Travis county, Texas, to forfeit such charter, and upon hearing thereof, decree and judgment may be rendered annulling and forfeiting the charter of such corporation.

In the event any maker or signer as surety of such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity shall be a corporation incorporated elsewhere than in the State of Texas and transacting business in this State under a permit from the State, and it shall refuse or fail to pay over on demand therefor by the Superintendent of Banking, as herein provided, the full amount of its liability upon any such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity, it shall thereupon be the duty of the Superintendent of Banking to notify the Secretary of State of said facts, and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State and the Superintendent of Banking and the Commissioner of Insurance thereafter to refuse to issue any permit to said corporation to transact business in the State until it shall show to the satisfaction of such officers that it has fully discharged its liability upon such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity upon which default was thus made.

In the event such person, firm or corporation in default in the payment of a default lawfully demanded shall so continue for the period of ninety days from the beginning thereof, and the obligation of such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity is not discharged, it shall be the duty of the Attorney General, or any district or county attorney acting at his instance, to bring suit upon such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity in the name of the Governor and for the benefit of all persons who may be beneficiaries thereof by reason of its terms and conditions. Such suit shall be instituted in the district court of the county where the person, firm or corporation furnishing such bond, policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity transacted such business at the time of the filing thereof. Any action upon such bond or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity shall be brought within twelve months of the date therein fixed for the termination thereof.

Sec. 4. Whenever any maker or signer of any bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity other than the principal therein shall be required under the provisions of this act to pay over for the benefit of the depositors with any person, firm or corporation, any sum or sums of money, such maker or signer making or participating in such payment shall thereby become subrogated to the rights of a depositor to the extent of the payment or payments so made, and entitled to assert such right in accordance with the laws of the State, secondary and subject to the rights of all depositors secured by such bond, or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity.

Sec. 5. The Superintendent of Banking shall charge a fee of not to exceed $20 against each corporation incorporated under the laws of the State to do a banking business or to receive funds on deposit for the examination of the bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity provided for in Section 1 and the examination of the solvency thereof and for the filing of the same, and shall be authorized to charge an examination fee sufficient to cover the actual expenses thereof against any other person, firm or corporation permitted to file such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 6. The bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity herein provided for shall contain substantially the following provisions:

The State of Texas, County of.....

Know all men by these presents:
That we as principal, and.....

as sureties, are held and firmly bound unto the Governor of the State of Texas, and his successors in office in trust for the benefit of depositors in the sum of dollars, payable as provided by the law of Texas at the time of the execution hereof, conditioned that the above bound..... will pay upon demand, or in accordance with its certificates of deposit, to the persons entitled thereto all deposits in said bank at the date of said bond and all other deposits made therein during the period of one year from the date thereof. Upon payment of any sum or sums made obligatory by reason of the terms hereof, any surety hereon making or participating in such payment shall thereby be subrogated to the rights of a depositor and entitled to assert such rights in accordance with the laws of the State, secondary and subject to the rights of all depositors secured by the terms hereof.

Sec. 7. The security for the benefit of depositors provided for by this act may be divided into two or more bonds, policies of insurance, or other guaranties of indemnity, or any part thereof may be given in either of such forms of guaranty of indemnity; provided, that the aggregate thereof shall be equal to the total amount of the security required in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Sec. 8. Whenever the deposits of any corporation incorporated under the laws of Texas which shall have filed a bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity with the Superintendent of Banking in accordance with the provisions of this act shall exceed five times the amount of its capital, it shall be its duty to furnish, in addition to the security theretofore so given, additional security for the protection of its depositors, which additional security shall consist of one or more bonds, or policies of insurance, or other guaranties of indemnity, as herein provided, in a sum or sums which shall, in the aggregate, be equal to the total amount of such excess of deposits above five times the amount of the capital of such corporation. In the event any such corporation shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section, after demand by the Superintendent of Banking, it shall be his duty to report the facts to the Attorney General, who shall thereupon institute suit in the district court of Travis county to forfeit the charter of such corporation, and such court shall, upon hearing and proof thereof, enter decree and judgment therein forfeiting and annulling the charter of such corporation.

Sec. 9. If any corporation organized under the laws of this State to do a banking business or to receive funds on deposit shall fail or refuse to file the bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity provided for in Section 1 hereof in accordance therewith, it shall be the duty of the Superintendent of Banking to promptly report such failure to the Attorney General, who shall thereupon institute suit in the district court of Travis county to forfeit the charter of such corporation, and such court shall, upon hearing and proof thereof, enter decree and judgment therein forfeiting and annulling the charter of such corporation.

Sec. 10. If at any time it shall appear to the Superintendent of Banking that any bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity filed as provided for herein by any corporation organized under the laws of Texas is insufficient, he shall have the authority, and it shall be his duty, to require such corporation to file new or additional security in an amount sufficient to protect its depositors in accordance with the provisions of this act. In the event such corporation shall refuse or fail to comply with such order or requirement of the Superintendent of Banking, he shall communicate the facts to the Attorney General, who shall thereupon institute such proceedings and take such steps as the nature of the case may require. The Superintendent of Banking and the Attorney General shall in such event have and exercise, for the protection of depositors, all the authority conferred upon them by Section 40 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws enacted at the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature.

Sec. 11. The Superintendent of Banking shall issue to every person, firm or corporation acting hereunder and entitled thereto a proper certificate showing compliance with the provisions of this act and the amount and nature of the security furnished. Such person, firm or corporation shall post such certificate conspicuously in its place of business, and may publish or advertise said certificate, or the facts recited therein; provided, any person, firm or corporation which shall falsely publish, advertise or represent or cause to be falsely published, advertised or represented any statement of compliance with the provisions of this act, or any false statement as to the terms of such certificate, or the facts recited in said certificate shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished for each offense by fine not to exceed $1000.

Sec. 12. The fact that no adequate provision now exists for the execution and filing of bonds or other indemnities for the protection of depositors in banking, and other concerns receiving funds for deposit in this State, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and it is hereby suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Executive Office,
State of Texas,

Austin, Texas, April 29, 1909.

To the Legislature.

By virtue of authority vested in me by Section 40, Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, I hereby designate and present to you for your consideration and for legislation thereon the following subjects:

1. Legislation establishing additional county courts for civil and criminal business, or with criminal jurisdiction alone; and to prescribe the jurisdiction and organization and the practice in such courts; and to provide for appeals thereto and therefrom and for the transfer of causes from county courts to such new courts as may be created; and to fix the terms thereof; and to prescribe the qualifications and powers of the judges of such courts; and to provide for their appointment; and to fix the compensation of such courts and of the judges of the county courts.

to prevent persons taking out such licenses from carrying on business under said licenses in more than one place under such licenses at the same time.

T. M. CAMPBELL,
Governor of Texas.

SENATE BILL NO. 4.

Action recurred on Senate bill No. 4 and Senators Meachum and Harper offered the following amendment:

Amend the bill as amended by adding just before the emergency clause a new section, to be numbered properly to fit the bill as amended, to read as follows:

Section 53 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

"Section 53. No incorporated bank, nor trust company, organized under this act, shall loan its money to any individual, corporation or company, directly or indirectly, or permit any individual, corporation or company to become at any time indebted or liable to it in a sum exceeding 25 per cent of its capital stock, or permit a line of loans or credits to any greater amount to any individual, corporation or company, a permanent surplus, the setting apart of which shall have been certified to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, may be taken and considered as a part of the capital stock for the purpose of this section, provided such surplus is in amount not less than 50 per cent of the capital stock of said bank; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed as in any wise to interfere with the rules and regulations of any clearing association in this State in reference to the daily balances between banks, and that this section shall not apply to balances due from correspondents subject to draft and that the discounting of the following classes of papers shall not be included in the limitations placed upon loans and credits by this section, viz.:

"1. The discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actual existing values.

"2. The discount of paper upon the collateral security of warehouse receipts or other written instruments conveying a lien with the right to take immediate possession covering agricultural and manufactured products in store in elevators and warehouses, or conveniently deposited elsewhere under the following conditions:

"(a) That the actual market value of the property held in store and covered by such receipts, if other than cotton or cottonseed products, shall at all times exceed, by at least 25 per cent, the amount loaned upon the same, and if it be cotton or cottonseed products, it shall at least exceed 10 per centum of the amount loaned upon the same.

"(b) That the full amount of the loans shall at all times be covered by policies of fire insurance issued by companies admitted to do business in this State to the extent of their ability to cover such loans, and then by companies having sufficient paid-up capital to be so admitted, and all such policies shall be made payable in case of loss to the bank or holder of such warehouse receipts, or other instruments."

Amend by adding the following new section to be known as Section —, prior to the emergency clause and numbering same:

Sec. —. All corporations exercising banking and discounting privileges, created by the Acts of the Legislature of the State, or under any general law, prior to the adoption of the Constitution of this State in 1876, shall be subject to be examined and shall make reports in accordance with the following provisions:

It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, as often as he is required by law to examine State banks, and as often as he deems expedient, either personally or by examiner, to examine each of said corporations, and he or the examiner for him, shall have the power to administer oaths to any person whose testimony may be required in any such examination; and whenever it shall appear to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking on any such examinations that any such corporation is insolvent, or is acting beyond the powers granted by its charter, or violating any law of this State applicable thereto, he shall communicate the facts to the Attorney General, to be acted upon by him as the law requires.

The expense of such examinations shall be paid by the corporation in such amount as the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking believes justifiable and reasonable, not to exceed the sum in proportion to capital (paid up) and surplus now fixed as maximum charge for the examination of banks organized under the provisions of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of Texas, passed by the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature, and fully set forth in Section 39, Chapter 10, and all such examination fees, so collected, shall be paid directly to the State Treasurer and credited to the State bank examination fund.

The result of every such examination shall be certified by the examiner upon the records of the corporation examined and the result of all examinations during the previous years shall be embodied in a report by the Superintendent to the Legislature. The result of all such examinations shall be reported semi-annually to the State Comptroller. The board of directors of any such corporation, whenever required by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, shall furnish a statement on such form as may be required by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, to be filed in his office under oath by notary public, by the president, cashier or secretary, and three directors, of the actual condition and the affairs of the corporation at the close of business on the day designated.

Said statement shall be published in a newspaper in any county where such corporation is located, and a copy of such statement shall be posted in place of business of such corporation accessible to the public.

The powers of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, in making such examinations, shall extend no further than to obtain facts bearing upon solvency or insolvency of any such corporations, and whether it is acting within the powers granted to it under its charter and obeying the laws of the State applicable thereto, and the powers granted to it by its charter shall in no way be affected by this act, and any such corporation shall have the right to continue exercising such powers that it is now lawfully exercising under its original charter name or under any other name to which it may have been changed by amendment made to its charter under and by virtue of the laws of Texas.

Any such corporation so long as it is found solvent by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, may be approved by him as the reserve agent for any other bank organized under the provisions of Chapter 10 of the General Laws passed by the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas, at the Special Called Session of same, in the same manner and same ruling applicable to banks incorporated under said Chapter 10.

Any officer, director, agent or employe of any such banking corporation, having or exercising banking or discounting privileges, incorporated and organized under and by virtue of any general or special law of this State passed prior to the adoption of the Constitution in 1876, who shall refuse to make or file any statement required by this act, or any statement called for by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, or who shall wilfully make such statement falsely, or who shall fail and refuse to submit the books, papers and accounts of such banking corporation for the inspection of any bank examiner upon request, or answer, under oath, any question propounded by said examiner, or who shall knowingly and wilfully violate any of the provisions of this act, he or they, or each of them, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished for each offense by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars nor less than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. And provided further that if this section is declared to be unconstitutional by the courts, that it shall not affect any other part of this act.

REASONS FOR VOTING.

This bill recognizes the Democratic doctrine of individual liability for private debt, which must ultimately become the pillar of any system for the guaranty of bank deposits. It avoids the false pretense of a guaranty of deposits by the State, which is intolerable. While we do not approve any plan which would bring the banks into co-partnership of any sort, we vote for this bill as the only available measure for the guaranty of deposits which does not contain the obnoxious provisions of the Love or Cureton bill and to prevent the passage of a bill tending to build up a despotic and dangerous political machine, to unsettle business conditions, and to imperil the prosperity of the State.

Senter, Hume, Masterson, Weinert, Adams, Peeler, Paulus, Hudspeth, Watson, Kellie, Murray.

I vote for the passage of Senate bill No. 4 for the reason that I strongly believe in the passage of a bank guaranty law, and feel confident that this bill will be so amended in the House as to conform to the wishes and meet the needs of the people of this State, and in the hope the Senate will concur in the amendment. In the present form I do not believe that the bill will either meet the wishes of the people or their necessities, for the reason that it does not provide an adequate fund for the safe and sure protection of deposits, and I think this can be easily demonstrated. Indeed, in view of the inadequacy of the protection afforded by the bill to depositors and the ease with which those bankers, who will be in competition with the State bankers, can show to the public that their deposits in guaranty fund banks will not be fully or certainly protected against loss, I believe that the bill is all that any opponent of the guaranty of bank deposits could wish to see enacted, provided any bill for the guaranty of bank deposits is to be passed. I wish to call attention to the following obvious defects in the bill:

Section 4 of the bill provides that the fund shall be created by each bank, within sixty days after the act takes effect, paying in 1 per cent of its daily average non-interest-bearing deposits "for the preceding year," and that annually after the first payment each bank and trust company subject to the provisions of the act shall pay one-fourth of 1 per cent of its daily average deposits until the sum of $2,000,000 shall be created in such fund.

This would create a fund at the beginning of approximately $250,000, if all the State banks went into the guaranty fund plan, and this would be increased by one-fourth of that amount each year thereafter if there were no losses to be paid out of the fund. The experience of the national banks of Texas as shown by the Comptrollers' report, since they were established in 1866, shows that the average annual loss to the depositors has equalled about thirteen hundredths of 1 per cent of the average annual deposits; but while this has been the average, during many of the years it has amounted to much more than this; for instance, for the years 1866 to 1877, inclusive, there was, no loss to depositors in any closed banks in Texas, but during the year 1878 the losses amounted to 3 per cent of the average deposits that year. If such losses should occur any year after this bill takes effect it would completely wipe out the fund provided by this bill, and the bill does not provide for any method by which it can be recuperated thereafter, except at the rate of one-fourth of 1 per cent of the average deposits each year. If the bill was passed all the national bankers of the State would have to do to keep State banks from going into the system would be to point out this obvious fact, and after a State bank had gone into the system, all that its national bank competitors across the street would have to do to destroy any benefit to the State bank from the system would be to point to this fact. It may be said that this limit of percentage of losses will never be reached again in Texas, and this is in all likelihood true, but the records also show that after 1878 there were no losses to depositors in national banks in Texas any year until 1891, in which year they amounted to thirty-seven hundredths of 1 per cent, or about $100,000 in the aggregate, and in 1892 they amounted to fourteen hundredths of 1 per cent, or about $44,000 in the aggregate; and in the next year, 1893, they amounted to seventy-four hundredths of 1 per cent, or about $200,000 in the aggregate; so that a recurrence of the experiences of these three years would entirely wipe out the fund provided by this bill, and would render it impossible, under the system prescribed, for the fund to be recuperated so as to be of any service to the banks taking advantage of it; that is, it would leave the guaranty fund banks without any guaranty fund.

Again, this record shows that during the year 1895 alone the loss to depositors during that year in the national banks of Texas amounted to one and twenty-five one hundredths per cent of the average deposits during that year, and aggregated in amount to $388,000. The recurrence of this sort of a year in Texas, which occurred only thirteen years ago would wipe out the entire fund.

If the fund is arranged as provided in the Greer-Meachum bill the average expense to the banks during a number of years would be as small and inconsequential as under this bill or any possible plan, and yet by providing for additional assessment within the limit of 2 per cent of the average annual deposits it guarantees the payment out of the guaranty fund of all deposits, unless the loss to depositors in the State banks of Texas for some years should exceed the highest percentage of the average deposits in banks ever known in the forty years' experience of the national banks of Texas. The Greer-Meachum provision does not require that this amount shall be taken out of the banks or that any more, or even as much shall be taken out of each bank, as the Alexander bill, but by providing that it may be collected, makes certain and sure provisions for the payment of all depositors in full.

Again, this bill provides that there shall be no further payments made after the fund reached the sum of $2,000,000, which would permit all banks thereafter forced to come into the plan without contributing a penny, upon absolute equality with those which have contributed the two million.

Again, instead of providing for an annual readjustment of this fund in accordance with the increase or decrease of the amount of each bank's liability to depositors, resulting from the increase or decrease of the amount of its deposits, it provides for the fixed 1 per cent, originally paid in and one-fourth of 1 per cent annually thereafter. This would permit one bank which originally went into the plan within sixty days after the act took effect, with $100,000 deposits to get the same benefit year after year thereafter, though its deposits increased to a million dollars, as would another bank which originally went into the plan with $100,000 deposits, whose deposits might thereafter decrease to $50,000 so far as the original payment is concerned.

Again, Section 6 of the act provides that banks hereafter incorporated shall pay into the guaranty fund 2 per cent of the amount of their capital stock, "which shall constitute a credit fund subject to the adjustment on the basis of their deposits, as provided for other banks now existing at the end of one year." It is not clear whether this means at the end of the year they shall pay 1 per cent of their annual deposits or one-fourth of 1 per cent or $1\frac{1}{4}$ per cent into the guaranty fund.

Again, Section 4 of the act provides that all banks in existence at the time the act takes effect shall pay into the fund 1 per cent of its daily average non-interest-bearing deposits for the preceding year, at least one-fourth of the 450 State banks now in existence will not have been in business one year preceding the time this act takes effect, and no provision is made for all of these cases. There have been about 100 State banks formed within the past four months.

I attach hereto, to illustrate my objections, a table showing the number of national banks in Texas each year from 1866 to 1906, inclusive; the number closed, claims proven, dividends paid, and losses to depositors in each bank closed; the total deposits in all national banks in the State for each year, and the ratio of losses to depositors to amount of total deposits for each year.

I vote for the Mayfield amendment because I think the banking board should be composed of business men instead of politicians. Furthermore, the inclusion of the Lieutenant Governor as a member of this board, if not contrary to the Constitution, at least violates the wise policy of the Constitution in providing a presiding officer for the Senate who has no executive duties to perform, and is an improper intermingling of executive and legislative duties in the same officer contrary to the spirit if not the letter of the Constitution. It would be most unwise, improper and impolitic for a member of the banking board to be presiding over the Senate.

STOKES, Acting Chairman.

Senate Committee Substitute Bill No. 19.

A BILL

To Be Entitled

An Act to regulate the manner and form of making payment to the State for public lands; to define the duties of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, the State Treasurer and the Comptroller of Public Accounts in respect thereto; also to require all accounts with purchasers of such lands to be transferred to and kept in the General Land Office; to adopt a filing system for the General Land Office, and to make an appropriation for equipping said office for the purpose of putting into effect the provisions of this act, and to repeal Article 4046, Revised Civil Statutes of 1895, and all other laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Applicants to purchase land belonging to the Public Free School, the Lunatic Asylum, the Blind Asylum, the Deaf and Dumb Asylum and the Orphan Asylum funds and other public land shall transmit with their applications the required first payment in the form of money or remittance collectible on demand, in Austin, and convertible at par into money on the order of the State Treasurer, without liability; provided, that should a remittance be made payable to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, such payment shall not be invalid for that reason, but the Commissioner shall endorse it to the State Treasurer without incurring liability and the same shall be treated as if payable to the Treasurer. If the payment is not made as required in this section the application shall be void.

Sec. 2. When an envelope enclosing an application to purchase land is opened and the remittance for the first payment is in the General Land Office the Commissioner shall cause such remittance to be listed in triplicate daily, and in such form as to show the purpose and amount of each remittance, the name and address of the applicant, and transmit the remittance and two of the lists to the Treasurer. In receipt thereof the Treasurer shall check the remittance with the list and if found to be correct he shall receipt one of the lists and return it to the Commissioner and retain the other list, and thereupon the Commissioner shall deliver the third list retained by him to the Comptroller of Public Accounts. The Treasurer shall at once collect all collectible remittances, and report to the Commissioner and Comptroller all remittances not collectible in Austin. The items not collected shall be returned to the Commissioner. The application for which such remittances were made shall be void. All first payments thus collected by the Treasurer shall be retained by him until he receives notice from the Commissioner of the final disposition of the applications to purchase and thereupon he shall at once return to each applicant the amount shown to have been paid on his rejected applications. A duplicate of the notice to the Treasurer of accepted and rejected applications and the amount of first payment shall be transmitted to the Comptroller. On the last working day of each month the Treasurer shall deposit in the Treasury to the credit of the proper fund the sum collected by him on accepted applications during that month.

Sec. 3. Notices of award shall be prepared and issued by the Commissioner, and shall be appropriately numbered, and shall be so worded as to constitute a receipt for first payment, when signed as such by the Commissioner. Books shall be prepared containing two copies of the notice of award and a suitable number of coupons to be used by the applicant in making subsequent payments on the land. Notice of award shall be prepared in duplicate, one to be detached from the book, and retained in the Land Office, the other, with the coupons attached, to be sent to the applicant.

The coupons in each book shall be prepared, in duplicate, each of which shall be numbered with the same number as that on the notice of award. The form of the coupons shall be so prepared as to be used for, and shall be used by the remitter, in making all subsequent payments on the land, the original to be so worded as to be used as a receipt for remittances, when signed as such by the Commissioner. The remitter shall describe each tract of land on which he is making remittances by properly filling in the blanks on both the original and duplicate coupon, and shall enter in the proper blanks, the amount remitted as interest, and the amount remitted as principal, and both the original and duplicate shall be mailed to the Commissioner with the remittance. The Commissioner shall likewise furnish former purchasers with similar coupon books, without notice of award, which coupons shall be used by them in the same manner as herein provided when making remittances for interest or principal or both.

Sec. 4. All accounts with purchasers and lessees of the lands mentioned in this act, and University land shall hereafter be kept in the General Land Office. All books, furniture, fixtures and equipments pertaining to land accounts which are now kept in the State Treasury, so far as suitable and necessary shall be transferred to the General Land Office on or before the taking effect of this act. All payments on account of interest, lease rentals or the balance of principal due on lands treated of in this act shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and shall be payable to the State Treasurer and be in form the same as is herein required for first payments and subject to the same rules for collection as are remittances for first payments. A remittance payable to the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall not be invalid for that reason, but he shall endorse it to the Treasurer without incurring liability. Immediately on receipt thereof, the Commissioner shall list in triplicate separate from first payments, all money and other forms of remittances received for the purpose stated in this section and in such form as to show the amount of each remittance, the name and address of the remitter, and the probable fund to which the remittance should be deposited. The remittances and two of the lists aforesaid shall be remitted to the Treasurer.

On receipt thereof the Treasurer shall check the remittances with the list and if found to be correct he shall receipt one of the lists and return it to the Commissioner and retain the other list, and thereupon the Commissioner shall deliver the third list retained by him to the Comptroller. The Treasurer shall at once collect all collectible remittances and report to the Commissioner and Comptroller all remittances not collectible in Austin. The items not collected shall be returned to the Commissioner. On the last working day of each month the Treasurer shall deposit into the Treasury to the credit of the proper fund, 80 per cent of all collections upon the lists received from the Commissioner which have come into his hands during that month, holding the remaining 20 per cent therefor under a deposit receipt to be issued therefor by the Comptroller. On the first day of September of each year after the taking effect of this act and at such other times as may be practicable when requested by the State Board of Education, the Commissioner shall determine definitely the fund to which former remittances made by him to the Treasurer should have been deposited, and so advise the Treasurer and Comptroller, whereupon the Treasurer and Comptroller shall adjust all accounts in accordance therewith.

The Commissioner shall furnish all available data to the State Board of Education when requested to do so by said board. The Commissioner, Treasurer, and Comptroller shall each keep an account with each fund mentioned in this act according to the lists and notices given and received by them.

Sec. 5. Persons making payments of interest, principal or lease rental on land shall give the name of the original purchaser or lessee and sufficiently designate the land. All lists and notices provided in this act to be given by the Commissioner to the Treasurer and Comptroller shall be retained in each of those departments as permanent records thereof.

Sec. 6. When the General Land Office shall be equipped with sufficient fixtures and helpful aids the Commissioner shall adopt the most convenient method for filing papers and preserving the records of said office; provided, a list of all papers in each file shall be retained in the file and each employee who files a paper shall place his own name thereon.

Sec. 7. For the purpose of arranging the General Land Office and equipping it with such fixtures, furniture and helpful aids as may be necessary for the protection of the archives, titles, land notes and other records, books and documents therein, and the promotion of efficiency in the public service and the reduction of the ultimate expenditure of public money, there is hereby appropriated the sum of fifteen thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary out of the general revenue not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 8. Article 4046, Revised Civil Statutes of 1895, and all other laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 9. This act shall take effect on the first day of September, 1909, provided the arrangement and equipment necessary to carry into effect the purpose of this act may be contracted for by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, the Comptroller of Public Accounts, and the Secretary of State, under sealed proposals, prior to said date.

Sec. 10. The importance of the legislation proposed and the probable early adjournment of the present session rendering it improbable that this bill can be read on three several days in each house, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and the rule is so suspended, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

SENATE BILL NO. 18.

The Chair laid before the Senate, on second reading and special order for this hour,

Amend Senate bill No. 18 by striking out Section 1 thereof and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Any two or more surety companies authorized to transact business in this State, or their agents therein, may form an association for the purpose of reducing losses, gathering statistics, exchanging experiences and ascertaining the fair and reasonable rates to be paid them for their suretyship, provided that no such association shall be formed except upon condition that it shall, through its proper officers, immediately submit to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of this State a schedule of the rates so ascertained and proposed to be established and maintained by such companies; if such Commissioner shall, upon considering such schedule of rates, find that the same are not unreasonable or excessive and do not exceed the rates that are now or may hereafter be established by law for any class of suretyship, and that such rates do not exceed the rates charged by any such surety company anywhere outside of the State of Texas for the same class of risks or risks of substantially the same degree of hazard, he shall approve the same; and if he shall disapprove such schedule of rates, or any portion thereof, it shall be his duty to fix a schedule of rates which will not be unreasonable or excessive or exceed the rates that are now or may hereafter be established by law for any class of suretyship, and that shall not exceed the rate charged by any such companies outside the State of Texas for the same class of risks or risks of substantially the same degree of hazard. All such rates so ascertained and made, when approved by the Commissioner, or when fixed by him as provided in this section, shall thereafter be maintained by all such companies and their agents; provided, that any such action of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall be subject to review by any court of competent jurisdiction at the suit of any party affected thereby. BOB BARKER,

Chief Clerk, House of Representatives.

BILL READ AND REFERRED.

The Chair (Lieutenant Governor Davidson) had referred, after its caption had been read, the following House bill (see above House message for caption):

House bill No. 18, referred to Finance Committee.

OPINION OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Chair laid the following communication before the Senate, and directed same to be printed in the Journal:

Attorney General's Department,

Austin, Texas, May 3, 1909.

Hon. A. B. Davidson, Lieutenant Governor, Austin, Texas.

My Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of yours of the 24th in which you request to be advised by this department whether in our opinion the bill which passed the House relating to the completion of the penitentiary railroad and the issuance of certain bonds violates the Constitution of this State.

Inasmuch as the bill, as it passed the House, only authorized the completion of the road to Palestine, a distance of about three miles from its present western terminus, and the issuance of bonds amounting to only $50,000 in excess of those already issued under and by virtue of an act of the Thirtieth Legislature, I will confine myself to the questions submitted by you in so far as they relate to the bill as passed.

It can not be questioned that the State has the power to maintain a penitentiary system. While the Constitution is silent upon that subject, it is beyond question a necessary function of government, and the Constitution contains no limitation upon the power of the Legislature to establish a penitentiary system for the safe-keeping of convicts, or to establish industrial enterprises for their employment. The maintenance of such industries as would only in a slight degree compete with free labor has been the settled policy of this State for many years, and from time to time the Legislature has made provision for their establishment, notably, the iron industry, the wagon and furniture factory and the provision for the establishment of a cotton twine and bagging factory by the Penitentiary Board at the Regular Session of the present Legislature. The Thirtieth Legislature, in which you had the honor to preside over the Senate, passed a similar bill to the one under consideration (Chapter 74 of the Acts of the Thirtieth Legislature, page 151). The Legislature clearly expressed the purpose and necessity for the extension of the road as well as the legislative intent in the enactment of the bill, by the language used in the emergency clause which is in part as follows:

"The fact that there now exists no law providing for means for the extension or said State railroad, and the fact that the operation of said State railroad, and the fact that the operation of the Rusk penitentiary will be materially facilitated and cheapened by such extensions and operation of said State railroad, as in this act provided, and the fact that such extension is necessary to protect the timber and mineral resources of said penitentiary, creates an emergency," etc.

The Legislature has therein declared the imperative necessity of such an extension. The extension into the timber and ore lands, and the connection with another trunk line only a few miles distant from which it could receive its fuel for blasting and limestone for fluxing the ore, and also the additional outlet afforded for shipping the products of the penitentiary, are undoubted necessities. The Legislature is the one department of government to pass upon such a necessity, and having done so, it is clear that the absence of constitutional limitation, it has the undoubted power to make the extension to the point where the necessities of the penitentiaries as expressed in the law, requires.

It has been repeatedly held that the presumption is that every State statute, the object and provisions of which are among the acknowledged powers of legislation, is valid and constitutional; and such presumption is not to be overcome unless the contrary is clearly demonstrated.

Sedgwick on Construction Constitutional Law, p. 409.

Fletcher vs. Peck, 6 Cranch, 87.

Ex-parte McCollom, 1 Cowan, 564.

The necessity as declared by the Legislature for the extension through the ore and timber lands to a connection with another line of railroad is undisputed, and has been so affirmatively declared by the Legislature, and there being no constitutional inhibition against it in my opinion, the Legislature clearly has the power to authorize its construction to the extent authorized in the bill as it finally passed the House.

The next question is whether the Legislature has the power to borrow from the permanent school fund $200,000 to take up the former to complete the destination at Palestine the Penitentiary bonds to that amount upon the line as security.

There are three considerations which may appear bearing upon this question. One of them prohibits the Legislature from enacting a valid law, then so far as my investigations have extended no constitutional objection can be found that questions the power of the State to provide the necessary funds in the manner prescribed in the bill.

The first constitutional provision I will consider is Section 49 of Article 3, which reads as follows:

"No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State, except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasions, suppress insurrections, defend the State in war, or pay existing debts; and the debt created to supply deficiencies in the revenue shall never exceed in the aggregate at any one time $200,000."

The question is, does the bill attempt to create a debt by or on behalf of the State? The well settled rules of construction do not give to the language of the Constitution or of statutes any strained or technical meaning, but they are given the meaning in which the language or words are ordinarily understood. The word "State" as used in the Constitution has two meanings, and is used in both senses in different parts of the Constitution. In one sense it signifies the territory inhabited by the people; in the other it means the body politic inhabiting the territory. It is in the second sense that it is used in the above provision of the Constitution. Our Supreme Court and the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Texas vs. White have held that a State in the ordinary sense of the Constitution is—

"A political community of free citizens occupying a territory of defined boundaries and organized under a government, sanctioned and limited by a written constitution, and established by the consent of the governed."

Texas vs. White, 74 U. S., 700.

State vs. White, 25 Texas, 463, 595.

Again the courts of this State say:

"A State is a political community organized under a distinct government, recognized and conformed to by the peone as supreme; a commonwealth; a nation."

O'Connor vs. State, 71 S. W. R., 409.

An attribute of a State is sovereignty. Its law, as a general rule, is supreme within its territory. It is a political corporate body, can act only through agents, and can only command by laws. It is, in the language of Vattel, "a moral person, having an understanding and a will, capable of possessing and acquiring rights and of directing and fulfilling obligations."

Republic of Mexico vs. De Arangoiz, 12 N. Y. Sup. Ct., 634.

The State is invested with full powers over all matters within the function of government not expressly inhibited by the Constitution. In such a capacity it owns its penitentiary system, its ore and timber lands to supply the raw material for the industries established to furnish employment for the convicts under its charge. It owns the general revenue raised for the support of the government. It owns the permanent funds created for the endowment of her schools and has clothed the Legislature with the power to invest said funds in the bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties in said State, or in such other securities, and under such restrictions as may be prescribed by law; and the State shall be responsible for all investments.

Constitution, Section 4, Article 7.

Owning as it does the property of the penitentiary, including the ore and timber lands adjacent thereto, also the railroad penetrating them, and owning the revenue arising from its operation; owning, as sovereign, the general revenues of the State and the permanent school fund which it uses for investment only, can it be said that the action of using temporarily a small sum, properly secured, of one of its own funds, will have the effect of creating a debt against the State, or itself, within the meaning of Section 49, Article 3, of the Constitution? Would not the transaction be in the nature of any individual who kept his funds in separate accounts, his funds for groceries in one account, for dry goods, for medicine, for house rent in other accounts, and should draw upon his grocery fund to relieve another necessity temporarily and placed the due bill of the dry goods account as security in the grocery fund, would be thereby creating a debt against himself, especially when he owned it all? The word

"debt" according to Webster "is that which is due from one person to another person, whether money, goods or services. That which one person is bound to pay another person (not that which a person owes to himself, or that which he is bound to pay himself)."

Cook vs. Bartholomew, 13 L. R. A., 452.

A debt is that which one is bound to pay to another.

Lovejoy vs. Inhabitants of Foxcroft, 91 Me., 367.

A debt is a certain sum that is owing from one person to another.

Little vs. Dryer, 138 Ill., 272.

Anthony vs. Savage, 3 Pac., 546.

Appeal Tax Court vs. Rice, 50 Md., 302.

A debt is created when one person binds himself to pay money to another.

Scott vs. City of Davenport, 34 Iowa, 208.

A debt, as defined by the Century Dictionary, is that which is due from one person to another, whether money, goods or services.

State vs. Georgia Co., 19 L. R. A., 485.

A debt is defined to be in its general sense a specific sum of money which is due or owing from one person to another, and denotes not only the obligation of the debtor to pay, but the right of the creditor to receive and enforce payment.

Campbell vs. City of Indianapolis, 155 Ind., 186.

Neither the Penitentiary Board, nor the State Board of Education, which has charge of the investment of the school funds, are separate corporate bodies with powers or functions inherently their own, but both are agencies of one and the same entity or person, namely, of the State, and when the State, in the administration of its own property, causes one agency to transfer temporarily to another of its own agencies, it is not creating a debt against itself within the meaning of that word as defined by the courts and standard dictionaries. It owes no obligation to any other person, and no other person can sue on the obligation because in its true sense the State has merely used its own and promises itself that it will return to a certain fund owned by itself the funds it desires to use temporarily. Such a transaction is in no sense creating a debt by or on behalf of the State, for no other person is involved in the transaction but itself. The State would have no authority to issue or sell bonds to any other person, except in such cases as authorized by Section 49, Article 3, of the Constitution.

If the bonds authorized by the bill were sold to an individual, bank, or any other person or association, it would then become a debt against the State, a claim or obligation due from the State to another person; but until such was accomplished it would not create a debt against the State. The exact point was passed upon by the Court of Civil Appeals of this State in the case of the City of Austin vs. Valle, 71 S. W. R., 414, in which case the Supreme Court refused a writ of error.

The court used the following language:

"When is a debt 'created, and when are bonds issued' within the meaning of these provisions? If the debt is created when the people by an election consent that the council may issue the bonds, or if it is created, when the council by ordinance provides for the issue of the bonds, or even when the bonds have been prepared, signed and sealed, but not sold or delivered, then the appellant is right in its contention, and the issue was excessive. But we do not believe that the constitution or the charter admits of such a construction. Neither the election or the ordinance providing for the issue of the bonds, nor the preparation, signing and sealing of the bonds, created any obligation against the city, all this might have been done and yet if the bonds had not been sold or delivered to a purchaser, the city would have owed nothing. Certainly no debt would have been created; neither do we think that the bonds could be said to have been issued until they passed into the hands of some one who claimed them as a debt against the city."

So long as the bonds are in the hands of the State they cannot become a debt against the State. Moreover, to say that the State cannot under proper restriction use funds of its own to carry on its own enterprises through its own instrumentalities, is to deny its sovereignty and its power to provide for its own necessities, admittedly within its own functions of sovereignty.

The next question is whether the permanent school fund can be invested in the bonds which the State issues to itself. No one who has seriously examined the subject will question the power of the Legislature to appropriate such a sum out of the general revenue of the State, especially after the necessity of the project has been declared by the Legislature and in view of the fact that the appropriation is for a proper object of governmental administration in a matter clearly within the functions of government.

The Constitution, Section 4, Article 7, provides * * * "The Comptroller shall invest the proceeds of such sales, and of those heretofore made, as may be directed by the Board of Education herein provided for, in the bonds of the United States, the State of Texas or counties in said State, or in such other securities, and under such restrictions as may be prescribed by law; and the State shall be responsible for all investments."

In the first place the bonds authorized by the bill seem to be "State bonds." They are bonds authorized by the State, through its Legislature, to be issued by one of the agencies of the State to secure funds for a project owned and entirely controlled by the State. They will, therefore, come within the definition of that class of bonds which the Constitution expressly authorizes the funds to be invested in. In fact, it is my understanding that the permanent school fund owns at this time many bonds issued by the State and that the public debt of the State, evidenced by bonds, are owned by the same fund. But if any doubt should exist whether the bonds provided in this bill are the kind of State bonds alluded to in the Constitution, then another provision in the same section vests in the Legislature the power and discretion to designate such other securities, and when the Legislature does so, as it provides in this bill, the bonds so issued will become a legal security in which the funds may be invested.

The Constitution lodges the power and discretion in the Legislature to designate such other securities, and legislative action will be binding in all cases except in gross abuse of the power and discretion vested. I understand the facts to be that the railroad property which is pledged as a lien to secure the bonds is worth many thousands of dollars more than the money advanced in this bill and that it affords ample security to the school fund for the amount required. Therefore, it cannot be said as a matter of law that the securities are insufficient and that the requirement that they be accepted by the school board would constitute an abuse of legislative power or discretion. The wisdom and policy of constructing said road and the use of said funds for such purpose is not for this department to determine, but belongs to the Legislature, but as to your legal powers to construct such a road to meet the necessities of a State institution, I think there is no question.

The remaining section of the Constitution to be considered is Section 7 of Article 8, which provides as follows:

"The Legislature shall not have power to borrow, or in any manner divert from its purpose any special fund that may, or ought to, come into the treasury:
* * *"

This provision uses the words "special fund" which means a fund distinguished from the general fund, or a permanent fund such as the school fund. It has reference to funds raised by taxation or otherwise for a specific function of government or to pay the current obligations arising thereunder. It cannot have reference to a permanent fund like the school fund, which the Constitution in express language authorizes to be invested, and to be invested in bonds of the State, and such other securities as the Legislature may prescribe. If the constitutional provision above quoted included the permanent school fund, then it would be in direct conflict. They must, therefore, be construed in pari materia, and, therefore, the last mentioned section is not a limitation upon the power of the Legislature to pass the bill you have under consideration.

The necessity for the extension of the road and the policy of doing so, in order to penetrate the ore and timber lands of the State, and to furnish an outlet for the products of the penitentiary and to furnish additional facilities for securing necessary supplies, is a matter clearly within the power of the State, and is within the functions of the government, against which I find no constitutional inhibition.

Your powers are coextensive with the State's necessities arising in the proper administration of the State's institutions, but go no further. When the necessity ends, your powers fail.

The declaration by the Legislature that the railroad is necessary for the discharge of its governmental functions in maintaining its penitentiaries, is not, however, conclusive upon the courts and the fact as to such necessity is subject to judicial inquiry, but the Legislature is presumed to have acted within its constitutional powers in passing the act in question, and before said act would be held unconstitutional, it must be made to appear that the Legislature has clearly and unreasonably exceeded its legislative power.

In response to your inquiry as to whether the said act contains more than one subject and is in contravention of Article 3, Section 35 of the Constitution, I beg to say that in my opinion the act, as passed by the House, is substantially an act to authorize the completion of the road to Palestine and providing ways and means for the purpose, and that the provision as to ways and means is merely auxiliary to and a necessary part of the object of the bill.

Albrecht vs. State, 8 Criminal Appeals, 216.

Very respectfully,
R. V. DAVIDSON,
Attorney General.

Senate Bill No. 41. By Hudspeth.

A BILL

To Be Entitled

An Act to amend Section 1, Chapter 132, of the Acts of the Twenty-ninth Legislature, so as to permit the owner of land or lots sold to the State or to any city or town for taxes to redeem the same, with an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 1, Chapter 132, of the Acts of the Regular Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature be amended so that it shall hereafter read as follows:

"Section 1. That the owner or anyone having an interest in lands or lots heretofore sold to the State or any city or town under decree of court in any suit or suits brought for the collection of the taxes thereon, or by a collector of taxes or otherwise, shall have the right within two years from the time this act goes into effect to redeem the same upon the payment of the amount of taxes for which sale was made, together with all costs, penalties and interest now required by law, and also the payment of all taxes, interest, penalties and costs on or against said lands or lots at the time of said redemption.

"And where lands or lots shall hereafter be sold to the State, or to any city or town for taxes under decree of court in any suit or suits brought for the collection of taxes thereon, or by a collector of taxes or otherwise, the owner having an interest in such lands or lots shall have the right to redeem the same within two years after such sale, upon payment of the amount of taxes for which sale was made, together with all costs, penalties and interest now required by law; and also the payment of all the taxes, interest, penalties, costs on or against said land or lots at the time of redemption."

Sec. 2. The fact that the law now requires double the amount of taxes on redemption, thereby depriving the State of quite a large sum of tax money, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and the same is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Chief Clerk, House of Representatives.

BILLS READ AND REFERRED.

The Chair (Lieutenant Governor Davidson) had referred, after their captions had been read, the following House bills (see above House message for caption of):

House bill No. 39, referred to Committee on Internal Improvements.

House bill No. 78, referred to Committee on Educational Affairs.

House bill No. 32, referred to Committee on State Penitentiaries.

SENATE BILL NO. 4.

Pending discussion on the above amendment, Senator Watson asked if Senate bill No. 4 (just returned from the House, with amendments) would be considered this afternoon, whereupon Senator Meachum moved that unanimous consent be given that no action be had on bill until tomorrow morning at the conclusion of the morning call.

Senator Alexander then called up Senate bill No. 4, A bill to be entitled "An Act to create a State Banking Board; to define its powers and duties; to provide for a depositors' guaranty fund under the supervision of said board, and fixing the conditions and terms by which banks and trust companies may avail their depositors of the benefit of said fund; fixing the amounts to be paid for the creation of said fund and the manner and time of payments; fixing the manner of management and administration of said fund; authorizing certain advertising privileges to such banks, and providing a penalty for the unauthorized use of such advertising privileges; providing for savings departments for State banks and fixing penalties for the violation of this act, and declaring an emergency."

And moved that the Senate do not concur in the House amendments, and ask a Free Conference Committee.

Senator Terrell of Bowie moved as a substitute that the Senate do concur in the House amendments to the bill.

Senator Terrell of McLennan made a point of order on the motion, contending that the bill being a substitute bill by the House for a Senate bill could not be considered in this way, but should be referred to a committee as though the bill was a House bill, citing Senate Rule 34 in support of his contentions, etc.

APPENDIX.

REMARKS BY SENATOR SENTER ON BANK GUARANTY BILLS.

The following speech by Senator Senter, made in the Senate on April 24th, on a question of personal privilege, is printed by order of the Senate:

In a communication dated April 11, "A law providing for the guaranty of addressed to the Legislature, Governor Campbell used the following language: deposits in State banks was demanded and the people mean it. The national platform and the State platform demand this legislation because the people demand it, and have the right to demand it. The depositors have asked for a bank guarantee law, not a bond law, with only the right to bring a suit. Such a plan as proposed is, I believe, a sham and a fraud and would liquidate every State bank in Texas, notwithstanding it may have the support of good men, who are themselves deceived as to the practicability of such a scheme. Those who believe that such a subterfuge can be justified before the people are deceiving themselves."

The communication from which I have quoted was sprinkled with epithets and coarse insinuations applied to the Legislature in connection with criticisms of its course in matters wherein it has differed with the Governor. As was pointed out at the time in a formal reply made by the Senate, this communication was without constitutional warrant and its place in the proceedings of this body is not as an authorized message from the Chief Executive of the State, but as a petulant and personal campaign circular interjected into our deliberations in order to give it the color of a State document.

The manifest purpose of this communication was to shake the Senate in its attitude on the subject of bank guaranty legislation. The Senate has made a fit reply to this extraordinary communication, reminding its author of the constitutional prerogatives which attach to each department of the State. Upon me a more unpleasant duty is enforced by the necessity of the occasion, created by the Governor's unjust and inaccurate statements. He was pleased to term the measure which I, as one of the authors, submitted to this body, "a sham and a fraud." A sham is something that pretends to be what it is not. A fraud is something worse. If I have attempted to palm off on the Legislature and the people of Texas a measure that purports to be what it is not, I am unworthy of their confidence and respect. If the Governor in his advocacy of the Cureton bill seeks to mislead the public into a belief that it is what it is not, he is unworthy of the confidence and respect of the people. The issue is squarely joined.

Touching the Governor's reference to the railroad lobby, it may interest the public to know that the defeat of the nine-juror bill and other measures openly and vigorously opposed by the railroads—all of which I supported—was due to the active opposition of several gentlemen who are foremost in support of the Cureton bill. I am far from impugning their motives, because I concede to them all sincerity of purpose. But inasmuch as this single fact exposes the utter insincerity of the Governor's references to the lobby as an influential factor here, I may be pardoned for referring to it.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

The kernel of the popular demand for protection for deposits in banks is thus aptly stated in the Democratic State platform, adopted at San Antonio last year:

"We favor the prompt establishment of a system under the supervision and control of the State for the guaranty for the deposits of State banks of Texas."

Elsewhere in the platform it is declared:

"We repudiate the charges that have been made that the Texas Legislature is unfriendly to capital, and we invite a comparison of our laws affecting capital, private or corporate, with the laws of other States on this subject. We declare the Democratic party of Texas to be one of progress, looking well to the material interests of the people, and in favor of an early and rapid development of the natural resources of the State. The party invites the investment of friendly capital by both individuals and corporations, and guarantees full and complete protection of all such investments."

The first plank should be considered in connection with the last plank here quoted because it is manifest from the latter that there was no thought in the minds of the framers of the platform that it would be used as a pretext to embark on a revolutionary program which would commit the State and the Democratic party to the principle of socialism, menace the industrial fabric at every point, and plunge every business interest into chaos.

A guaranty, according to Webster's definition of the term, is an undertaking to answer for the payment of a debt or performance of duty by another. According to the Democratic platform, faithfully interpreted, each State bank should be required to furnish, under the supervision and control of the State, a guaranty by a solvent third party for the protection of its depositors. That is the length and breadth and width of the platform. Just that and nothing less and nothing more. The guaranty is to be provided "under the supervision and control of the State."

The platform as stated is a direct echo of the constitutional amendment under which the State banking system was established. Its first provision reads thus:

"The Legislature shall by general laws authorize the incorporation of corporate bodies with banking and discounting privileges, and shall provide for a system of State supervision, regulation and control of such bodies which shall adequately protect and secure the depositors and creditors thereof."

Adequate protection to the depositors, under a system of State supervision and control, is required by the Constitution. The platform suggests nothing new except that the protection shall be given under a guaranty. That could only be given by a third party, because a guaranty is an undertaking to answer for another. It has never meant anything else, and it must be presumed that the platform builders used the word to convey the only meaning it has ever had.

STATE DECEPTION BUT NOT STATE GUARANTY.

Before the Legislature assembled there was much discussion in the press of Texas as to the nature of the guaranty which should be required for bank deposits. Several writers advocated a State guaranty of deposits, upon the theory that this was a proper duty of the State as a matter of public and general concern. While this contention was freely made in the press, there were but few writers who followed it to the logical end and urged that the State should pledge its own credit for the return of bank deposits. The words "State guaranty" were used loosely, and many people seem to have thus received the idea that there was some sort of proposal pending for the State to become the guarantor of the banks. Much of the confusion of ideas that now exists upon the subject is due to careless expressions by writers in the press who have not taken the trouble to inform themselves as to the details of proposed legislation, but have rattled away from their rocking chairs in the clouds, declining to acquaint either themselves or the public with the facts, and assuming that knowledge sufficient for the settlement of one of the most perplexing and intricate problems that ever vexed the lawmakers of a State may be drawn from unceasing fountains of misinformation. Many persons who have given the subject but a hasty thought have been allured by the pretense of a State guaranty. Whatever support the Cureton bill has in public sentiment is derived from the notion that it promises a State guaranty. The demand for State responsibility is a growing one. Within reasonable bounds, it stands for progress and for the protection of the public interest. But mark well the limitations fixed by the Constitution and the Democratic platform: "Under the supervision and control of the State." No suggestion there that the State shall put in pawn a penny of its own funds for the redemption of the pledges of the banks.

The plan presented by Mr. Cureton and approved by the Governor and his Banking Commissioner, Mr. Love, does not in fact propose a State guaranty for bank deposits, but it does much worse, it falsely pretends to do so. It is not what it pretends to be. It is a sham and a fraud. It is a masterpiece of deception. That part of the public which is over-credulous believes that in some way the Cureton bill makes the State responsible for the payment of bank deposits. No more reprehensible deception was ever practiced or attempted to be practiced upon the people.

Any plan that relies upon deception for its main following is necessarily wrong in principle, false in economics, and will ultimately result in public disaster.

The advocates of the Cureton plan claim that it is a god-child of the Oklahoma plank, and it undoubtedly belongs to the same family of impostors. Since the adoption of the Oklahoma law, the metropolitan newspapers of other States, particularly the papers which are patronized by the wage-earning classes, have been filled with flaming advertisements by Oklahoma banks soliciting deposits upon the representation, artfully made, that the State of Oklahoma stands behind them. The literal reading of these advertisements, technically construed, might enable the writers to escape conviction upon a charge of obtaining money under false pretense, but under any standard of morality that is asserted by men claiming to be honest, those banks are receiving money under false pretense. They artfully convey the impression that the State of Oklahoma underwrites their certificates of deposit, intending to create that impression without actually employing words to do so which would make them amenable to the criminal laws of the United States Government against using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

Do the people of Texas desire that their statute books should be prostituted to such base and mischievous ends?

Are we willing to lend the color of the authority of the great seal of the State to a legalized system of swindling which in the fullness of time will inevitably ripen into a scandal of world-wide magnitude?

No one here pretends to desire to make the State a guarantor of deposits in banks. Then ought we not to stand together in behalf of sound public morals and avow our exact purpose in whatever law may be enacted?

In his recent address before the Texas Legislature Mr. Bryan used this language. I wrote it down at the time:

"If you are going to sell a horse that is not sound, sell him without a written guaranty, because if you do give guaranty that he is sound and he turns out to be unsound, your guaranty will rise up to confound you."

That doctrine is a part of every platform upon which it is permissible for an honest man to stand. Written into the Democratic platform of Texas, it adds a proviso that the guaranty to be given under the supervision and control of the State shall be a guaranty of the repayment by the bank in which the depositor places his money of 100 cents upon the dollar of such deposits.

That doctrine forbids with stern emphasis the repetition here of the Oklahoma plan of false pretense—the representation that the State is behind deposits when it is not.

INSURANCE AFFORDS A REAL AND STABLE GUARANTY.

I accepted the Democratic platform in the letter and in the spirit. Before leaving my home in Dallas to attend upon the Regular Session of the Thirty-first Legislature, I set about to devise a plan consistent with our established social and industrial systems and with ancient Democratic principles to carry that platform into effect. To my mind—schooled in the tenets of democracy as expounded by Jackson and Calhoun and Benton and Jefferson Davis and Alexander Stephens and Ben Hill and L. Q. C. Lamar and Henry Watterson and the long line of illustrious statesmen who have under every stress of weather stood up against every onslaught of socialism and have taught that individualism is the tap root of democracy—the proposal to force all the banks into involuntary copartnership, and to make each by statutory decree the guarantor of all, was so repugnant to Democratic principle, so false, so delusive, so dangerous, that it should not be harbored for a single moment in any mind that professes adhesion to the Democratic faith. The only available plan was to require each bank to give adequate security for the return of its own deposits, and to provide that this should be done under the supervision and control of the State. This involved no departure from accepted political principles or from existing systems of business. Earnestly desiring to conform to the command of the Democratic platform and to respond to the just public sentiment which calls for adequate security for depositors, I endeavored to devise a plan whereby the banks should be required to insure deposits in solvent companies. It must be manifest, I think, to every mind which has given the subject any thought that the only solution of the problem lies in some form of insurance. To this end, before coming to Austin, I called upon Mr. Royal A. Ferris, who is connected with both a State and National bank in Dallas, and upon Mr. Sam P. Cochran of Dallas, who is prominently connected with the business of fire insurance, to know whether Texas capitalists would likely interest themselves in home companies organized to insure deposits in Texas banks if authority were given for the organization of such companies. To prudent, careful men of business the problem seemed a large one—although there are those among us who profess to be able to solve it without any knowledge of any phase of the subject, and without reading one section of any bill relating to it. These gentlemen promised to consider the matter, but I presume they reached no conclusion in their own minds because they never advised me of it. However, I did not abandon the idea that insurance offered the only real guaranty that could be given the depositor, and continued to agitate this plan within the scope of my own activities. In pursuance of this view on the 18th day of February last, I offered in the Senate an amendment to the bill then pending (Senate bill No. 154) relating to objects for which companies may be incorporated, which provided for the organization of companies to insure bank deposits and that they should have a paid up capital stock of not less than $500,000. This amendment, which will be found on page 431 of the Senate Journal, was adopted, and it is my belief that it was the immediate cause of the veto of the bill by Governor Campbell. He scented in this amendment an opportunity for insurance of bank deposits, and not being willing to give that plan a chance, he vetoed the bill. It is true that he gave another reason. The bill contained a section repealing the present law which offers an unlimited field for the creation of compress and other trusts, and providing a drastic penalty for the organization of such trusts. The Governor referred his veto to this section, and factiously declared that he was opposed to the organization of trusts.

THE SENTER-HUME BILL.

In further pursuance of the idea that the system of insurance offers the only real solution for this vexatious problem, I joined in the production of what is known as the Senter-Hume bill. That measure, it is proper to say, represents the sober and well-considered judgment of several of the members of this Senate, men of business as well as legal experience, thoughtful, conservative, prudent men, who will not stand for any revolutionary program but who are sincerely and earnestly committed to the proposal to secure depositors to the uttermost. The politicians and the press behind the socialistic program have grossly misrepresented every feature of this measure. They have not dared to discuss it. As far as possible they have prevented a knowledge of its details from reaching the public. For the sake of historical accuracy, I give here a summary of its provisions.

1. It requires each banking corporation organized under the laws of Texas to execute and file annually a bond, policy of insurance or other form of guaranty in an amount equal to twice the amount of its capital stock for the protection of all depositors. The guaranty thus given shall be approved both by the county judge and the Superintendent of Banking.

2. It authorizes any national bank and any private bank to take the benefit of its provisions and to furnish the guaranty required from State banks if it elects to do so.

3. It provides that in the event the bank furnishing the guaranty shall make default, the guarantors shall be required to pay over at once for the benefit of depositors the amount of their obligations thus created, and in the case of corporation guarantors, makes such provision as to assure that this will usually be done. The effect of this would be that the guarantors of a defaulting bank would immediately take charge of and liquidate it with the best results to the public and to stockholders.

4. It provides that in the event the deposits of any State bank shall exceed five times its capital stock, it shall furnish additional security equal to the amount of such excess deposits.

These are the material provisions of the bill. The other provisions relate to details and to the mechanism, which is of the simplest nature.

Stated concisely, this measure extends to the general depositor the protection which the State requires under general law for State, county and municipal funds deposited in banks. A depository law was passed by the Twenty-ninth Legislature, was amended and perfected by the Thirtieth Legislature, and has worked well in operation. Under it no loss has been suffered. The last report of the State Treasurer shows that the State had deposited in banks under the provisions of this law about $1,500,000, for which it held approved security and upon which it was receiving interest amounting to about $50,000 annually. I have not at hand the reports which would show the volume of county and municipal funds on deposit in banks under this law, but it must be large. These public funds constitute a sacred trust. Is not the law which safeguards them and which is approved by the test of experience a wise and safe expedient for the general depositor?

PROVISO FOR IMMEDIATE PAYMENT.

The objection has been made to this measure that it does not provide for immediate repayment to the depositor. The reply is that it is the only measure pending before this Legislature which does contemplate the reimbursement of the depositor in cash as soon as a bank shall make default, and that makes provision to this end which will accomplish that result in most cases. It gives all assurance that the law can give for immediate cash payment. The provisions of the Cureton bill would never yield a dollar in cash in time of panic to a depositor holding a claim against a defaulting bank, but under such circumstances he would always be paid in certificates of an indefinite nature and uncertain value.

In the light of all experience, any man who professes to have discovered a plan whereby under all circumstances depositors will be paid in cash upon demand is either a lunatic or an unscrupulous knave. For ages, the financiers of the world have devoted themselves to the solution of that problem, and it is still unsolved. In the great centers of wealth and business, and at the very fountain of the golden streams of wealth, it is found necessary when panic comes for the strongest financial institutions to suspend payment or to limit payments until the madness of panic ceases and dethroned reason resumes its sway. What folly then for men who never in all their lives grasped one of the smallest wheels of the complex machinery which speeds on and on the mighty cargoes representing the aggregate of human toil and achievement to assert that out of their ignorance and inexperience has come a revelation crested with the halo of infinite wisdom, and if congresses and legislatures will but crown them with autocratic power, the day of panic is at end and dollars will rain upon clamoring multitudes as manna fell upon the plains of Canaan.

ORIGIN OF PANICS.

Let us hear what the Comptroller of the Currency had to say about the causes of the panic of 1907.

"On October 26th the New York clearing house banks decided to issue clearing house certificates for use in the payment of balances and to limit if not suspend the shipment of currency to out of town banks. In this the New York banks were followed by those of the other central reserve and most of the reserve cities. The result was to at once precipitate a most serious bank crisis and a famine of currency for pay rolls and other necessary cash transactions. All domestic exchanges were at once thrown into disorder and the means of remittance and collection were almost entirely suspended. The conditions which led to the panic of October and November, 1907, were not due to the failure of a few individual banks. They were not due to a lack of confidence of the people in the banks, but more to the lack of confidence of the banks in themselves and their reserves. Banks have been fearful that the reserve system would break down, and in consequence it has broken down, and the reserve deposits have only been partially available. They were also fearful that not sufficient money could be supplied to meet the demand, and as they all made the demand at once there has not been sufficient money. The result has been a money famine."

The conditions which accentuated the panic of 1907 were thus told in graphic story by Mr. T. C. Daniel, of Virginia, a globe trotter, who testified before the Committee on Banking and Currency of the House of Representatives in January, 1908:

"This panic has given the financial rigors to all the bankers. They realize that with only $2,876,368,696 in the currency system of this country, and only $1,679,853,760 in actual circulation they had to take care of over $13,099,635,348 owed to their depositors, and at the same time provide the money necessary to carry on $25,000,000,000 worth of internal commerce. It is safe to say that if the country had not been in a prosperous condition and the American people in a pleasant frame of mind, half the banking institutions in the country would have been closed or in bankruptcy, caused by an angry, outraged people demanding their money. Let this occur again under different conditions and a general panic seize the people; it will spread like wildfire through those having on deposit $13,099,635,348 in the banking and saving corporations of the country, and if one-fifth of them get their money it will exhaust every dollar in the whole currency system of the United States, or one-twelfth will take every dollar in actual circulation."

Mr. A. N. Jordan who appeared before the Committee on Banking and Currency at the request of Mr. Williams, of Mississippi, the Democratic leader in the House, thus summed up the causes of this latest panic:

"In the panic of 1907 people were attempting an impossibility in trying to convert the credits of this country into cash. The only recourse of the banks in affected centers was to suspend payments, as their loans could not be liquidated—just as in 1857. It was necessary for the mutual protection of all concerned."

I have quoted at length these expert opinions to show the utter futility of the Cureton bill as a means of producing ready money in a time of panic. It would be as childish to attempt to dash back Niagara Falls with a dewdrop as to seek to allay the clamors of surging multitudes during such a crisis, by feeding out the resources of solvent banks to the creditors of insolvent banks. No sane banker whose wits were about him would heed the call, though it were re-enforced by all the military power of the State.

A PRODUCER OF PANIC.

Can any intelligent and reasoning mind fail to perceive that under the conditions stated by the Comptroller of the Currency and by Mr. Daniel and by Mr. Jordan, conditions that existed only a year and a half ago, the Cureton bill given full force and effect in Texas would have precipitated a general run on the banks of this State, including not only incorporated State banks, but National and private banks?

A recent official statement shows the resources of State and National banks of Texas to have been at the time as follows:

National Banks.—Deposits, $138,657,492; loans, $92,958,481; actual cash on hand, $17,380,666. Percentage of actual cash in bank to deposits, 12 per cent.

State Banks.—Deposits, $22,570,622; loans, $13,859,267; actual cash on hand, $3,416,934. Percentage of actual cash on hand to deposits, 14 per cent.

Let us suppose that the Cureton plan will be adopted, and that all the State banks will be brought into involuntary copartnership. A citizen of Austin has one thousand dollars ($1000) on deposit. There is say $140 in the bank to represent that deposit. When he put the money in the bank his confidence in its resources was strengthened by his acquaintance with the managers of the bank, the men behind the financial guns. He knew them to be men of prudence and integrity. But since he deposited that $1000 the State has stepped in and through the exercise of arbitrary and autocratic power has said to the bank and to its depositors: "The money here is subject to my command to pay the depositors in other banks which, because they are not as prudently managed as this, may have to close their doors." A panic comes, and the owner of that $1000 begins to feel uneasy. He has not lost confidence in his own bank or in its managers, but he begins to be haunted by that mysterious and quaking fear which an unknown and unplaceable danger always yields. A financial conflagration may break out at any moment a thousand miles away, or at an hundred places, and he will never realize the danger until it has consumed his little competence. He is as a man standing in the shadow of Mt. Pelee, with the sun shining on one side, liquid death raining down on the other, and the breezes shifting with every stroke of the clock.

A bank fails in El Paso, and a call is made for a part of his $140 in the Austin bank to satisfy the depositors of the El Paso bank. He grows faint at heart. The next day a bank failure in Texarkana makes another demand upon the remainder of his $140. He struggles with set teeth to overcome a growing fear. A third failure is reported from Brownsville, and a third call is made upon his little cash pittance in the bank. He has seen his $1000 diminish rapidly from $140 to $100. What will he do? What would any man do but grab his hat and rush for the bank to assist in his own undoing by helping to produce a run on his own bank?

These are the dragon's teeth we are asked to sow in Texas today. I refuse to join in the sowing.

The desperate politicians who would barter the welfare, the prosperity and the happiness of millions of people of this State to gain the offices to which they aspire, surely have not measured the full extent of the disaster toward which they are pushing forward so recklessly.

THE OKLAHOMA FORM OF GUARANTY.

The Oklahoma situation to which they point for precedents should give them pause. There, between thirty and forty millions of dollars of deposits are said facetiously to be "guaranteed" by the State. What is the guaranty and what is it worth? Under this magical plan which is conjured up through the use of some Aladdin's lamp, these millions of deposits are "guaranteed" by a little more than $200,000 and that not in cash but in promises to pay. The irony of the situation is that if there should ever be five successive and quick demands upon the so-called fund of $200,000, evidenced by nothing more valuable than book entries, the whole fund and the whole scheme would probably go up in smoke and the "guaranty" of a sovereign State, tendered to lull depositors into a false sense of security, would turn to ashes on the lips of thousands of depositors, many of them wage-earners, who would then discover that they had been swindled by an improper use of the name and prestige of the State.

AS APPLIED IN TEXAS.

Let us apply the Cureton scheme to the conditions now existing in Texas, and see how it would work in actual practice.

According to the statistics I have already quoted, there were $22,570,622 deposits in the State banks of Texas when they were compiled. This amount has probably increased to something like $25,000,000.

The Cureton plan contemplates that a bank credit fund of $500,000 shall be charged against the State banks in the beginning. This is to be reached by an assessment of one per cent on their average deposits in the case of banks which have been in operation more than one year, and by an assessment of 3 per cent levied upon the capital stock and surplus if the bank has been running less than one year. These assessments are subject to increase to secure the desired amount of book credits amounting to $500,000, but after the first year the lid is to be put on and the maximum assessment permissible in any one year is to be 2½ per cent of the average daily deposits for the year.

It will be observed that during the first year of its operation the banks under the Cureton plan would be subject to call in the maximum sum of $500,000 to pay depositors in suspended banks, and that on the basis of the present deposits, the annual increment to this paper fund, if no disaster should come, would be about $312,500.

One State bank in Texas has over five million dollars in deposits. If it should close its doors, the Cureton scheme would instantly go into bankruptcy, because it could not be put upon its feet again within five years if the remaining banks should continue to contribute and no disaster should occur during the period. Illustrations may be multiplied to show its utter worthlessness as a real guaranty of deposits. The suspension of three banks of any size in the sisterhood of State banks would bankrupt the scheme, disgust depositors, produce a panicky feeling everywhere, and cast a flood of obloquy upon the State which had permitted its name to be used to dupe and deceive depositors.

A REAL GUARANTY.

As against this vagary of socialism, the solid and valuable guaranty proposed by the Senter-Hume measure stands out in marked contrast.

The Cureton bill would for the first year put $500,000 in paper credits and not a dollar in actual cash behind $25,000,000 in deposits. It would not alter the condition of a single bank. It would add nothing to the strength of the banks either singly or collectively.

The Senter-Hume bill, in addition to all of the present assets of the State banks, at a single leap would add over $20,000,000 in real and approved security, outside of their own assets, to the resources available for the protection of their depositors. It would make every deposit certificate issued by any State bank of Texas as good as a bank of England note. It is true, it would wipe out the wild-catters, and the bank swindlers, wherever they may be, but it would give the depositor that full assurance of safety which can come only through the knowledge that the guaranty offered represents actual values and not paper credits or resolutory statutes.

A FEAST FOR VISIONARIES.

The Cureton bill assumes that the people are all fools, that what they want is not actual security, but merely a statutory declaration that they are secured. It is a modern version of the Barmecide's feast, as recorded in the Arabian Nights. The depositor asks to see the assets Mr. Love would place behind bank's deposits. The suave commissioner replies: "My dear sir, what you want is not security but confidence; be calm and confident. Whenever trouble comes I will get your money."

The day of trouble comes—for in the fullness of time such days always come—and the anxious depositor appears before the Banking Commissioner with a tale of a suspended bank upon his lips. What is he to get? Money? No. A certificate which will read something like this: "I, T. B. Love, the honorable Banking Commissioner of the State of Texas, hereby certify that John Jones had one thousand dollars in the bank of Good Hope when it suspended, and that I promise to pay said amount over to him whenever I can get my hands upon it, less cost of State supervision and control and incidental expenses."

The people of Texas have asked for a real guaranty law, for a law that will give them bread, and the Governor and his Banking Commissioner tender them a stone.

THE WAY OF THE BANK BOOMER.

But the Governor in his earnest solicitude for depositors will have no shams or frauds. He says: "The depositors have asked for a bank guaranty law—not a bond law with only the right to bring a suit. Such a plan as is proposed is, I believe, a sham and a fraud that would liquidate every State bank in Texas." I have been trying to imagine one reason why a State bank would go into liquidation because it was required to give security for the payment of its own debts—a guaranty that it will perform an obligation already imposed upon it by law and conscience, but would respond with alacrity to the Governor's call for it to continue in business under a law which sought to impose upon it $25,000,000 of indebtedness of other banks, in addition to the amounts owing to its own depositors. The only explanation of this phenomena that I can reach upon logical lines relates to the case of a banker who has no intention of finally paying either his own debts or anybody else's debts, but desires the prop of a false pretense that he has been underwritten by the law to enable him to cut a wide swath until the day of reckoning comes. I have no hesitation in saying that a banker who would quit the banking business because the law required him to secure his own depositors, but who would stay in it because the law compelled somebody else to secure his depositors, ought to be forced to get out of the business no matter what system of security may finally be adopted.

OTHER COMPARISONS.

As to the litigation which would probably arise, any intelligent lawyer who will examine the two bills in a spirit of fairness to both must concede that the Cureton bill would produce ten lawsuits where the Senter-Hume bill would produce one lawsuit. I do not mean to assert that litigation can not and will not arise under the operation of the Senate bill. I do mean to say that the system it proposes is so safeguarded in every feature as to reduce litigation to the minimum; that in ordinary cases and in most cases it will produce full repayment of depositors within a brief time after a bank shall be suspended and that the Cureton bill gives no assurance whatever of repayment in a reasonable time. It offers paper credits for security and statistics in lieu of cash.

The Governor says that a proposal that each bank shall furnish its own guaranty is a sham and a fraud. In the same breath, he speaks for a plan that holds out to the public the pretense of creating a fund that is not to be created; that purports to furnish cash security to the depositors and conceals its hypocrisy behind book entries which represent nothing but paper assets; that provides vast and cumbersome machinery and many soft and profitable jobs without adding a single prop to the structural strength of any bank or furnishing a single reason to any depositor why he should feel more secure than he does now. The intricate provisions of the Cureton scheme, cleverly put together as they are, can not conceal the fact that the "fund" which it describes is to be a legalized joke, existing only to salve the imagination of the ignorant and to feed the expectancy of the over-credulous. If there were any sincerity whatever behind this scheme, it would cast off all of the magniloquent pretense which shines out through its forty-two sections, and merely provide that whenever a State bank shall fail all other State banks shall be assessed ratably to make up the sum necessary to pay off its depositors. If there be any principle underlying the measure, that is its Alpha and Omega. Why this cumbersome machinery, this army of uniformed officials, this unending display of red tape; this bowing and scraping, this kow-towing by the entire business and banking world to the Banking Commissioner and his over-lord, the Governor, merely to reach in the end nothing more than an assessment upon all the banks to pay the debts of a suspended bank? Can it be true that this excessive array of official pomp and this extraordinary vestiture of despotic power are deemed necessary to conceal the true purpose of the bill, to cover up the unpleasant fact that it does nothing more and nothing less than rob Peter to pay Paul? That result does not harmonize with any system of morals or any code of ethics which is now recognized in decent society, and therefore let us hope that the Governor regards this as but an unhappy incident to his plan; that he foresees in the great reformatory movement in both politics and religion that will come when he and his adjutants are unchallenged autocrats in all the realms of business, of finance and of politics, a blazing beneficence which will envelop and swallow in a halo of glory all of the cloud which may have followed the beginning of that great reform.

TO CREATE A BANKING AUTOCRAT.

I have not attempted to analyze the Cureton measure and I shall not do so now, because it is beyond logical analysis. No man has ventured to present its material features to the public and to defend them, and no man who has any regard for his reputation will do so. When it was before the Senate during the First Called Session, I directed attention here to some of its obnoxious and undemocratic provisions and called upon some man to stand up for them, and no Senator spoke in support of the bill. It is one of the mysteries of this Legislature that a measure which bears upon its face the indelible imprint, the scarlet letter, of foulest heresy as to politics, of rank dishonesty as to morals, and of perilous recklessness as to business, should have crawled through the Capitol twice without some faithful Democratic watchman seizing and strangling it until all life should have been extinct.

The enormous detail of this measure could not be explained in a volume as large as the Revised Statutes, because if it were put in operation each attempt at explanation would require a supplemental explanation based upon some new ruling or decision or judgment or decree of the financial autocrat who would be installed in Texas under the name of the Banking Commissioner. His powers under this bill have no parallel in the annals of America since the Declaration of Independence was made. The royal commissioners and governors who came over from England robed in the satinets and wearing the insignia of the crown asserted such authority, and then fled before the honest indignation of the forerunners of the revolution. Without attempting to tell all that this bill would do, let me sum up some of the things it would do.

It would vest in the Banking Commissioner the power to authorize existing banks to continue in business, or to close them up, arbitrarily, at his peculiar pleasure and election.

It professes in terms to vest the supervision and control of the individual morals and personal conduct of all bank officials and directors in the Banking Commissioner, with authority to close up without judicial process any bank whose officials are not satisfactory to him for any reason, or for no reason which he may choose to disclose.

It confers upon the Banking Commissioner unlimited power of blackmail, and provides the penalty of decapitation for any bank or any official that may offer resistance.

It gives the Banking Commissioner unrestrained power to build up or to tear down any private business or interest in Texas which may be dependent upon any State bank for its credits.

It vests in the Banking Commissioner general control over the private business of every community in the State, in so far as that community may be dependent upon State banks for the financial machinery which drives the wheels of commerce.

Having ascertained this much, it is not difficult to discern the motive of this remarkable measure, or to foresee the political and financial results which would follow its adoption. It is branded all over with the discredited trademark of Missouri exploitation—a trademark that vies in ill repute with the turkey-footed brand of the worst bosses in the worst boss-ridden city in the land.

WHAT IT PORTENDS.

To adopt this measure would be to signal to every prudently managed State bank in Texas to disincorporate and clear the field for action by the wildcatters, the promoters and the jobbers of all kinds of discredited schemes and wares.

To adopt this measure would be to throw out a dragnet to hook disaster, to entangle business and to confuse progress.

To adopt this measure would, as the least of its inevitable evils, unsettle business conditions, produce general anxiety and unrest, check development, divert investments to other States, and lay an embargo on progress in Texas for years to come. If it should operate as I believe it would, at the first flush of depression it would precipitate a general panic and close up hundreds of small banking institutions throughout the State, compel general liquidation, put a brake on the wheels of industry, throw labor out of employment, and bring upon us the long train of evils which follow in the wake of panics and their resultant periods of liquidation.

NO EXPERIENCE TO COMMEND IT.

No State ever laid securely the foundation of general prosperity which did not consult and profit by the experience of other States. There is no history which attests the wisdom of the Cureton measure. Oklahoma adopted the plan but a short time ago, and has been in a condition of financial unrest and upheaval since. The careful observer of events in that State will find no sound reason there why Texas should rush into its wake without awaiting full developments. Its law is challenged on constitutional grounds, and a case is now pending in the Supreme Court of the United States which may, and I believe will, result in the complete overthrow of the system. The transitory expansion which attends the usual boom in a new State has aided to cover up the normal effects of a banking and business revolution, but signs are not wanting that the situation is far from satisfactory. The law first provided for unlimited assessment upon the banks. The Legislature recently changed this so as to limit the calls in any one year to 2 per cent of the average deposits. Why was it deemed necessary to put on the lid unless there was serious apprehension that the lid might be needed to protect solvent banks?

Nebraska has just embarked on this experiment and can offer no experience as to its effects. In Arkansas the Legislature recently enacted a law making the stockholders in a State bank responsible for its debts in proportion to their stock holdings. This it will be noted, adheres to the Democratic policy of holding each concern for its own liabilities.

The public interest would not be imperiled by deferring the adoption of the Oklahoma system, though it were already determined upon. The lessons of experience are costly. If we may acquire them without hazard and without investment by waiting, why should we hasten to take desperate chances?

For myself, I shall be as much opposed next year and the next to the Oklahoma plan as I am now, because I believe it to be vicious in principle as well as dangerous in practice, but if I were convinced of error in this respect, I should adhere to the idea that it is wise to wait upon the results in practice of this revolutionary scheme before putting the general welfare of Texas at hazard on a mere chance that it will work satisfactorily.

TESTED BY THE CONSTITUTION.

In the easy going politics of today it invites ridicule to offer a constitutional objection to any measure, but to those who cherish the old-fashioned notion that both the State and Federal Constitutions should be faithfully tracked in the making of laws, the suggestion that the Cureton bill is plainly violative of the letter and the spirit of both will arrest attention.

The peculiar theory of a republican form of government as contrasted with one which recognizes class distinction is that in its view the government exists solely to perform governmental functions. A republican government is prohibited by law from conferring estates upon any man or set of men. This principle was guarded with more solicitude by the founders of the American system than any other pillar which was placed beneath it. Time and again the Supreme Court of the United States has thrown the shield of its great authority around it, and has brought back to the fold an erring State which yielded to the importunities of political and financial adventurers and would have builded up a favored class or interest through the abuse of the taxing power.

It is the general rule that the Legislature of a State may pass any law which is not inhibited by the State Constitution. Texas furnishes one of the few exceptions to this rule with respect to the levy of burdens upon the people. Section 48, Article 3, of the Constitution thus restricts the authority of the Legislature:

"The Legislature shall not have the right to levy taxes or impose burdens upon the people except to raise revenue sufficient for the economical administration of the government."

Then follows an enumeration of governmental purposes, rigidly confined to the machinery of the State. This language is plain and mandatory. The Legislature shall not. It must not lay command for tribute except for its own uses. No one will contend that the assessments that are chargeable against the banks under the Cureton bill are made for a governmental purpose. The money to be raised is not required for any department of the State, but to pay private debts. The framers of the Constitution evidently had in mind the thought that there would be many attempts to evade this salutary prohibition, and to re-enforce it they repeated its substance over and over again. I quote some of them:

Section 50, Article 3: "The Legislature shall have no power to give or to lend, or to authorize the giving or the lending, of the credit of the State in aid of, or to any person, association or corporation, whether municipal or other; or to pledge the credit of the State, in any manner whatsoever, for the payment of the liabilities, present or prospective, of any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporation whatsoever."

Section 51, Article 3: "The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant, or authorize the making of any grant of public money to any individual, association of individuals, municipal, or other corporation whatsoever."

Section 52, Article 3: "The Legislature shall have no power to authorize any county, city, town, or other political corporation or subdivision of the State to lend its credit or to grant public money or thing of value in aid of or to any individual, association or corporation whatsoever."

These mandatory provisions of the Constitution make plain the stern determination of its framers to prevent any meddling by the State, directly or indirectly, in private business.

The capstone of individual rights is found in the Bill of Rights:

Section 17: "No person's property shall be taken * * * without adequate compensation being made."

The taxing power is further limited by these provisions of the Constitution:

Section 3, Article 3: "Taxes shall be levied and collected by general laws and for public purposes."

Section 6, Article 16: "No appropriation for private or individual purposes shall be made."

These are all links in the chain which fastens the government of Texas closely to a governmental mission. It is not its business to act as guardian for any man unless his condition is such as to bring him under eleemosynary jurisdiction. It has no right to pursue any man in behalf of any other man. Its courts are open to all. It can create no debt except for a public purpose, and it is without power to assume the payment of a private debt. These are manifest truths which are spoken in every mandate of the Constitution relating to the contracting of public debt or to the expenditure of public money.

The proposal to build up a vast and expensive department of state not merely to supervise the business of banking, but to provide resources for the payment of depositors is so clearly violative of the Constitution that it is strange any lawyer would approve it. If it be contended that the assessment to be laid upon the bank is not a tax, then pray show us the authority for the taking by the State of a single cent from any person or interest except as a tax. If it be argued that the State has the power to write any condition it may please into the contract or charter creating a banking corporation, the reply is that it can make no condition which is violative of constitutional law, nor can it bind either itself or the stockholders of a corporation by an ultra vires contract, even though it may be statutory in form.

THE WOOF AND WARP OF SOCIALISM.

Whenever it becomes necessary to defend the principle of private right in property in the Legislature of the leading Democratic State in the Union against the onslaught of demagoguery and graft it is high time to speak plainly and to speak to the point. If there is any constitutional authority for this bill it must come from some warrant which would authorize the Legislature to decree by statute that each incorporated mercantile company in this State shall become responsible for the debts of all other mercantile corporations; that each incorporated manufacturing concern shall assume the debts of all other manufacturing concerns; that each railroad company shall assume the debts of all railroad companies. The terms of the Constitution conferring general control over all private corporations upon the Legislature do not differ in any material respect from the provisions of the amendment to the Constitution providing for State banks in regard to the nature and degree of authority to be exercised. The power is the same. I quote Section 2, Article 12, of the Constitution:

"General laws shall be enacted providing for the creation of private corporations and shall therein provide fully for the adequate protection of the public and of the individual stockholders."

The legislative power as to banks is to enact laws that will "adequately protect and secure the depositors and creditors thereof." As to other private corporations the Legislature is required to provide fully for "the adequate protection of the public and of the individual stockholders." How is the public to be protected? What interest has it in corporations to be protected except the payments of debts due by them? It must be plain to any intelligent mind that the Legislature has the same power, no greater and no less, over all corporations, in respect to the enforcement of a rule for security for debts that it has over banking corporations. Most of those who talk flippantly about this measure and would rush it through upon the wings of political craft, do not dream of the perils they are invoking, of the evils that are concealed within this Pandora's Box. The principle for which it stands is the bandit's plea for plunder: the appetite which it would feed is the unquenchable desire for official graft. It is said that public sentiment in this State demands it. I deny the assertion. It is a grave reflection upon the intelligence and virtue of the people of Texas. They are not ready to embark upon the raging sea of socialism which bears upon the beating waves of its final vortex nothing but hopeless wrecks. I deny that they would approve by law any scheme looking directly or indirectly to the redivision of property. That theory forms the woof and warp of this measure. When they are ready for this measure, they will not need any law to accomplish the rapacious ends it has in view. Why should the law be resorted to for the purpose of taking one man's property by force and giving it to another? In the nature of things, confiscation should not rest its claims upon law but upon brute force. The barons of ancient days required no legal warrants for the daily and nightly assessments they made upon their neighbors.

When the people of Texas learn the truth about this measure and about the basic theories which underlie it, they will recoil from it with an indignation which will teach the reckless and office-hunting politicians of the future to keep their wicked hands off private property and to respect the voice which thundered from Sinai the command: "Thou shalt not steal."

But if I thought that the people were so steeped in the gospel of socialism and spoliation that they were ready to embrace this measure I would repeat with emphasis what I here assert. May God help this country when public officials are to be found only upon the crest of the passing breeze. If the morals of this measure respond truly to public sentiment in Texas, fully advised as to its principles, then I have no business here. So help me God, I will never stand for a law which will assist any man to commit an act which if done without the law would stamp him as a scoundrel or a robber.

TO MOBILIZE THE BANKS.

In a discussion with one of the distinguished gentlemen whose name is given to this bill, he said to me in substance:

"You do not understand one of the purposes of this measure. It seeks to co-ordinate the banks; to combine them in interest."

This was one phase of the subject I had, indeed, considered but lightly—too lightly. An attempt to mobilize the banks and to weld them together in a community of political as well as business interest, is a matter of vast importance to the people of this State, and well deserves their full consideration before receiving their approval. This is not the first time in the history of this country a movement of that sort has been afoot, but it is the first time, I believe, any man calling himself a Democrat ever gave encouragement to such a movement. In the days of militant national Democracy there was a banker named Nicholas Biddle, who cherished the dream of a great central bank which was to be the financial heart of the nation, and to which all other banks were to contribute as feeders. It was a vision of co-ordination of banks such as may have flashed upon recent dreams of the authors of the Cureton bill. There also lived in those days a man of rugged mien and blunt speech named Jackson—plain Andrew Jackson. Fear in a personal sense never found a recess in his soul, but brave as he was, he trembled at the thought that the time might come when the chain of banks with a centralized head, such as was planned by Nicholas Biddle, would become masters of the Western World and bring the Republic to their feet. With all of his masterful energy, that great and heroic Democrat fought the Biddle scheme until it yielded to him, and to the Democratic party under his command, a notable victory. Since then the dream of Nicholas Biddle has reappeared from time to time. This is not its first visitation to Texas. About 1890 there came to this State from a central State an old but vigorous man of large wealth who dreamed that he was to become the banking king of Texas, at the head of an extensive chain of banks. He was vigorous in execution as well as boundless in aspiration, and soon he was in a fair way to accomplish his purpose. But panic came—it may have been as to some things a merciful panic—and disease struck deep and vitally, and that dream perished from the earth. And again this vision of Nicholas Biddle reappears—strange spectacle—heralded in the vernacular of Democracy and underwritten by the Governor of a Democratic State. Surely, the bones of old Andrew Jackson must be turning and twisting in their grave at the Hermitage. I would not seek to deprive the authors of this measure of the honors which they have earned by its proposal, but in the interest of historical accuracy, I am forced to say that they were beaten several lengths to this device by Congressman Chas. Fowler, of New Jersey, chairman of the House Committee on Banking, through appointment by Speaker Cannon. Speaking before that committee in support of the Fowler bill, Mr. Chas. A. Conant, of New York, a Federalist in principle, said on February 19, 1906:

"Mr. Fowler's bill providing for bringing the trust companies and national banks into the national banking system tends to give that co-ordination, that cohesion and that correlation which are essential if we are to become a solvent financial nation. And his other provisions which introduce mutuality among the banks by imposing the burden of losses upon the banks of a given group and authorizing examinations in anticipation of bad loans instead of after they are made, all point in the same direction and tend to a cohesion and to symmetry and to unity which can never be found under our existing system. * * * Inevitably the only sound measure is a measure which shall co-ordinate the entire system."

It is not my purpose to discuss here the currency question, although that is the subject the framers of the Cureton bill evidently had principally in mind. They had some sort of notion that they were going to solve the old, old problem of providing the borrower with all the money he wants, and it was the borrower's not the depositor's image who filled their thoughts. The fact of vital import to us is that this is a magnificent scheme of conquest, which is to be not a conquest of the banks, but a conquest by the banks. When five hundred or a thousand banks, or more, shall have been co-ordinated under the Cureton plan, with an astute head at Austin in the office of the Banking Commissioner, where is the organization, political or any other kind, which will be able to stand before them in battle array? Before we mobilize this formidable force would it not be well to consider what is to be the end of the undertaking? I have read a story of mystery that told of a magician who summoned at will the evil spirits domiciled in the outer world which fringes the upper atmosphere. Day after day their ferocity grew, until in a frolicsome riot they murdered their earthly friend. His fate should give us pause. If we shall by force put the fingers of the State into the banking business, we must expect to find the imprint of the bankers' fingers in the State's business. The inexorable law of self-protection will force the bankers to seek to control the banking department, and to that end they would find it necessary to control every other department of State, including the executive office. An unending fight would come between the banks and the people, and there is reasonable ground for fear that the people would lose oftener than they would win. Why should we invite such a controversy when it presages nothing but evil to the public interest?

A HOROSCOPE.

If this or any other similar measure should ever be adopted in Texas, it lies not in the imagination of man to foresee all of the evil consequences, but some of them may be anticipated with certainty.

Its first result will be to produce a general feeling of anxiety and apprehension in the business circles of this State, which will manifest itself in a practical way in a check upon investments and upon progressive movements of every sort. No revolution of such magnitude as this proposes was ever accomplished without drawing beads of blood from the ranks of industry and commerce and labor everywhere. The most sensitive point of our whole industrial system is at the money exchanges. A clog of ten minutes there sends a thrill of anxiety throughout the country, a clog of thirty minutes begins liquidation. A clog of twelve hours means a panic. Those in the Legislature and out of it who are dealing with this measure as though it were a local hog law, who are voting for it and talking for it without reading and understanding or even asking about its provisions, are playing with fire that unless checked will soon illuminate our prairies and our forests with a conflagration that will exhaust all of our energies for many years to come. It is easy to go forward, but it will not be easy to retrace our steps. One or two timid, hesitating men in this Senate anxious to please some one who wears the emblems of authority, frightened by a petition which was signed, good-naturedly, by somebody who took no trouble to find out what it proposed, at the instance of somebody who did not care what it proposed, and prepared by somebody who proposes to get and to keep office forever if he can deceive the people forever, may play havoc with the dearest interests of the State, and start us on a journey in an unknown sea, for which we have neither chart, nor rudder, nor anchor, nor pilot.

While we cannot anticipate all that this measure would accomplish, some results we may foreknow.

If serious depression comes, such as we had in 1907, this measure would produce a run on banks from one end of the State to the other. When storm and tempest come, the talk of percentages of loss and funds represented by paper credits will sound to a disturbed people as driveling idiocy. They will put this brazen scheme to the test. They will demand their money at the windows of five hundred banks or more, and they will not get it. And then—what then? They will turn to the Banking Commissioner and say: "Redeem the promise of the State." May Providence then preserve him from the popular wrath if he should happen to be in any way responsible for this monumental sham and fraud. He will tender them cartloads of certificates but they will not accept, and they will confront the State with armies of pleading, angry citizens who will say: "You promised us money, not certificates; you promised to give us solvent banks that would never close. You, the State, have lied to us and deceived us." And they would tell the truth. Whenever the State adopts this measure it will write into its statutes a monstrous lie, because it will hold out to the public a promise it can never redeem if actual redemption is demanded upon a scale large enough to test the value of the promise.

On the other side, the picture is even darker than on the financial side.

With a departmental and appointive officer of the State in general charge of the banking interests and capital and deposits of the country, an era will be inaugurated which will recall the palmy days of Tweed, and which will cause the achievements of municipal boodlers to pale into insignificance.

Can any intelligent mind fail to understand what this would mean? The time has come to talk plainly, because the welfare of more than three millions of people—soon to increase to five millions—is vitally at stake.

It would mean that the establishment of any important business at any point in the State would soon require a journey to Austin and a conference with the Governor and the Banking Commissioner, and we would have the strange spectacle of communities and private concerns from one end of the State to the other sending delegations to the State Capitol and appealing to the Executive Department of the government for its gracious permission to transact business. Let no man be deceived. Such power as this cannot be lodged in flesh and blood without yielding the inevitable harvest of a reign of absolutism and an increasing flow of graft. Our office-holders have generally been poor men in the past. But if we make this radical change in our system, they will soon learn the art of growing wealthy on small salaries.

With the mighty power that would be lodged in it through control of the whole industrial system, the political machine at Austin which would result, once organized, would be impregnable. No popular movement would ever be strong enough to dislodge it. Its selfish forces would be too large, its munitions of war too vast, for any organization of disinterested citizens to combat it with success.

I have presented feebly some of the reasons why I believe this to be the most dangerous measure ever offered in the Legislature of a Southern State. It is true that a disposition is shown in some quarters to treat with socialism and to dally with confiscation. These are signs of danger which should admonish us to be on our guard. A bishop of the Northern branch of the Methodist Church once said that when the great crisis which would test the solvency of the American system of government should come the salvation of our institutions would depend upon the farmers of the South. If they ever forget conservatism and forsake prudence in such an hour of trial, there is no power in earth or Heaven which can save the Republic. The danger may be nearer than we think. Evil never sends out scouts to give warning of its approach.

When Paul stood before Agrippa, charged with offense against the Jewish law, he proudly replied that he was being judged "for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers." A Pharisee of the Pharisees, he pleaded the best hope of the ancient faith—the resurrection of the dead.

At all times and in all places Democracy has proclaimed one gospel which has voiced the best hope of all the millions who have lived and who are yet to live: the hope which stands for the only freedom which makes men truly free—the right to live without abiding under the shadow of governmental despotism, and to die without taking an enforced passage on some chartered ship to the havens of the blest. For that hope we now are judged.

HOW THE FARMERS UNION HAS BEEN TRICKED.

It is unfortunate that the people have not had an opportunity to study and discuss the several measures relating to this subject which have been considered by the Legislature. A matter of such importance should be thoroughly understood, not only by the members of the Legislature, but by the people at large, before a final vote shall be taken.

The assertion has been made that the Farmers Union is behind the Cureton bill, and petitions have been exhibited here from members of the Union purporting to endorse it. I assert without fear of successful contradiction that there is not a branch of the Farmers Union in this State which has, with a clear understanding of its provisions, given it approval or can be brought to endorse it. The official despotism which this measure would establish and the system of official graft which it would promote are more odious to the farmers than to any other class of men. The native freedom of the corn field and the cotton patch can never be harmonized with a system which would create a financial overlord for the entire State, clothed with more arbitrary power than is lodged with any servant of the Czar except one of his metropolitan chiefs of police.

The frequent use of the name of the Farmers Union to coerce the passage of this measure invites the recital of a chapter from recent history which will prove of more than passing interest. In the fall of 1907, Mr. Neill, then and now president of the Texas Branch of the Union, from time to time issued public addresses to the farmers of Texas advising them to hold their cotton for 15 cents. Many of them acted upon this advice. Cotton went not up but down, and general discussion ensued as to the cause of that decline. Mr. Neill and his advisors contended that one of the causes of the fall of cotton was the failure of Texas banks to furnish money to the farmers to enable them to hold their cotton. It is not necessary here to enquire as to the influences which affected the cotton market. The fact of interest here is that Mr. Neill and his associates adopted the theory that the failure of Texas banks to advance money on cotton was a potential factor in the decline. I confess that I was unable to comprehend why any one connected with the Farmers Union should take any special interest in the Cureton bill until I made the discovery of a most astounding provision in that bill. It is labeled in lengthy phrase a bill for the protection of depositors and to increase the safeguards to be thrown around the banks. Not until the bill had passed the House, and several days after it had been projected upon the Senate, did I discover that its most significant section had nothing to do with security for deposits, but contained a provision to abolish all safeguards touching loans to be made upon cotton stored in warehouses.

The national bank law provides that a bank may loan not exceeding 10 per cent of its capital and surplus to one concern. The State law provides that it may loan 25 per cent of its capital and surplus to one concern. The Cureton bill proposes to amend the State law on this subject, and in order that I may not be charged with the slightest injustice to its provisions, I quote the material features of this proposed amendment:

"Section 32. Section 53 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Section 53. No incorporated bank nor trust company, organized under this act shall loan its money to any individual, corporation or company, directly or indirectly, or permit any individual, corporation or company to become at any time indebted or liable to it in a sum exceeding 25 per cent of its capital stock or permit a line of loans or credits to any greater amount to any individual, corporation or company. A permanent surplus, the setting apart of which shall have been certified to by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, may be taken and considered as a part of the capital stock for the purpose of this section; provided, such surplus is in amount not less than 50 per cent of the capital stock of said bank, provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed as in anywise to interfere with the rules and regulations of any clearing association in this State in reference to the daily balances between banks, and that this section shall not apply to balances due from correspondents subject to draft, and that the discounting of the following classes of paper shall not be included in the limitation placed upon loans or credits by this section, viz.:

"1. The discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actual existing values.

"2. The discount of paper upon the collateral security of warehouse receipts, or other written instruments conveying a lien with the right to take immediate possession covering agricultural and manufactured products in store in elevators and warehouses, or conveniently deposited elsewhere under the following conditions:

"(a) That the actual market value of the property held in store and covered by such receipts, if other than cotton or cotton seed products, shall at all times exceed by at least 25 per cent the amount loaned upon the same, and if it be cotton or cotton seed products it shall at least equal 90 per cent of the amount loaned upon the same."

This remarkable provision would make available all of the resources of any State bank to lend upon cotton in warehouses at the ratio of 110 per cent (90 per cent was intended) of its market value to a single concern. No cotton plunger ever dared to take such a leap as this. No banker would ever make such a loan unless he should do it in anticipation of failure.

Clearly this section was not inserted in the bill for the benefit of the depositors, but ostensibly for the benefit of borrowers. Who put it there, and why was it put there? Can the Governor tell us? Two of the most conspicuous advocates of the bill served on the Free Conference Committee to which it was referred during the closing days of the First Called Session of the Legislature. They are named on the frontispiece as authors of the bill. When they were asked by me about the reasons for this section they both disclosed in the Free Conference that they were wholly ignorant of its existence, and as soon as their attention was called to it, they promptly avowed a willingness to cut it out of the bill. But, notwithstanding they declined to endorse it, and were willing to sacrifice it on the spot, it is noteworthy that it now reappears in the bill which lately passed the House and is now pending in the Senate.

A few days ago, I chanced to meet a friend who stands high in the councils of the Farmers' Union, who stated that he had participated in a meeting of his Local Union which had endorsed the Cureton bill. I asked him the grounds of endorsement, and he replied that it was because the representation was made that under the provisions of the bill the farmers would be able to convert instantly at the bank their warehouse certificates for cotton into loans of cash at the ratio of 90 per cent of the market value of the cotton.

This, then, is the leverage which has been used to trick the farmers into seeming endorsement of this measure. When they learn how shamelessly they have been duped, what will they have to say? What will be their final judgment upon a sham and a fraud which promises them loans upon cotton that will never materialize, and were never expected to materialize? What will be their final opinion of the politicians who have contributed to entrap them into giving the color of their endorsement to a mammoth fraud through the use of such a scurvy trick?

The attempt to deceive the farmers is not limited, it seems, to representations concerning large loans to be made on cotton. The proceedings of the Bowie County Farmers' Union in session at New Boston on April 10, are instructive. The following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, There is a bill pending before the Legislature known as House bill No. 1, for the guaranteeing of deposits in the Texas banks, known as the Cureton bill;

"Whereas, We believe it is just and right that the banks insure deposits as the United States Government, the State and county require all banks to insure their deposits; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the members of the Bowie County Union, do honorably petition for our State Senators and Representatives to vote for said bill.

"Resolved further, That the Bowie County Union do appreciate the honest, faithful and conscientious efforts of Governor T. M. Campbell in trying to have the above bank guarantee bill enacted into a law, as we firmly believe it will be of inestimable advantage to those who produce something to sell."

Who told those farmers that the Cureton bill would provide the same kind of security for their deposits that is now given for the deposits of the State and county? The Senter-Hume bill does that, but the Cureton bill, alas! It furnishes no security, it provides no fund; it relies solely on confidence and paper entries. What would those Bowie county farmers have said if they had known the truth? They were in earnest, and they knew what they wanted. They know security when they see it. They demanded security as good as the best—the security that is required for the deposits of the State, the county and the municipality. They are right about it. All thinking persons who give any thought to the subject cannot fail to reach the same conclusion. Security that spells dollars, real dollars, in the hour of trouble, is the only guaranty that counts with practical men.

In the light of these revelations, the question is pertinent: Who was the author of this scheme to bamboozle and trick the farmers? Can the Governor tell us? If he is wholly in the dark, possibly his banking commissioner can throw some light on the subject.

Conclusive evidence that the support given by certain officials of the Farmers' Union to the Cureton bill was induced by the provisions for excessive loans on cotton which I have quoted is furnished by the following letter:

"Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of Texas.

"Hon. E. G. Senter, Austin, Texas.

"Dear Sir: You have heard the testimony of the bankers who said they saw the panic of 1907 coming for more than two years; yet they made no effort whatever to inform the people or to prepare the people for the coming storm. They deliberately shipped their money to New York in the face of the fact that they saw a financial storm brewing. They shipped their money to New York then deliberately locked up the people's money and refused to pay checks upon demand. They deliberately tied up the people's money; they deliberately destroyed markets for the time being, and had it not been for the organization of the people the country would have been plunged into bankruptcy.

"The farmers of Texas want the Cureton bank law as it is without amendment. It will give protection to the depositor and yield protection to the country.

"They appeal to you to pass this bill and the great common people of Texas will rise up and call you blessed.

"D. J. NEILL, President,

"C. SMITH, Sec'y-Treas.,

"JOE E. EDMONSON,

"Gen. Org. and Lec."

This letter candidly declares the object of the writers in endorsing the Cureton bill. It states no interest in the question of security for deposits, but contends for larger loans to applicants for money. In this view, the bill is shown to be not a measure in behalf of depositors, but to compel the banks to lend money against their will and in amounts and under circumstances that would inevitably produce bankruptcy. In a statement recently given to the press, Mr. Neill said: "One provision (of the Cureton bill) which is peculiarly desired by the farming interests is that it increases the percentage of the value that may be loaned on cotton and cotton seed products from 75 per cent to 90 per cent."

I remit to every thinking man the duty of determining what judgment should be rendered against the politicians who contrived this artful scheme. Mr. Neill and his associates have been entirely candid, but what irony veils the language of the proponents of this measure when they accuse others of supporting a sham and a fraud.

That there may be no mistake about this matter, I reduce the substance of these statements to a direct charge.

I charge that the section providing for excessive loans on cotton was written in the Cureton bill by the Banking Commissioner, Mr. Love, to trick the Farmers' Union into giving it support; that he has been active in securing petitions from members of the Union based upon this provision of the bill, that it was written in the bill some time after he had called a conference of bankers at Austin to hear his original bill, and that the original draft of the bill contained no hint of this extraordinary proposal. I further charge that there has never been any expectation of holding this section in the bill, that it was a cunning scheme of the Banking Commissioner to capture the support of the officials of the Farmers' Union and to trick the farmers into the signature of petitions for the passage of the bill without amendments.

I challenge the Governor and his Banking Commissioner to deny these statements and to invite publicity touching the facts upon which they are based.

I also challenge them to say publicly whether they approve or disapprove this provision of the bill.

SCHEMING FOR AN EASY FALL

During the closing hours of the First Called Session of the Legislature, the proponents of the Cureton bill tendered a hybrid measure which masqueraded as a compromise. It was an artfully conceived scheme to win by strategy what had been lost in open contest. If it is just and wise to force by law a general co-partnership of the banks it should be done with the emergency clause and not on the installment plan.

The Oklahoma idea is to create a fund on paper for the payment of depositors, and to collect money as needed to pay depositors with claims against a suspended bank by assessments upon the banks which remain open.

The plan which has been approved by the Senate is to require each bank to furnish its own guaranty, and to enforce an abundant guaranty. It would be as impossible to mix permanently oil and water as to bring these two methods into a consistent system. They are antagonistic in principle, and at right angles with each other at every point.

There can be no compromise between Democracy and Socialism, no alliance or peace between the advocates of confiscation and the defenders of the right of private title to property. Whether the proposal to take from one concern to pay the debts of another be mandatory or cloaked in the velvety deceit of a voluntary plan, it is steeped to the brim with socialism and permits of no dalliance from a Democratic standpoint.

The shrewd politicians who attempted to railroad through the First Called Session of the Legislature this socialistic scheme without giving the public a chance to understand it are even now adroitly seeking to accomplish by strategy the ends which were defeated in the first struggle through the courageous attitude of seventeen members of the Senate. They are now whispering siren words of compromise in the hope of securing some sort of seeming approval here for their discredited project, and that it will thereby escape the critical analysis of public discussion.

These gentlemen talk glibly of public sentiment, but they do not dare to invoke its direct action. They prate about the sufficiency of the guaranty which they offer, but they do not dare to invite the rays of the calcium of the public eye upon the mass of odious and undemocratic detail which they have patched together in a crazy-quilt of forty-two sections under the label of a bill for the protection of depositors. The Governor asserts that "the issue here is understood by the people," but he does not dare to go before the people on this issue. On the floor of the Senate about two weeks ago I predicted that every man connected with the authorship of the Cureton bill, and every man in the Legislature who has voted for it, and every man out of the Legislature who has used his influence, officially or otherwise, in its favor, will be pleading either the baby act or an alibi before two years shall have passed, and I now repeat that prediction. However, if I am mistaken about that, I and others who are standing for the maintenance of the fire tested and time honored principles of Democracy, will be glad to join issue upon this question with our opponents before the people. Let the light pour in. Let the people speak. Let fall

"The weapon which comes down as still
As snowflakes fall upon the sod,
And executes a freeman's will

As lightning does the wrath of God;
And from its force nor doors, nor locks

POINT OF ORDER ON BANK BILL SUSTAINED.

The Chair (Lieutenant Governor Davidson) here announced the following ruling on the point of order by Senator Terrell of McLennan on Senate bill No. 4, known as the guaranty bank bill (see Journal of yesterday for point of order):

The point of order by the Senator from McLennan (Terrell) on the bill known as the bank guaranty bill, that the bill having passed the Senate and transmitted to the House of Representatives and under consideration both in the committee and on the floor of the House has been so changed that it becomes a substitute or new bill, and therefore can not go to a Free Conference Committee at present, but to the Committee on Insurance, Statistics and History, to which it belongs, has been thoroughly considered by the Chair and the Chair rules that under Senate Rule 28, which is as follows:

"A bill, when introduced, shall be read and referred to a committee. The first reading of a bill, if a Senate bill, shall be the reading thereof when first introduced; if a House bill, the reading thereof when transmitted to the Senate. And all House bills, when received in the Senate, shall be read and referred to a committee. No action shall be taken upon a bill accepting, rejecting or amending the same until it has been reported upon by a committee."

And Senate Rule 34, which is as follows:

"When the House of Representatives shall adopt and send to the Senate a substitute for a bill that had previously passed the Senate and been sent to the House, said substitute shall be acted upon by the Senate in the same manner as a bill that originated in the House of Representatives; and any amendment which is in effect a substitute shall be considered a substitute bill."

Upon an examination of the Journal of the House, as well as an examination of the bill itself as reported back from the House and now under consideration under this point of order, and a comparison of it with the original bill as passed by the Senate, it is shown that there is practically not one sentence left in the bill, except the following language: "Senate bill No. 4" and "be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas," and the sections in the original bill referring to the bond system of guaranty.

The Chair is of the opinion that this bill comes within the terms of Senate Rule 34 above quoted, and requires the Chair to refer it to the proper committee, rather than that the Senate should concur, or refuse to concur, in the House amendments and ask for a Free Conference Committee as has been moved by other Senators.

So long as I have the pleasure and honor to occupy this Chair, I shall endeavor to the best of my ability to follow rigidly the constitutional requirements and the requirements of the rules of this body to the end that legislation may be constitutionally and legally considered and disposed of.

The Chair supposes that the House changed this bill with the rules before it, knowing full well the consequences of such change.

The Chair is not one of those connected in any way with legislation who believes that the Legislature should convert itself into a legislative thrashing machine, feeding through the legislative body laws without regard as to whether the bundles go in head first or not, but rather should proceed with its business along careful and dignified lines to the end that the interests of the people of this great State may not be jeopardized by hasty and inconsiderate legislation. The Constitution so contemplated and hedged it about, and the rules, which are wise ones, so require it to act.

The bill, therefore, as required by the Constitution and these rules, will be read and referred to the Committee on Insurance, Statistics and History, to which it belongs, as the Chair holds that the point of order under consideration is well taken.

Respectfully submitted.

A. B. DAVIDSON,
President of the Senate.

In accordance with the above ruling, the Chair (Lieutenant Governor Davidson) directed the bill to be read, and pending the referring to the bill.

Senator Harper moved that the Senate rule, with reference to referring substitute bills, be suspended, and that the bill be placed before the Senate at once.

Senator Watson made the point of order on the motion that same sought to change the rules of Senate, and that could not be done without one day's notice.

The Chair sustained the point of order, holding that the bill would have to take its course in the committee, which was in line with the above quoted ruling.

The Chair then referred Senate bill No. 4 to Committee on Insurance, Statistics and History.

A BILL

To be Entitled

An Act to appropriate the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary, from the general revenues of the State, to be used in operating the iron industry at the State penitentiary at Rusk, Texas; providing that such money shall be returned to the general revenues of the State within eighteen months out of any available funds of the penitentiary system of the State; providing that the Automatic Tax Board shall not take said appropriation into consideration in fixing the tax rate for the years 1909 and 1910; providing for the drawing of warrants therefor by the Comptroller and the payment of same by the State Treasurer, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, as an emergency fund, to be used in operating the iron industry at the State Penitentiary at Rusk, Texas, and for no other purpose, and any money so used shall be returned to the general revenue of the State from any available net revenues of the penitentiary system within eighteen months after the passage of this act. This appropriation shall not be considered as a charge against the general revenues of the State, and the Automatic Tax Board shall not take said appropriation into consideration in fixing the tax rate for the years of 1909 and 1910.

Sec. 2. The Comptroller of Public Accounts is hereby authorized to draw, and the State Treasurer is authorized to pay, warrants upon the State Treasury for said purpose for amounts not exceeding in the aggregate the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000), such warrants to be drawn upon vouchers by the proper officers of the penitentiary system as now provided by law.

Sec. 3. The fact that the State's iron industry is now idle for the lack of available funds with which to start its operation, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity, requiring that the constitutional rule that bills be read on three several days be suspended, and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

By Senator Bryan:

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives, Austin, Texas.

Gentlemen: The undersigned citizens, voters and taxpayers of Haskell county, Texas, respectfully ask that your honorable bodies unite in the enactment of a law providing for the guaranteeing of bank deposits.

We, with what we know to be a very large majority of the people of this section, desire a law which will provide a fund for the immediate payment of depositors upon the failure or suspension of a bank, a law based on the mutual guarantee principle, and not a bonding law which will entail delay and possibly litigation before depositors can be paid.

We believe that such law will promote and restore confidence among the masses and prove inestimably beneficial to the country, and we believe it to be your duty to enact such law.

Numerously signed.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Each and every corporation which may hereafter be incorporated under the laws of this State with banking and discount privileges, and each banking and trust company in this State incorporated, or that may hereafter be incorporated under the provisions of Chapter 10 of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas, shall, at its option, protect its depositors in the manner hereinafter prescribed, either by availing itself of the depositors' guaranty fund hereinafter provided for, or by the depositors' bond security system hereinafter set forth.

Sec. 2. A State Banking Board is hereby created, which board shall be composed of the Attorney General, Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and Treasurer of this State. Said board shall have the control and management of the depositors' guaranty fund hereinafter provided for, and shall have the power to adopt all necessary rules and regulations in harmony with this act for the management of said fund, said board shall have general supervision and control of the depositors' bond security system herein provided for, and shall have the power of regulation, control and supervision of all State banking corporations and trust companies as hereinafter provided in this act.

Sec. 3. Each and every bank and trust company mentioned in Section 1 of this act shall have the right and privilege, at its option, to secure its depositors by the manner, methods and under the terms, provisions and regulations as set forth in this act for the depositors' guaranty fund or the bond security system; provided, that all such banks and trust companies shall secure their deposits by one of said plans on January 1, 1910; provided further, that such option shall be exercised on or before

Sec. 4. Any such bank or trust company which shall elect to secure its deposits under the depositors' guaranty fund provided for by this act, shall pay to said banking board, providing its application is approved by said board as hereinafter prescribed in Section 7 of this act, on January 1, 1910, 1 per cent of its daily average non-interest-bearing deposits, for the preceding year, not including United States, State or other public funds, if otherwise secured, nor deposits of other banks and trust companies, for the purpose of creating a depositors' guaranty fund. Annually after the first payment to said fund, each bank and trust company subject to the provisions of this act shall pay to said board one-fourth of 1 per cent of its daily average deposits, as above defined, which amount shall be added to said guaranty fund; provided that when the amount available in said guaranty fund shall reach the sum of two million dollars the Bank Commissioner shall notify all banks and trust companies subject to this act, at least thirty days before the next annual payment, and thereafter the banks and trust companies participating shall not pay any further amount into said fund until said fund be depleted, and in the event of the depletion of said fund from any cause so that it falls below two million dollars, or in the event of necessity to meet an emergency at any time, said board shall have authority to require the payment for the current year of 2 per cent of such average deposits, or such part thereof as may be necessary to restore said fund to the maximum above named, or to meet the emergency, but no bank or trust company coming under the provisions of this act shall ever be required to pay more than 2 per cent of said average daily deposits for any one year; providing further, that first payments herein provided for shall be made to said board without reference to said maximum sum.

The Treasurer may, and he shall on order of said banking board, keep 25 per cent of the amount of said guaranty fund deposited in State depositories, subject to demand call of said board; provided, that 50 per cent of all payments required may be held by guaranteed bank as demand deposits, to the credit of said banking board.

Sec. 6. State bank and trust companies organized less than one year prior to the taking effect of this law on approval of their applications as provided for in Section 7 of this act shall pay into said guaranty fund 3 per cent of the amount of their capital stock, which amount shall constitute a credit fund, subject to adjustment on the basis of their deposits as provided for other banks now existing, at the end of one year; provided, however, that said payment shall not be required of banks and trust companies formed by the reorganization or consolidation of banks that have previously complied with the terms of this act.

Sec. 7. The State Banking Board shall admit to the benefits and protection of this act only such banks and trust companies as in their opinion are solvent and properly officered and conducted, and shall prescribe the form of application and statement which shall be made by each and every bank and trust company and which shall be sworn to by two of the chief officers of the bank, blank copies of which application and statement shall be mailed to each State bank and trust company in this State at least ten days before this act requires the initial payment, and which shall be filled out, signed and sworn to and returned promptly to said board, and such copies shall be mailed to any other bank within this State on request. Should said board decline the application of any bank or trust company, it shall state the grounds of such declination to such institution and whether the objection can be removed, and the condition thereof.

Sec. 8. Any National bank in this State may voluntarily avail its depositors of the protection of the depositors' guaranty fund, upon the same terms, payments, conditions and in the same manner as herein provided for State banks; provided, that in the event national banks should be required by Federal enactment to pay assessments to any bank guaranty fund of the Federal Government and thereby the deposits in national banks in this State should be guaranteed by virtue of Federal laws, that the national banks having availed themselves of the benefits of this act may withdraw therefrom and have returned to them the unused portion of all assessments levied upon and paid by said banks.

Sec. 9. Whenever any State bank or trust company shall become insolvent and shall voluntarily, or by law, or in any manner as provided in Chapter 10, Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature, come into the hands of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, he may proceed to wind up its affairs, either through a receiver or through some competent person, who shall give bond as may be required by the board, payable to the board for the faithful performance of all duties imposed upon him. Said bond may be recovered upon for the benefit of said guaranty fund. On taking possession of the property and business of any such State bank, the Commissioner shall forthwith give notice of such fact to any and all banks, trust companies, associations and individuals holding or in possession of any assets of any such State bank.

No bank, trust company, association or individual knowing of such taking possession by the Commissioner, or notified as aforesaid, shall have a lien or charge for any payment, advance of clearance thereafter made, or liability thereafter incurred against any of the assets of the State bank of whose property and business the Commissioner shall have taken possession as aforesaid. Such State bank may, with the consent of the State Banking Board, resume business upon such condition as may be approved by it, which permission shall be evidenced by a written statement to that effect from the Commissioner. Upon taking possession of the property and business of such State bank, the Commissioner is authorized to collect moneys due to such corporation, and do such other acts as are necessary to conserve its assets and business, and shall proceed to liquidate the affairs thereof as herein provided. The Commissioner shall collect all debts due and claims belonging to such State bank, and upon the order of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the county in which it was located and transacting business, may sell or compound all bad or doubtful debts, and on like order may sell the real or personal property of such State bank on such terms as the court shall direct, and may, if necessary to pay the debts of such State bank, enforce the individual liability of the stockholders. The Commissioner may, under his hand and official seal, appoint one or more special agents to assist him in the duty of liquidation and distribution, the certificate of appointment to be filed in the office of the Commissioner and a certified copy in the office of the clerk of the county court in which such State bank was located and transacted business. The Commissioner may from time to time, authorize a special agent to perform such duties connected with such liquidation and distribution as the said Commissioner may deem proper. The Commissioner may employ such counsel and procure such expert assistance and advice as may be necessary in the liquidation and distribution of the assets of such State bank and may retain such of the officers or employees of such State bank as he may deem necessary. The Commissioner shall require from a special agent and from such assistants such security for the faithful discharge of their duties as he may deem proper. The Commissioner shall cause notice to be given by advertisement in such newspapers as he may direct, weekly, for three consecutive months, calling on all persons who may have claims against such State bank to present the same to the Commissioner and make legal proof thereof at a place and within a time not earlier than the last day of publication to be therein specified, which notice shall contain a statement, in larger type than that in which the body of such notice is printed, specifically stating that all such claims of guaranty and depositors must be presented and legal proof thereof made at the place designated within forty-five days after the date which the property and business of such State bank was taken possession of by the Commissioner, and that all claims of guaranteed depositors presented after expiration of forty-five days shall not be entitled to payment of any portion thereof out of the depositors' guaranty fund. The Commissioner shall mail a similar notice to all persons whose names appear as creditors upon the books of the State bank. If the Commissioner doubts the justice and validity of any claim he may reject same and serve notice of such rejection upon the claimants, either by mail or by written notice personally served. An affidavit of the service of such notice, which shall be prima facie evidence thereof, shall be filed with the Commissioner. The action upon the claim so rejected must be brought within six months after such service. Claims presented after the expiration of the time fixed in the notice to the creditors shall be entitled to share in the distribution only to the extent of the assets in the hands of the Commissioner equitably applicable thereto. Upon taking possession of the property and assets of such State bank, the Commissioner shall make an inventory of the assets of such State bank in duplicate, one to be filed in the office of the Commissioner and one in the office of the clerk of the county court in which such State bank was located and transacting business; upon the expiration of the time fixed for the presentation of claims presented, including and specifying such claims as have been rejected by him, and showing fully all claims and amounts paid to guaranteed depositors out of the depositors' guaranty fund, and the amount to which said fund is entitled by reason of its subrogation to the rights of such guaranteed depositors so paid, and all amounts held by him on account of claims of guaranteed depositors, which have been rejected or are in dispute, one to be filed in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county in which such State bank was located and transacted business. Such inventory and list of claims shall be open at all reasonable times to inspection. All compensation of special agents, counsel and other employees and assistants, and all expenses of supervision and liquidation shall be fixed by the Commissioner, subject to the approval of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such State bank was located and transacting business, on notice to such State bank; provided, that the compensation of such special agents shall always be the same as is provided by law for State bank examiners, and shall, upon the certificate of the Commissioner, be paid out of the fund of such State banks in the hands of the Commissioner. The moneys collected by the Commissioner shall be from time to time deposited in one or more State banks, and, in case of the suspension or insolvency of the depository, such deposits shall be preferred before all other deposits. At any time after the expiration of the date fixed for the presentation of claims, the Commissioner may, out of the funds remaining in his hands after the payment of expenses, declare one or more dividends, and after the expiration of one year from the first publication of a notice to creditors, he may declare a final dividend, such dividend to be paid to such person and in such manner and upon such notice as may be directed by the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such

State bank was located and transacted business. In the declaration and payment of all such dividends the depositors' guaranty fund shall be entitled to receive as its dividend such portions of the amounts due and payable to guaranteed depositors as shall have been paid to them out of the depositors' guaranty fund, together with 6 per cent interest thereon from the date or dates upon which checks were drawn upon all State banks, as hereinafter provided, to provide for the payment of the guaranteed deposits of such State banks, and the Commissioner shall forthwith distribute such dividends to State banks upon which checks were drawn for such payment of guaranteed deposits in proportion to the amounts of such checks, respectively. Objections to any claim not rejected by the Commissioner may be made by any party interested by filing a copy of such objections with the Commissioner, who shall present the same to the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, at the time of the next application to declare a dividend. The court may make proper provision for unproved or unclaimed deposits. Whenever any such State bank, of whose property and business the Commissioner has taken possession as aforesaid, deems itself aggrieved thereby, it may, at any time, apply to the district court, if in session, or to the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such bank is located and transacting business to enjoin further proceedings, and said court, if in session or the judge thereof, if in vacation, after citing the Commissioner to show cause why further proceedings should not be enjoined, and hearing the allegations and proofs of the parties and determining the facts, may, upon the merits dismiss such application or enjoin the Commissioner from further proceedings and direct him to surrender such business and property to such State bank. Whenever the Commissioner shall have paid to each and every depositor and creditor of such State bank (not including stockholders), except for the amount of their deposits over and above their liability under the law as stockholders, whose claim or claims as such creditor or depositor shall have been duly proven and allowed, the full amount of such claims, and shall have repaid to the depositors' guaranty fund all amounts paid out of it to guaranteed depositors of such State bank, together with 6 per cent interest thereon from the date when the checks to provide for such payment were drawn and shall have made proper provision for unclaimed and unpaid deposits or dividends, and shall have paid all the expenses of the liquidation, the Commissioner shall call a meeting of the stockholders of such State bank by giving notice thereof for thirty days in one or more newspapers in the county where such State bank was located and transacted business. At such meeting the stockholders shall determine whether the Commissioner shall be continued as liquidator, and shall wind up the affairs of such State bank, or whether an agent or agents shall be elected for that purpose, and in so determining the said stockholders shall vote by ballot, in person or by proxy, each share of stock entitling the holder to one vote, and a majority of the stock shall be necessary to a determination. In case it is determined to continue the liquidation under the Commissioner, he shall complete the liquidation of such corporation, and after paying the expenses thereof shall distribute the proceeds among the stockholders in proportion to the several holdings of stock in such manner and upon such notice as may be directed by the district court. In case it is determined to appoint an agent or agents to liquidate, the stockholders shall thereupon select such agent or agents by ballot, a majority of the stock present and voting, in person or by proxy, being necessary for a choice. Such agent or agents shall execute and file with the Commissioner a bond, in such amount, with such sureties and in such form as shall be approved by the Commissioner, conditioned for the faithful performance of all the duties of his or their trust, and thereupon the Commissioner shall transfer and deliver to such agent or agents all the undivided and unclaimed or other assets of such State bank then remaining in his hands; and upon such transfer and delivery the said Commissioner shall be discharged from any and all further liability to such State bank and its creditors and stockholders. Such agent or agents shall convert the assets coming into his or their possession into cash, and shall account for and make distribution of the property of said State bank, as herein provided in the case of distribution by the Commissioner, except that the expenses thereof shall be subject to the direction and control of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such State bank was located and transacted business. Commissioner, upon proof of such death, removal or refusal to act being filed with him, and by the same vote hereinbefore provided, may select a successor and shall have the same power and be subject to the same liabilities and duties as the agent originally elected. Dividends and unclaimed deposits remaining unpaid in the hands of the Commissioner for six months after the order for final distribution shall be by him deposited in some State bank to be designated by the State Banking Board to the credit of the Commissioner in his name of office, in trust for the several depositors with and creditors of the liquidated State bank from which they were received, who are entitled thereto. The Commissioner shall show in his official report the names of the State banks so taken possession of and liquidated, and the amounts of unclaimed and unpaid deposits or dividends, with respect to each of them, respectively. The Commissioner shall pay over the moneys so held by him to the persons respectively entitled thereto upon the order of the State Banking Board, who shall direct such payment to such persons upon being furnished satisfactory evidence of their right to the same. In case of doubt or conflicting claims, the State Banking Board may require an order of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, authorizing and directing the payment thereof. The State Banking Board may apply the interest earned by the moneys held by the Commissioner, or may authorize him to apply the same toward defraying the expenses incurred in payment and distribution of such unclaimed deposits or dividends to the depositors and creditors entitled to receive the same, and the Commissioner shall include in his official report a statement of the amount of interest earned by such unclaimed dividends. Any State bank may, at any time, place its affairs and assets under the control of the Commissioner by posting a notice on its front door, as follows:

The posting of this notice or of the same notice by the Commissioner or any State Bank Examiner at any time when he shall have taken possession of the property and business of a State bank, shall be sufficient to place all its assets and property of whatever nature in the possession of the Commissioner and shall operate as a bar to any attachment proceedings whatever.

Sec. 10. In the event the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall take possession of any bank or trust company, subject to this act, as herein provided, the depositors of said bank or trust company, as specified in Section 4 of this act, shall be paid in full out of the cash in said bank or trust company and that can be made immediately available from such bank, and the remainder shall be paid out of the depositors' guaranty fund through the said board in the event the cash available in said institution shall be insufficient; provided, that deposits upon which interest is being paid by said bank, its officers or stockholders, to the depositor and deposits otherwise secured shall not be insured under this act, but shall only receive the pro rata amount which may be realized from the assets, resources and collections of and from such banks and trust companies, its stockholders or directors.

Sec. 11. The State shall have, for the benefit of the depositors' guaranty fund, a first lien upon all assets of such bank or trust company, and all liabilities owing or accruing to such bank or trust company; provided, however, that any deposits on which said bank was paying interest and any other deposits not insured under this act and which are entitled to share in the assets, shall share in the dividends and proceeds of such assets and collections pro rata or as may be provided by law.

Sec. 12. In the event the depositors' guaranty fund, or any part thereof, shall be used by said banking board to pay off the depositors of a National bank which has accepted the provisions of this law, then said banking board shall receive from the receiver or other officer in charge of said bank the pro rata share of the proceeds of the assets and collections which would be due to said depositors to the amount so paid by the banking board.

Sec. 13. Provided that any bank operating under either form of guaranty herein provided for shall advertise the fact as to such guaranty it is operating under in the following language: "This bank has contributed its proportion of the guaranty fund as required by law to secure its depositors and is operating under said clause of the law," or "this bank has given bond to secure its depositors, approved by the county judge of county and Attorney General of Texas and now on file as required by law," as the case may be.

Sec. 20. The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, when in his judgment it is necessary to make an examination of a bank in order to determine whether or not it is authorized to make bond under this act, or to determine the amount of such bond, he shall charge a fee of not to exceed $20 against each corporation incorporated under the laws of the State to do a banking business or to receive funds on deposit for the examination of the bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity provided for in Section 16, and the examination of the solvency thereof and for the filing of the same shall be authorized to charge an examination fee

In the event such corporation shall refuse or fail to comply with such requirements, they shall communicate the facts to the Attorney General, who shall thereupon institute such proceedings and take such steps as the nature of the case may require. The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and the Attorney General shall, in such event, have and exercise, for the protection of depositors, all the authority conferred upon them by Section 40 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws enacted at the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature.

An itemized account of such expenses shall be rendered monthly, under oath, by each examiner and shall be approved by the Commissioner."

Sec. 35. Every president, cashier, director, teller, clerk or agent of any State bank who embezzles, abstracts or willfully misapplies any of the moneys, funds or credits of such State bank, or who, without authority from the directors, issues or puts forth any certificate of deposit, draws any order or bill of exchange, makes any acceptance, assigns any note, bond, draft, bill of exchange, mortgage, judgment or decree, or who makes any false entry in any book, report or statement of such State bank, with intent in either case to defraud such State bank, or any other corporation, body politic, or any individual, person, firm or association or to deceive any officer of such State bank, the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, or any examiner or special agent, authorized by law to examine the affairs of any such State bank, and every person who, with like intent, aids or abets any officer, clerk or agent in any violation of this section shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall, upon conviction, be imprisoned in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than five years nor more than ten years.

Sec. 36. Any director of a State bank who shall either directly or indirectly borrow any of the funds of such bank in excess of 10 per cent of its capital and surplus without the consent of a majority of the directors of the bank first having been obtained and made a matter of record at a regular meeting of the board, or without the written consent of such majority of the directors other than the borrowers being jointly executed by them and filed in the archives of such bank before the loan is made, and any officer of a State bank who shall knowingly become indebted to such bank, directly or indirectly, in any sum whatever, without the consent of a majority of the board other than the borrower, obtained or recorded, or filed in like manner, and any officer or director of such bank who shall knowingly loan or assent to the loaning of any of its funds to any officer, or any of its funds to any director, in excess of 10 per cent of its capital and surplus without such consent being first obtained and recorded or filed, or who shall knowingly permit any such officer or director to become indebted to the bank or liable to it without such consent, shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than two years, upon conviction thereof.

Sec. 37. Any officer, director or employee of any State bank or trust company who knowingly or willfully omits to perform any duty imposed upon him by law, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not less than thirty days nor more than ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 38. Neither the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking nor any regularly appointed clerks or employees of the Department of Insurance and Banking, or any State bank examiner shall, at any time during his incumbency, be financially interested, directly or indirectly, in any State bank or banking and trust company subject to the supervision of the Department of Insurance and Banking, or knowingly be or become indebted, directly or indirectly, in any such State bank or banking and trust company.

Any officer or employee named in this section violating its provisions shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $500, and the venue in such case shall be in the county wherein such State bank or banking and trust company is located. The violation of the provisions of this section shall work a forfeiture of the office or position held by the person guilty of such violation.

Sec. 39. Any officer, clerk or agent of any State bank who shall willfully certify to any check or checks before the amount thereof shall have been regularly entered to the credit of the drawer, upon the books of such State bank, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine of not less than five hundred nor more than five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 40. Any State bank examiner or special agent, who shall knowingly and intentionally fail or refuse to notify the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, in writing, of any violation of the criminal provisions of this act within ten days after the same shall come to his notice or attention, unless such notice shall, within his knowledge, have been previously given by some other bank examiner or special agent, or any Commissioner of Insurance and Banking who shall knowingly and intentionally fail or refuse to notify, in writing, the county or district attorney charged by law with the duty of the prosecution thereof, of any such violation within ten days after the same shall have come to his knowledge or attention, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction, be punished by fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than three nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and upon conviction shall be removed from office.

Sec. 41. The provisions of this act shall be held to be cumulative of all laws now in force applicable to State banks.

Sec. 42. It shall be unlawful for any State bank or trust company in this State to directly or indirectly loan to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking or any other person interested in or employed by the Department of the State Insurance and Banking, and it is hereby expressly provided that a violation of this provision shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $1000.

Sec. 43. The fact that there is no law in the State providing for a fund for the protection of depositors in banks and trust companies creates an emergency which requires that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

An Act requiring railroad companies to provide adequate and suitable passenger and freight depot buildings at their several stations and requiring them to keep all their passenger depots well lighted and warmed for the comfort and accommodation of the traveling public, and giving the Railroad Commission power to require compliance with this act; and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. It shall be the duty of all railroad companies in this State to provide and maintain adequate, comfortable and clean depots and depot buildings at their several stations for the accommodation of passengers and to keep said depot buildings well lighted and warmed for the comfort and accommodation of the traveling public; provided further, that said railroad companies shall keep and maintain separate apartments in such depot buildings for the use of white passengers and negro passengers, and to keep and maintain adequate and suitable freight depots and buildings for the receiving, handling, storing and delivering of all freights handled by such roads.

Committee Room,
Austin, Texas, May 7, 1909.

Hon. A. B. Davidson, President of the Senate.

Sir: Your Committee on Enrolled Bills have carefully examined and compared Senate bill No. 39, and find it correctly enrolled, and have this day, at 10:50 o'clock a. m., presented it to the Governor for his approval.

TERRELL of McLennan, Chairman.

Following is the enrolled bill in full:
Senate bill No. 39.

An Act to authorize incorporated towns, cities, and villages in the State of Texas, to construct permanent street improvements and assess part of the cost thereof against the owners of property abutting upon such improvements and their property and against the owners of railroads or street railroads occupying streets or highways improved and their property, and to provide for the enforcement and collection of such assessments, and to provide for the submission hereof to a vote of the resident property taxpayers who are the qualified voters of such towns, cities, and villages, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That towns, cities, and villages incorporated under either general or special law, which shall accept the benefits of this act as herein provided, shall have power to improve any street, avenue, alley, highway, public place or square or any portion thereof within their limits, by filling, grading, raising, paving or repaving the same in a permanent manner or by the construction or reconstruction of sidewalks, curbs, and gutters, or by widening, narrowing, or straightening the same, and to construct necessary appurtenances thereto, including sewers and drains.

Sec. 2. That the term "city," whenever used herein shall include all incorporated towns, cities and villages; that the term "governing body" whenever used herein shall include the governing or legislative bodies of all incorporated towns, cities or villages, whether known as councils, commissions, boards of commissions, common councils, boards of aldermen or city councils, or whatever name such bodies may be known or designated under general or special laws; that whenever the term "highway" is used herein, it shall include any street, avenue, alley, highway or public place or square or portion thereof dedicated to public use.

Sec. 3. That the governing body of any city shall have power to order the improvement of any highway therein, or part thereof and to select the materials and methods for such improvement, and to contract for the construction of such improvements in the name of the city, and to provide for the payment of the cost of such improvements out of any available funds of the city or as herein provided.

Sec. 4. That the cost of making such improvements may be wholly paid by the city or part by the city and partly by owners of property abutting thereon, provided, that in no event shall more than three-fourths of the cost of any improvement, except sidewalks and curbs be assessed against such property owners or their property. But the whole cost of construction of sidewalks and curbs in front of any property may be assessed against the owner thereof or his property.

Sec. 5. Subject to the terms hereof the governing body of any city shall have power to assess against the owner of any railroad or street railroad occupying any highway ordered to be improved the whole cost of the improvement between or under the rails and tracks of said railroad or street railroad and two feet on the outside thereof, and shall have power by ordinance to levy a special tax upon said railroad, or street railroad and its roadbed, ties, rails, fixtures, rights, and franchises, which tax shall constitute a lien thereon superior to any other lien or claim except State, county and municipal taxes, and which may be enforced either by sale of said property in the manner provided by law in the collection of ad valorem taxes by the city or by suit against the owner in any court having jurisdiction. The ordinance levying said tax shall prescribe when same shall become due and delinquent, and the method or methods of enforcing the same.

Sec. 6. Subject to the terms hereof the governing body of any city shall have power by ordinance to assess the whole cost of constructing sidewalks or curbs, and not to exceed three-fourths of the cost of any other improvement, against the owners of property abutting on such improvement and against their abutting property benefited thereby, and to provide for the time and terms of payment of such assessments and the rate of interest payable upon deferred payments thereon, which rate of interest shall not exceed 8 per centum per annum, and to fix a lien upon the property and declare such assessments to be a personal liability of the owners of such abutting property. And such governing body shall have power to cause to be issued in the name of the city assignable certificates, declaring the liability of such owners and their property for the payment of such assessments, and to fix the terms and conditions of such certificates.

If any such certificate shall recite that the proceedings with reference to making such improvements have been regularly had in compliance with law and that all prerequisites to the fixing of the assessment lien against the property described in said certificate, and the personal liability shall be prima facie evidence of the facts so recited and no further proof thereof shall be required in any court.

The ordinance making such assessments shall provide for the collection thereof with costs and reasonable attorney's fees, if incurred.

Such assessments shall be secured by and constitute a lien on said property which shall be the first enforceable claim against the property against which it is assessed, superior to all other liens and claims, except State, county and municipal taxes.

Sec. 7. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to empower any city to fix a lien by assessment against any property exempt by law from sale under execution, but the owner of such exempt property shall nevertheless be personally liable for the cost of improvements constructed in front of his property which may be assessed against him. The fact that any improvement is omitted in front of exempt property shall not invalidate the lien of assessments made against other property on the highway improved, not so exempt. The lien created against any property or the personal liability of the owner thereof, may be enforced by suit in any court having jurisdiction or by the sale of the property assessed in the same manner as may be provided by law for the sale of property for ad valorem city taxes. The recital in any deed made pursuant to such sale, that all legal prerequisites to said assessment and sale have been complied with, shall be prima facie evidence of the facts so recited and shall in all courts be accepted without further proof.

Sec. 8. No assessment of any part of the cost of such improvement shall be made against any property abutting thereon or its owner, until a full and fair hearing shall first have been given to the owners of such property preceded by a reasonable notice thereof given to said owners, their agents or attorneys; such notice shall be by advertisement inserted at least three times in some newspaper published in the city, town or village where such tax is sought to be improved, if there be such a paper, then, if not, the nearest paper to said city, town or village of general circulation in the county in which said city is located, the first publication to be made at least ten days before the date of the hearing. The governing body may provide for additional notice cumulative of notice by advertisement. Said hearing shall be before the governing body of such cities, at which hearing such owners shall have the right to contest the said assessment and personal liability, and the regularity of the proceedings with reference to the improvement, and the benefits of said improvement to their property, and any other matter with reference thereto.

But no assessment shall be made against any owner of abutting property or his property in any event in excess of the actual benefit to such owner in the enhanced value of his property by means of such improvements as ascertained at such hearing.

The governing body of any city making improvements under the terms hereof shall by ordinance adopt rules and regulations providing for such hearings to property owners, and for giving reasonable notice thereof.

Sec. 9. The governing body of any city shall be empowered to correct any mistake or irregularity in any proceedings with reference to such improvement or the assessment of the cost thereof against abutting property and its owners, and in case of any error or invalidity to reassess against any abutting property and its owner the cost or part of the cost of improvements subject to the terms hereof, not in excess of the benefits in enhanced value of such property from such improvements, and to make reasonable rules and regulations for a notice to and hearing of property owners before such reassessment.

Sec. 10. Any property owner against whom or whose property any assessment or reassessment has been made shall have the right within twenty day thereafter to bring suit in any court having jurisdiction to set aside or correct the same or any proceeding with reference thereto on account of any error or invalidity therein. But thereafter such owner, his heirs, assigns or successors shall be barred from any such action, or any defense of invalidity in such proceedings or assessment or reassessment in any action in which the same may be brought in question.

Sec. 11. The benefits of this act shall apply to any city and the terms thereof extend to the same when the governing body thereof shall submit the question of the adoption or rejection hereof to a vote of the resident property tax payers who are qualified voters of said city, either at a regular election or a special election called for the purpose by said city. And said election shall be held as nearly as possible in compliance with the law with reference to regular city elections in said city; but said governing body is hereby empowered by resolution to order said election and prescribe the time and manner of holding the same. Said body shall canvass and determine the results of such election and if a majority of the voters voting upon roads occupying streets or highways improved and their property, and to provide for the enforcement and collection of such assessments, and to provide for the submission hereof to a vote of the resident property taxpayers who are the qualified voters of such towns, cities, and villages, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That towns, cities, and villages incorporated under either general or special law, which shall accept the benefits of this act as herein provided, shall have power to improve any street, avenue, alley, highway, public place or square or any portion thereof within their limits, by filling, grading, raising, paving or repaving the same in a permanent manner or by the construction or reconstruction of sidewalks, curbs, and gutters, or by widening, narrowing, or straightening the same, and to construct necessary appurtenances thereto, including sewers and drains.

Sec. 2. That the term "city," whenever used herein shall include all incorporated towns, cities and villages; that the term "governing body" whenever used herein shall include the governing or legislative bodies of all incorporated towns, cities or villages, whether known as councils, commissions, boards of commissions, common councils, boards of aldermen or city councils, or whatever name such bodies may be known or designated under general or special laws; that whenever the term "highway" is used herein, it shall include any street, avenue, alley, highway or public place or square or portion thereof dedicated to public use.

Sec. 3. That the governing body of any city shall have power to order the improvement of any highway therein, or part thereof and to select the materials and methods for such improvement, and to contract for the construction of such improvements in the name of the city, and to provide for the payment of the cost of such improvements out of any available funds of the city or as herein provided.

The ordinance making such assessments shall provide for the collection thereof with costs and reasonable attorney's fees, if incurred.

The benefits of this act shall apply to any city and the terms thereof extend to the same when the governing body thereof shall submit the question of the adoption or rejection hereof to a vote of the resident property tax payers who are qualified voters of said city, either at a regular election or a special election called for the purpose by said city. And said election shall be held as nearly as possible in compliance with the law with reference to regular city elections in said city; but said governing body is hereby empowered by resolution to order said election and prescribe the time and manner of holding the same. Said body shall canvass and determine the results of such election and if a majority of the voters voting upon the question of the adoption of this act at such election shall vote to adopt the same, the result of the election shall by said governing body be entered upon their minutes, and thereupon all the terms hereof shall be applicable to and govern such city adopting the same. A certified copy of said minutes shall be prima facie evidence of the result of such election and the regularity thereof and the facts therein recited shall in all courts be accepted as true. Whenever this act has been adopted by any city the governing body thereof shall have full power to pass all ordinances or resolutions necessary or proper to give full force and effect thereto and to every part thereof. Whenever 100 qualified voters in any city shall in writing petition for an election to determine the adoption of this act, it shall be the duty of its governing body to order such election.

Sec. 12. This act shall not repeal any law, general or special, already in existence, pertaining to the making of such improvements, but the provisions of this act and of resolutions or ordinances passed pursuant thereto, shall be cumulative of and in addition to such existing laws; provided, that in any case in which a conflict may exist or arise between the provisions of this act and the provisions of any law granting a special charter to any city in this State, the provisions of such special charter shall control.

Sec. 13. The fact that many cities have no general funds out of which street improvements can be constructed and no charter powers under which the cost thereof can be collected from owners of abutting property benefited thereby or from public service corporations occupying the streets, and the fact that such improvements are urgently needed, and that the citizens of many cities are anxious to obtain the benefits of this act, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring the reading of bills on three several days in each house, and said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

The construction, acquiring, maintaining and operating lines of electric, gas or gasoline, denatured alcohol, or naphtha motor railways within and between any cities or towns in this State for the transportation of freight or passengers, and may also construct, own and operate union depots, but no electric, gas or gasoline, denatured alcohol or naphtha railways incorporated under this subdivision shall ever be exempt from the payment of assessments that may be legally levied or assessed against it for street improvements. Corporations created under this subdivision shall be and are authorized to exercise the right of eminent domain for the purpose of acquiring right of way upon which to construct their railway lines and sites for depots and power plants, upon the same conditions and in the same manner as railroad corporations are now required to do under the laws of this State, and shall have the same powers, rights and privileges as are now granted to interurban electric railway companies by Chapter 15, Acts of the Thirtieth Legislature and all the powers of whatsoever kind or character conferred by said act; provided, no property upon which is located a cemetery shall ever be condemned unless it shall affirmatively be shown and so found by the court trying in such condemnation suits that it is necessary to take such property, and no other route is possible or practicable; and provided, that the electric, gas or gasoline, denatured alcohol, or naphtha railways incorporated under provisions of this act which shall engage in transporting freight shall be subject to the control of the Railroad Commission."

Sec. 2. The crowded condition of the calendar and there being no law now authorizing the incorporation of gas or gasoline, denatured alcohol or naphtha railways, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and the said rule is therefore suspended, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Section —. Section 56 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called

Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

"Section 58. The directors of any bank or trust company organized under this act may appoint and remove any officer or other employe at pleasure. The officer or employe shall have no power to endorse, sell, pledge or hypothecate any note, bond or other obligation received by such corporation for money loaned until such power and authority shall have been given such officer or employe by the board of directors in a regular meeting of the board, a written record of which proceedings shall have first been made upon the minutes of the corporation; and all acts of endorsing, selling, pledging or hypothecating done by said cashier or other officer or employe of any such bank or trust company without the authority of the board of directors given as herein provided, shall be null and void."

Sec. —. Every officer of every State bank, upon whom the powers of a cashier or treasurer may be imposed by the board of directors, shall, before entering or being permitted to enter upon the exercise of such powers, or the duties of his office, give a good and sufficient bond in such sum and with such surety or sureties as the board of directors may approve, and in such form as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, conditioned to pay the bank such pecuniary loss as the bank may sustain of money or other valuable securities embezzled, wrongly abstracted or wilfully misapplied by said officer in the course of his employment as such and in the course of his employment in any other position in the bank to which he may be appointed, re-appointed, elected, re-elected or temporarily assigned. Such bond shall be approved by the board of directors in writing on the minutes of the corporation, and no member of the board of directors or officers of such State bank shall become surety thereon, and the same shall be deposited in some safe place, inaccessible to the maker thereof or the sureties thereupon, to be prescribed by the board of directors and shown upon the minutes of the corporation.

Sec. —. No State bank shall make any loan or discount on the security of the shares of its own capital stock, nor be the purchaser or holder of any such shares, unless such security or purchase shall be necessary to prevent a loss upon a debt previously contracted in good faith; and stock so purchased or acquired shall, within six months from the time of its purchase, be sold or disposed of at public or private sale, or, in default thereof, such State bank shall be considered to have its capital stock impaired to the extent of the par value of such shares.

Sec. —. It shall be unlawful for any such bank to hypothecate or pledge as collateral security for money borrowed upon bills payable or certificates of deposit, or otherwise, its securities to an amount more than 50 per cent greater than the amount borrowed thereon, or for any State bank to issue or execute any bills or other evidence of indebtedness secured or to be secured, by the pledge or hypothecation of any of its securities which shall not contain a provision that in the event such State bank shall, for any cause, have its property and business taken possession of by the Commissioner, at any time before such pledge or hypothecation shall have been actually foreclosed, a grace of thirty days after the date of such taking possession shall be allowed in which such bank or Commissioner shall be permitted to redeem such securities so hypothecated or pledged by the payment of the amount due as principal and interest on such indebtedness.

Sec. —. Section 50 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature is hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

"Section 50. No bank and no bank or trust company or any member of either, shall, during the time it shall continue in banking or banking and trust operations, withdraw or permit to be withdrawn, either in the form of dividends or otherwise any portion of its capital. If losses have at any time been sustained by any such association equal to or exceeding its undivided profits then on hand, no dividend shall be made; and no dividend shall ever be made by a bank or banking and trust company while it continues its banking and trust operations to an amount greater than its net profits then on hand, deducting therefrom its losses and bad debts. All debts due to any State bank on which interest is past due and unpaid for a period of six months, unless the same are well secured or in process of collection, shall be considered bad debts within the meaning of this section.

"The board of directors of any bank or trust company organized under this act may declare a semi-annual or quarterly dividend, if such dividend has been earned, provided the corporation be fully solvent, without such earnings proposed to be divided. But they shall not declare a dividend at any time when the capital of such corporation shall have become impaired to such an extent that it is not worth in good resources the full amount paid in after the payment of all liabilities, and pay any officer or director of such corporation who shall assent to declaring and paying dividends where the capital stock is so impaired, shall be personally liable to the creditors of the corporation to the amount of his proportion of the proposed dividend, if any loss occur by reason of the payment of such dividend."

Sec. —. The State Banking Board shall have the power from time to time to make such changes in the form of the statements required of each banking corporation as it may deem advisable, and to require any additional statements which it may deem necessary as to average daily deposits, capital stock, surplus, character of deposits and such other matters as it may deem necessary to the enforcement of this act.

Sec. —. Should the courts declare any section of this act unconstitutional or unauthorized by law or in conflict with any other section or provision of this act, then such decision shall affect only the section or provision so declared to be unconstitutional and shall not affect any other section or part of this act.

A BILL

To Be Entitled

An Act to amend Article 2439 of Chapter 1, Title 45 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas of 1895, in reference to fees of office to be charged and collected by certain State officers, as amended by Chapter 91 of the General Laws of the Regular Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature, as amended by Chapter 22 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Thirtieth Legislature, as amended by the First Called Session of the Thirty-first Legislature, relating to the fees charged by the Secretary of State for charters and permits, so as to fix and prescribe the fees of foreign loan companies and foreign corporations to engage in the manufacture, sale, rental, lease or operation of all kinds of cars or to engage in conducting, operating or managing any telegraph lines in this State, for a permit to do business in Texas, so as to regulate the fees paid by such companies; and providing that said act shall not interfere with any suit now pending in the name of the State against foreign corporations; and repealing all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Article 2439 of Chapter 1 of Title 45 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Texas of 1895, as amended by Chapter 91, Acts of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas, as amended by Chapter 22 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Thirtieth Legislature, and as amended by the First Called Session of the Thirty-first Legislature, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Article 2439. The Secretary of State, besides other fees that may be prescribed by law, is authorized and required to charge for the use of the State the following fees:

"For each and every charter, amendment or supplement thereto, of a private corporation, created for the purpose of operating or constructing a railroad, magnetic telegraph line or street railway or express company authorized or required to be recorded in said department, a fee of $200 to be paid when said charter is filed; provided, that if the authorized capital stock of said corporation shall exceed $100,000 it shall be required to pay an additional fee of 50 cents on each $1000 authorized capital stock or fractional part thereof, after the first; for each and every charter, amendment or supplement thereto of a private corporation intended for the support of public worship and benevolence, charitable, educational, missionary, literary or scientific undertaking, the maintenance of a library, for the promotion of painting, music or other fine arts, the encouragement of horticulture or agriculture, the maintenance of public parks, the maintenance of a public cemetery not for profit, a fee of $10 to be paid when the charter is filed. For each and every charter, amendment or supplement thereto of a private corporation created for any other purpose, intended for mutual profit or benefit, a fee of $50 shall be paid when said charter is filed; provided, that if the authorized capital stock of said corporation shall exceed $10,000, it shall be required to pay an additional fee of $10 for each additional $10,000 of its authorized capital stock, or fractional part thereof, after the first. For each commission to every office, elected or appointed in this State, a fee of $1.00; each and every State, district, county and precinct officer, elected or appointed in this State is required to apply for and receive his commission; provided, that the Secretary of State shall not be required to forward copies of laws to nor attest the authority of any officer in this State who fails or refuses to take out his commission as required herein. For each official certificate a fee of $1.00. For each warrant of requisition a fee of $2.00. For every remission of fine or forfeiture $1.00. For copies of any paper, document or record in his office, for each 100 words, 15 cents. For each and every charter, amendment or supplement thereto, taken out under Chapter 14, Title 21, Revised Statutes of 1895 (channel and dock corporation) a fee of $200 shall be paid to the Secretary of State for the use and benefit of the State, which shall be paid when the charter, amendment or supplement thereto is filed for record. For each foreign corporation obtaining permit to do business in this State shall pay fees, as follows: Fifty dollars ($50) for the first ten thousand dollars ($10,000) of its authorized capital stock, and ten dollars ($10) for each additional ten thousand dollars ($10,000) or fractional part thereof; provided, that the fee required to be paid by any foreign corporation for a permit to engage in the manufacture, sale, rental, lease or operation of all kinds of cars, or to engage in conducting, operating or managing any telegraph lines in this State, shall in no event exceed ten thousand dollars ($10,000); provided, however, that mutual building and loan companies, so called, whose stock is not permanent but withdrawable, shall pay a fee of fifty dollars ($50) for the first one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) or a fractional part thereof, of its authorized capital stock, and ten dollars ($10) for each additional one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), or a fractional part thereof; and where the company is a foreign one, then the fee shall be based upon the capital invested in the State of Texas; and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State to require satisfactory proof as to the amount of capital actually invested in this State before issuing any permit to any foreign building and loan company to do business in this State; provided, that the minimum fee for any foreign building and loan company shall be two hundred and fifty dollars ($250); provided, further, that the fee required to be paid by any foreign corporation other than a foreign mutual building and loan association for a permit to do business of loaning money in this State shall be fifty dollars ($50) on the first one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) of its authorized capital stock, and $25 on each additional $100,000 thereof; provided further, that nothing in this act shall in anywise affect any suit now pending in the name or in behalf of the State of Texas against any foreign corporation.

"All fees mentioned in this article shall be paid in advance into the office of the Secretary of State, and shall be by him paid into the State Treasury monthly; provided, as a condition precedent to the issuance by the Secretary of State of a permit to any foreign corporation authorizing it to do business in this State, the president, vice president, secretary or treasurer, or two of the directors of such corporation, shall make and subscribe an affidavit in writing stating that such corporation is not a trust or organization in restraint of trade in violation of the laws of this State, has not, within twelve months next preceding the making of such affidavit become or been a party to any trust agreement of any kind or character whatsoever, which would constitute a violation of any anti-trust law of the State existing at the date of such affidavit, and has not within that time entered into or been in anywise a party to any combination in restraint of trade within the United States of America, and that no officer of such corporation has, within the knowledge of affiant, within twelve months next preceding the date of such affidavit, made on behalf of such corporation or for its benefit any such contract or entered into or become a party to any such combination in restraint of trade. Such affidavit in writing shall be personally subscribed and sworn to by such affiant or affiants before some officer who is by law duly authorized to administer oaths and the jurat of such officer shall be attested by his official signature and seal of office, and such affidavit in writing so attested shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State before the issuance of any such permit."

Sec. 2. The fact that the present permit fee prescribed by law for the issuance of permits to foreign building and loan companies and foreign companies engaged in the manufacture, sale, rental, lease or operation of all kinds of cars, or engaged in conducting, operating or managing any telegraph lines in this State is excessive and burdensome and that the permits of such companies now doing business in this State expire in the immediate future, constitutes an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days in both houses be suspending, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Sir: We, your Committee on Agricultural Affairs, to whom was referred House Concurrent Resolution No. 4, as follows:

Whereas, It is generally believed by the agricultural masses of this country that speculating in farm products, and especially in wheat and cotton, the products that feed and clothe the people, is detrimental to the best interest of all the people; and

Whereas, It has become necessary for many of the States of the Union to pass laws restricting or prohibiting the dealing in futures for the protection of the products of the farm; and

Whereas, The frequent occurrence of fluctuations in the prices of agricultural products caused by gambling on the cotton exchanges and boards of trade by such men as Patton and his colleagues in the wheat market, and others equally as notorious in the cotton market, is known to be against the best interest of the producers and consumers of this country; therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives of the Thirty-first Legislature, the Senate concurring, That we request our Senators and Representatives in Congress to use all honorable means within their power to secure the passage of such laws by Congress as will be beneficial to legitimate trading, but will forever prohibit gambling in agricultural products or any deals where a bona fide transaction or delivery was never intended, and by which a few men rake off a few million dollars of the people's money,

Sir: Your Committee on Enrolled Bills have carefully examined and compared Senate bill No. 28, and find it correctly enrolled, and have this day, at 10:45 o'clock a. m., presented same to the Governor for his approval.

TERRELL of McLennan, Chairman.

Following is the bill in full:

An Act authorizing any life insurance company incorporated under the laws of this State, at its option, to deposit securities equal in value to the legal reserve on its outstanding policies and annuity bonds for the benefit of all the holders thereof, and providing for the regulation and maintenance of such deposit, and the terms and purposes for which same shall be held; providing for additional reserve on extra hazardous risks; making it unlawful to pay certain persons for procuring insurance, and fixing a penalty for the violation thereof, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Any life insurance company now incorporated, or which may hereafter be incorporated under the laws of this State, may deposit with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of the State of Texas, for the common benefit of all the holders of its policies and annuity bonds, securities of the kinds in which by the laws of this State it is permitted to invest or loan its funds, equal to the legal reserve on all its outstanding policies in force, which securities shall be held by said Commissioner in trust for the purpose and objects herein specified. Any such company may deposit lawful money of the United States in lieu of the securities above referred to, or any portion thereof, and may also, for the purpose of such deposit convey to said Commissioner in trust the real estate in which any portion of its said reserve may be lawfully invested, and in such case said Commissioner shall hold the title thereto in trust until other securities in lieu thereof shall be deposited with him, whereupon he shall reconvey the same to such company. Said Commissioner may cause any such securities or real estate to be appraised and valued prior to their being deposited with or conveyed to him in trust as aforesaid; the reasonable expense of such appraisal or valuation to be paid by the company.

Sec. 2. After making the deposit mentioned above, no company shall thereafter issue a policy of insurance or endowment or annuity bond, except policies of industrial insurance, unless it shall have upon its face a certificate substantially in the following words: "This policy is registered, and approved securities equal in value to the legal reserve hereon are held in trust by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of the State of Texas." Which certificate shall be signed by such Commissioner and sealed with the seal of his office.

All policies and bonds of each kind and class issued, and the forms thereof filed in the office of said Commissioner, shall have printed thereon some appropriate designating letter or figure, combination of letters or figures on terms identifying the particular form of contract, together with the year of adoption of such form, and whenever any change or modification is made in the form of contracts, policy or bond, the designating letters, figures, or terms and year of adoption thereon shall be correspondingly changed.

The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall prepare and keep such registers thereof as will enable him to complete their value at any time, upon written proof attested by the president or vice president and secretary of the company which shall have issued such policies or annuity bonds, that any of them have been committed or terminated, the Commissioner shall commute or cancel them upon his register, and until such proof is furnished all registered contracts shall be considered in force for the purposes of this act. The net value of every policy or annuity bond according to the standard prescribed by the laws of this State for the valuation of policies of life insurance companies, when the first premiums shall have been paid thereon, less the amount of such liens as the company may have against it (not exceeding such value), shall be entered opposite the record of said policy or annuity bond in the register aforesaid at the time such record is made. On the first day of January of each year, or within sixty days thereafter, the Commissioner shall cause the policies and annuity bonds of each company accepting the terms of this act to be carefully valued and the actual value thereof at the time fixed for such valuation, less such liens as the company may have against it, not exceeding such value, shall be entered upon the register opposite the record of such policy or bond, and the Commissioner shall furnish a certificate of the aggregate of such value to the company.

It shall be the duty of the Commissioner to cancel mutilated or surrendered policies and annuity bonds issued by any such company and register other like policies or bonds issued in lieu thereof.

Each company which shall have made the deposit herein provided for shall make additional deposits from time to time, in amounts not less than $5000, and of such securities as are permitted by this act to be deposited so that the market value of the securities deposited shall always be equal to the net value of the policies and annuity bonds issued by said company, less such liens as the company may have against them, not exceeding such net value. So long as any company shall maintain its deposits as herein prescribed at an amount equal to or in excess of the net value of its policies and annuity bonds as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of said Commissioner to sign and affix his seal to the certificates before mentioned on every policy and annuity bond presented to him for that purpose by any company so depositing.

The Commissioner shall keep a careful record of the securities deposited by each company, showing by item the amount and market value thereof. If at any time it shall appear therefrom that the value of the securities held on deposit is less than the actual value of the policies and annuity bonds issued by such company and then in force, it shall be unlawful for the Commissioner to execute the certificate on any additional policies or annuity bonds of such company until it shall have made good the deficit.

Any company depositing under the provisions of this act, may increase its deposits at any time by making additional deposits of not less than $5000 of such securities as are authorized by this act. Any such company whose deposits exceed the net value of all policies and annuity bonds it has in force, less such liens (not exceeding such net value) as the company may hold against them, may withdraw such excess, and it may withdraw any of such securities at any time by depositing others of equal value and of the character authorized by this act in their stead, and it may collect the interest, coupons, rents and other income on the securities deposited as the same accrue.

The securities deposited under this act by each company shall be placed and kept by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of the State in some secure, safe, deposit fireproof box or vault in the city or town in or near which the home office of the company is located, and the officers of the company shall have access to such securities for the purpose of detaching interest coupons and crediting payment and exchanging securities as above provided, under such reasonable rules and regulations as the Commissioner may establish.

Sec. 3. Every company making deposit under the provisions of this act shall pay to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking for each certificate placed on registered policies or annuity bonds issued by the company after the original or first deposit is made hereunder, a fee of 25 cents, and the fee so received shall be disposed of by said Commissioner as follows:

1. The payment of the annual rent or hire of the safety deposit fireproof box above provided.

2. Payment for the services of a competent and reliable representative of said Commissioner, to be appointed by him, who shall have direct charge of the securities and safety box containing same, and through whom and under whose supervision the insurance company may have access to its securities for the purposes above provided. The sum paid such representative shall not exceed $60 per annum for each company.

3. The balance of such fees shall be paid to or deposited with the State Treasurer to the credit of the general fund.

Sec. 4. Any life insurance company organized under the laws of this State and the making the deposit provided for by this act, may include as a part thereof securities representing its capital stock, and any deposits of its securities heretofore or hereafter made in compliance with the laws of this State representing its capital stock, and shall only be required to deposit in addition thereto the remainder of its total reserve on outstanding policies and annuity bonds after deducting therefrom the amount of its capital stock securities so deposited.

Sec. 5. Deposits of securities made hereunder to the value of the reserve on all outstanding policies and annuity bonds shall be added to and maintained from time to time as the reserve values increase, by the company issuing such contracts, or by any company which may reinsure or assume them, and such securities shall be held by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and his successors in office in trust for the benefit of such policies and annuity bonds so long as the same shall remain in force. No company making the deposit provided for herein shall reinsure its outstanding business, or the whole of any one or more of its risks, except in or with a company or companies incorporated and organized under the laws of this State, or a company having permission to do business in this State.

Sec. 6. If any life insurance company doing business under the laws of this State has written or assumed risks that are substandard or extra hazardous and has charged therefor more than its published rates of premium the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall, in valuing such policies compute and charge such extra reserves thereon as is warranted by reason of the extra hazard assumed and the extra premium charged.

Sec. 7. No life insurance company transacting business in this State shall pay or contract to pay, directly or indirectly, to its president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, actuary, medical director, or other physician charged with the duty of examining risks or applications for insurance, or to any officer of the company other than an agent or solicitor, any commission or other compensation contingent upon the writing or procuring of any policy of insurance in such company or procuring an application therefor, by any person whomsoever, or contingent upon the payment of any renewal premium, or upon the assumption of any life insurance risk by such company, and should any company violate the provisions of this section, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to revoke its certificate of authority to transact business in this State.

Sec. 8. The provisions of this act shall likewise apply to and govern "co-operative" life insurance companies organized under the laws of this State.

Sec. 9. The fact that there is now no law in this State authorizing life insurance companies to afford their policy holders the protection provided by this act, constitutes an emergency and an imperative public necessity demanding that the constitutional rule requiring all bills to be read on three several days in each house be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Sir: Your Committee on Enrolled Bills have carefully examined and compared Senate bill No. 18, and find it correctly enrolled, and have this day, at 2:30 o'clock p. m., presented same to the Governor for his approval.

TERRELL of McLennan, Chairman.

Following is the bill in full:

An Act concerning surety companies authorized to transact business in this State and their agents, and to permit such companies and such agents to form an association for the purpose of gathering statistics, exchanging experiences and ascertaining the fair and reasonable rates to be paid them for their suretyship, and to maintain such rates, and to prevent losses arising from dishonesty or dereliction of duty of public officers, trustees and others, and to prevent discriminations, favoritism or rebates, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Any two or more surety companies authorized to transact business in this State, or their agents therein, may form an association for the purpose of reducing losses, gathering statistics, exchanging experiences and ascertaining the fair and reasonable rates to be paid them for their suretyship; provided, that no such association shall be formed except upon condition that it shall, through its proper officers, immediately submit to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of this State a schedule of the rates so ascertained and proposed to be established and maintained by such companies; if such Commissioner shall, upon considering such schedule of rates, find that the same are not unreasonable or excessive and do not exceed the rates that are now or may hereafter be established by law for any class of suretyship, and that such rates do not exceed the rates charged by any such surety company anywhere outside of the State of Texas for the same class of risks or risks of substantially the same degree of hazard, he shall approve the same; if he shall disapprove such schedule of rates, or any portion thereof, it shall be his duty to fix a schedule of rates which will not be unreasonable or excessive or exceed the rates that are now or may hereafter be established by law for any class of suretyship, and that shall not exceed the rate charged by any such companies outside of the State of Texas for the same class of risks or risks substantially the same degree of hazard. All such rates so ascertained and made, when approved by the Commissioner, or when fixed by him as provided in this section, shall thereafter be maintained by all such companies and their agents; provided, that any such action of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall be subject to review by any court of competent jurisdiction at the suit of any party affected thereby. Any such association, complying with the provisions of this section, may also adopt means to prevent discrimination and rebates on the part of any company represented therein and to prevent losses arising from dishonesty or dereliction of duty of public officers, trustees, guardians, executors, administrators and other fiduciaries of whatsoever kind, and of others for whom surety companies may become sureties.

Sec. 2. No such surety company shall make or permit any discriminations or favoritism between those of the same class for whom it shall issue its obligations, nor shall it, nor any of its agents, pay or allow, directly or indirectly, as an inducement to suretyship, any rebate of the premium payable for such suretyship, or any special favor or advantage to accrue thereon.

Sec. 3. Any such surety company, or agent thereof, who shall violate any of the provisions of the preceding section shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100) for each and every violation thereof, to be recovered in an action in the name of the State. And upon conviction, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to revoke the certificate of authority of any such surety company or agent thereof so violating any of the provisions of this act.

Sec. 4. The fact that there is now no law authorizing the organization of the association provided for in this act, and the crowded condition of the calendar, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days, and said rule is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Sir: Your Committee on Enrolled

Bills have carefully examined and compared Senate bill No. 35, and find it correctly enrolled, and have this day, at 2:30 o'clock p. m., presented same to the Governor for his approval.

TERRELL of McLennan, Chairman.

Following is the bill in full:

An Act amending Section 8 of an act passed by the First Called Session of the Thirty-first Legislature of the State of Texas, entitled "An Act defining and regulating fraternal beneficiary associations, and repealing Chapter 115 of the General Laws of the Twenty-sixth Legislature of the State of Texas, as amended by Chapter 86 of the General Laws of the Twenty-seventh Legislature and by Chapter 113 of the General Laws of the Twenty-eighth Legislature, and by Chapter 106 of the General Laws of the Twenty-ninth Legislature," and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 8 of an act passed by the First Called Session of the Thirty-first Legislature of the State of Texas, entitled "An Act defining and regulating fraternal beneficiary associations and repealing Chapter 115 of the General Laws of the Twenty-sixth Legislature, as amended by Chapter 86 of the General Laws of the Twenty-seventh Legislature, and by Chapter 113 of the General Laws of the Twenty-eighth Legislature, and by Chapter 106 of the General Laws of the Twenty-ninth Legislature," be and the same is hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Section 8. Certificate.—Every certificate issued by any association shall specify the maximum amount of benefit provided thereby, and the conditions governing the payment thereof, and shall provide that the certificate, the charter, or article of association, the constitution and laws of the association and the application for membership and medical examination signed by the applicant shall constitute the contract between the association and the member and copies of the same, certified by the secretary of the association or corresponding officer, shall be received in evidence of the terms and conditions of the contract; and any changes, additions or amendments to said charter or articles of association, constitution or laws duly made or enacted subsequent to the issuance of the benefit certificate, shall bind the member and his beneficiary and shall govern and control the contract in all respects the same as though such changes, additions or amendments had been made prior to, and were in force at the time of the application for membership; provided, it shall never be necessary for any such association to accompany its contract, policy or certificate with the copy of the application of such policy, contract or certificate nor with a copy of the questions and answers thereto. All benefit certificates shall from the date of their issuance be non-contestable on account of any statement or representation made by said applicant for membership either in his application or otherwise, or his medical examination, unless such representation shall be material to the risk assumed, and the burden of proof shall be upon the defendant to affirmatively establish such defense."

Sec. 2. The fact that the fraternal beneficiary law referred to in Section 1 of this act, passed by the First Called Session of the Thirty-first Legislature was by mistake amended so as to render it unintelligible, creates an imperative public necessity demanding that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

An Act to amend Article 486, Chapter 5, Title 18 of the Revised Statutes of 1895, authorizing cities and towns to issue bonds and levy taxes in payment therefor; repealing all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Article 486, Chapter 5, Title 18 of the Revised Statutes of 1895, be so amended that the same shall hereafter read as follows:

"Article 486. The city or town council of any city or town in this State incorporated under the general law, shall have the power by ordinance to levy and collect an annual ad valorem tax sufficient to meet the interest and sinking fund on all indebtedness legally incurred prior to the adoption of the constitutional amendment in 1883, regarding the power of cities and towns to levy and collect taxes, etc., and may levy and collect 25 cents on the $100 valuation of all property in such city or town or current expenses, and may levy and collect an additional 25 cents on the $100 valuation for the purpose of construction or the purchase of public buildings, water works, sewers and other permanent improvements within the limits of such city or town, and shall also have power by ordinance to levy and collect a tax not exceeding 15 cents on the $100 valuation of property for the construction and improvement of the roads, bridges and streets of such city or town within its limits, and all cities and towns providing for such improvements shall have the power to issue coupon bonds of the city therefor in such sum or sums as they may deem expedient, to bear interest not exceeding 6 per cent per annum; provided, that the aggregate amount of bonds issued for the construction or the purchase of public buildings, water works, sewers and other permanent improvements shall never reach an amount where the tax of 25 cents on the $100 valuation of property will not pay current interest and provide a sinking fund sufficient to pay the principal at maturity; and provided, also, that the amount of bonds issued for street improvement purposes shall never reach an amount where the tax of 15 cents on the $100 valuation of property will not pay current interest and provide a sinking fund sufficient to redeem them at maturity, and the amount of bonds legally issued under acts passed prior to the adoption of the present Constitution shall not be computed and estimated in the amount of bonds which may be issued for the above named city improvements. Within the meaning of this article shall be included building sites and buildings for the public free schools and institutions of learning within their limits."

Sec. 2. That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. Whereas there is now no law authorizing cities and towns to issue bonds for street improvements, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

TERRELL of McLennan, Chairman.

Following is the bill in full:

An Act to provide for the regulation and supervision of banking corporations; providing for the securing of depositors of such corporations; providing for a depositors' guaranty fund, and fixing the terms by which banks and trust companies may avail their depositors of the benefits of said fund; providing for a bond for securing depositors, and providing that all banking corporations created under Chapter 10, Acts of First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature, shall avail their depositors of protection provided for by this act, either by the depositors' guaranty fund or by bond at their option; providing that all National banks transacting business in this State may, at their option, voluntarily avail their depositors of the protection afforded by this act; providing that banks incorporated by special act of the Legislature of the State of Texas may, voluntarily, on certain conditions protect their depositors under this act; providing that private banks may, voluntarily, avail their depositors of the protection by bond provided by this act; amending Sections 39, 50, 56 and 44, Chapter 10, of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas; prescribing additional regulations and safeguards for the protection of depositors, and for savings departments; prescribing the powers and duties of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking; creating a State Banking Board and prescribing its powers and duties; providing for penalties for the violation of this act, and declaring an emergency.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Each and every corporation which may hereafter be incorporated under the laws of this State with banking and discount privileges, and each banking and trust company in this State heretofore incorporated, or that may hereafter be incorporated under the provisions of Chapter 10 of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas, and known as the State Banking Law, shall, at its option, protect its depositors in the manner hereinafter prescribed, either by availing itself of the depositors' guaranty fund hereinafter provided for, or by the depositors' bond security system hereinafter set forth.

Sec. 2. A State Banking Board is hereby created, which board shall be composed of the Attorney General, Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and Treasurer of this State. Said board shall have the control and management of the depositors' guaranty fund hereinafter provided for, and shall have the power to adopt all necessary rules and regulations in harmony with this act for the management of said fund, said board shall have the general supervision and control of the depositors' bond security system herein provided for, and shall have the power of the regulation, control and supervision of all State banking corporations and trust companies as hereinafter provided in this act.

Sec. 3. Each and every bank and trust company mentioned in Section 1 of this act shall have the right and privilege, at its option, to secure its depositors by the manner, methods and under the terms, provisions and regulations as set forth in this act for the depositors' guaranty fund or the bond security system; provided, that all such banks and trust companies shall secure their depositors by one of said plans on January 1, 1910; provided further that such option shall be exercised on or before October 1, 1909, and provided that such option shall be exercised by the holders of the majority of the stock, and the president or cashier of such bank shall notify the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking by registered mail of such action.

Sec. 4. Any such bank or trust company which shall elect to secure its deposits under the depositors' guaranty fund provided for by this act, shall pay to said banking board, providing its application is approved by said board as hereinafter prescribed in Section 7 of this act, on January 1, 1910, 1 per cent of its daily average deposits for the preceding year ending November 1, 1909, not including United States, State or other public funds, if otherwise secured, for the purpose of creating a depositors' guaranty fund.

Annually after the first payment to said fund, each bank and trust company subject to the provisions of the guaranty fund plan of this act shall pay to said board one-fourth of 1 per cent of its daily average deposits for the year ending November 1 of the preceding year as above defined, which amount shall be added to said guaranty fund; provided that when the amount available in said guaranty fund shall reach the sum of two million dollars the Bank Commissioner shall notify all banks and trust companies subject to this act, at least thirty days before the next annual payment, and thereafter the banks and trust companies participating shall not pay any further amount into said fund until said fund be depleted, in the event of the depletion of said fund from any cause so that it falls below two million dollars or below the amount of the guaranty fund on January 1 preceding, or in the event of necessity to meet an emergency at any time, said board shall have authority to require the payment for the current year of two per cent of such average deposits, or such part thereof as may be necessary to restore said fund to the maximum above named or to its amount as of January 1 preceding, or to meet the emergency, but no bank or trust company coming under the provisions of this act shall ever be required to pay more than two per cent of said average daily deposits for any one year; providing further that first payments herein provided for shall be made to said board without reference to said maximum sum.

Sec. 5. The fund provided for herein shall be paid to the State Banking Board as follows:

Twenty-five per cent of each payment required of each such bank or banking and trust company shall be paid to said board in cash and shall be by it deposited for safe keeping only with the State Treasurer as bailee for the State Banking Board, and shall be paid out by the State Treasurer on warrants drawn by the order of said board, and said fund shall never be diverted from the purpose specified in this act, nor shall it ever be considered State funds. The remaining seventy-five per cent of each payment required shall be paid by each such bank or banking and trust company crediting the State Banking Board with such amount as a demand deposit subject to check upon the order of said board. It shall be the duty of said board to keep at all times twenty-five per cent of the amount of said fund deposited with the State Treasurer in cash as provided herein.

Sec. 6. State bank and trust companies organized less than one year prior to the taking effect of this law or hereafter organized on approval of their applications as provided for in Section 7 of this act shall pay into said guaranty fund three per cent of the amount of their capital stock and surplus, which amount shall constitute a credit fund, subject to adjustment on the basis of their deposits as provided for other banks now existing, at the end of one year; provided, however, that said payment shall not be required of banks and trust companies formed by the reorganization or consolidation of banks that have previously complied with the terms of this act.

Sec. 7. The State Banking Board shall admit to the benefits and protection of this act only such banks and trust companies as in their opinion are solvent and properly officered and conducted, and shall prescribe the form of application and statement which shall be made by each and every bank and trust company and which shall be sworn to by two of the chief officers of the bank, blank copies of which application and statement shall be mailed to each State bank and trust company in this State at least ten days before this act requires the initial payment, and which shall be filled out, signed and sworn to and returned promptly to said board, and such copies shall be mailed to any other bank within this State on request. Should said board decline the application of any bank or trust company, it shall state the grounds of such declination to such institution and whether the objection can be removed, and the condition thereof.

Sec. 8. Any National bank in this State may voluntarily avail its depositors of the protection of the depositors' guaranty fund, upon the same terms, payments, conditions and in the same manner as herein provided for State banks; provided, that in the event National banks should be required by Federal enactment to pay assessments to any bank guaranty fund of the Federal government and thereby the deposits in National banks in this State should be guaranteed by virtue of Federal laws, that the National banks having availed themselves of the benefits of this act may withdraw therefrom and have returned to them the unused portion of all assessments levied upon and paid by said banks.

Sec. 9. Whenever any State bank or trust company shall become insolvent and shall voluntarily, or by law, or in any manner as provided in Chapter 10, Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature, come into the hands of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, he may proceed to wind up its affairs, either through a receiver or through some competent person, who shall give bond as may be required by the board, payable to the board for the faithful performance of all duties imposed upon him. Said bond may be recovered upon for the benefit of said guaranty fund, or any party at interest. On taking possession of the property and business of any such State bank, the Commissioner shall forthwith give notice of such fact to any and all banks, trust companies, associations and individuals holding or in possession of any assets of any such State bank.

No bank, trust company, association or individual knowing of such taking possession by the Commissioner, or notified as aforesaid, shall have a lien or charge for any payment, advance of clearance thereafter made, or liability thereafter incurred against any of the assets of the State bank of whose property and business the Commissioner shall have taken possession as aforesaid. Such State bank may, with the consent of the State Banking Board, resume business upon such condition as may be approved by it, which permission shall be evidenced by a written statement to that effect from the Commissioner. Upon taking possession of the property and business of such State bank, the Commissioner is authorized to collect moneys due to such corporation, and do such other acts as are necessary to conserve its assets and business, and shall proceed to liquidate the affairs thereof as herein provided. The Commissioner shall collect all debts due and claims belonging to such State bank, and upon the order of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the county in which it was located and transacting business, may sell or compound all bad or doubtful debts, and on like order may sell the real or personal property of such State bank on such terms as the court shall direct; and may, if necessary to pay the debts of such State bank, enforce the individual liability of the stockholders. The Commissioner may, under his hand and official seal, appoint one or more special agents to assist him in the duty of liquidation and distribution, the certificate of appointment to be filed in the office of the Commissioner and a certified copy in the office of the clerk of the county court in which such State bank was located and transacted business. The Commissioner may, from time to time, authorize a special agent to perform such duties connected with such liquidation and distribution as the said commissioner may deem proper. The Commissioner may employ such counsel and procure such expert assistance as may be necessary in the liquidation and distribution of the assets of such State bank and may retain such of the officers or employees of such State bank as he may deem necessary. The Commissioner shall require from a special agent and from such assistants such security for the faithful discharge of their duties as he may deem proper. The Commissioner shall cause notice to be given by advertisement in such newspapers as he may direct, weekly, for three consecutive months, calling on all persons who may have claims against such State bank to present the same to the Commissioner and make legal proof thereof at a place and within a time not earlier than the last day of publication to be therein specified, which notice shall contain a statement, in larger type than that in which the body of such notice is printed, specifically stating that all such claims of guaranteed depositors must be presented and legal proof thereof made at the place designated within forty-five days after the date which the property and business of such State bank was taken possession of by the Commissioner, and that all claims of guaranteed depositors presented after expiration of forty-five days shall not be entitled to payment of any portion thereof out of the depositors' guaranty fund. The Commissioner shall mail a similar notice to all persons whose names appear as creditors upon the books of the State bank. If the Commissioner doubts the justice and validity of any claim he may reject the same and serve notice of such rejection upon the claimants, either by mail or by written notice personally served. An affidavit of the service of such notice, which shall be prima facie evidence thereof, shall be filed with the Commissioner. The action upon the claim so rejected must be brought within six months after such service. Claims presented after the expiration of the time fixed in the notice to the creditors shall be entitled to share in the distribution only to the extent of the assets in the hands of the Commissioner equitably applicable thereto. Upon taking possession of the property and assets of such State bank, the Commissioner shall make an inventory of the assets of such State bank in duplicate, one to be filed in the office of the Commissioner and one in the office of the clerk of the county court in which such State bank was located and transacting business, upon the expiration of the time fixed for the presentation of claims, the Commissioner shall make a full and complete list of the claims presented, including and specifying such claims as have been rejected by him, and showing fully all claims and amounts paid to guaranteed depositors out of the depositors' guaranty fund, and the amount to which said fund is entitled by reason of its subrogation to the rights of such guaranteed depositors so paid, and all amounts held by him on account of claims of guaranteed depositors, which have been rejected or are in dispute, one to be filed in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county in which such State bank was located and transacted business. Such inventory and list of claims shall be open at all reasonable times to inspection. All compensation of special agents, counsel and other employes and assistants, and all expenses of supervision and liquidation shall be fixed by the Commissioner, subject to the approval of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such State bank was located and transacting business, on notice to such State bank; provided, that the compensation of such special agents shall always be the same as is provided by law for State bank examiners, and shall, upon the certificate of the Commissioner, be paid out of the fund of such State banks in the hands of the Commissioner. The moneys collected by the Commissioner shall be from time to time deposited in one or more State banks, and, in case of the suspension or insolvency of the depository, such deposits shall be preferred before all other deposits. At any time after the expiration of the date fixed for the presentation of claims, the Commissioner may, out of the funds remaining in his hands after the payment of expenses, declare one or more dividends, and after the expiration of one year from the first publication of notice to creditors, he may declare a final dividend, such dividends to be paid to such person and in such manner and upon such notice as may be directed by the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such State bank was located and transacted business. In the declaration and payment of all such dividends the depositors' guaranty fund shall be entitled to receive as its dividend such portions of the amounts due and payable to guaranteed depositors as shall have been paid to them out of the depositors' guaranty fund, together with 6 per cent interest thereon from the date or dates upon which checks were drawn upon all State banks, as hereinafter provided, for the payment of the guaranteed deposits of such State banks, and the Commissioner shall forthwith distribute such dividends to State banks upon which checks were drawn for such payment of guaranteed deposits in proportion to the amounts of such checks, respectively. Objections to any claim not rejected by the Commissioner may be made by any party interested by filing a copy of such objections with the Commissioner, who shall present the same to the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, at the time of the next application to declare a dividend. The court may make proper provision for unproved or unclaimed deposits. Whenever any such State bank, of whose property and business the Commissioner has taken possession as aforesaid, deems itself aggrieved thereby, it may, at any time, apply to the district court, if in session, or to the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such bank is located and transacting business to enjoin further proceedings, and said court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, after citing the Commissioner to show cause why further proceedings should not be enjoined, and hearing the allegations and proofs of the parties and determining the facts, may, upon the merits dismiss such application or enjoin the Commissioner from further proceedings and direct him to surrender such business and property to such State bank. Whenever the Commissioner shall have paid to each and every depositor and creditor of such State bank (not including stockholders), except for the amount of their deposits over and above their liability under the law as stockholders, whose claim or claims as such creditor or depositor shall have been duly proven and allowed, the full amount of such claims, and shall have repaid to the depositors' guaranty fund all amounts paid out of it to guaranteed depositors of such State bank, together with 6 per cent interest thereon from the date when the checks to provide for such payment were drawn and shall have made proper provision for unclaimed and unpaid deposits or dividends, and shall have paid all the expenses of the liquidation, the Commissioner shall call a meeting of the stockholders of such State bank by giving notice thereof for thirty days in one or more newspapers in the county where such State bank was located and transacted business. At such meeting the stockholders shall determine whether the Commissioner shall be continued as liquidator, and shall wind up the affairs of such State bank, or whether an agent or agents shall be elected for that purpose, and in so determining the said stockholders shall vote by ballot, in person or by proxy, each share of stock entitling the holder to one vote, and a majority of the stock shall be necessary to a determination. In case it is determined to continue the liquidation under the Commissioner, he shall complete the liquidation of such corporation, and after paying the expenses thereof shall distribute the proceeds among the stockholders in proportion to the several holdings of stock in such manner and upon such notice as may be directed by the district court. In case it is determined to appoint an agent or agents to liquidate, the stockholders shall thereupon select such agent or agents by ballot, a majority of the stock present and voting, in person or by proxy, being necessary for a choice. Such agent or agents shall execute and file with the Commissioner a bond, in such amount, with such sureties and in such form as shall be approved by the Commissioner, conditioned for the faithful performance of all the duties of his or their trust, and thereupon the Commissioner shall transfer and deliver to such agent or agents all the undivided and unclaimed or other assets of such State bank then remaining in his hands; and upon such transfer and delivery the said Commissioner shall be discharged from any further liability to such State bank and its creditors and stockholders. Such agent or agents shall convert the assets coming into his or their possession into cash, and shall account for and make distribution of the property of said State bank, as herein provided in the case of distribution by the Commissioner, except that the expenses thereof shall be subject to the direction and control of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, of the district in which such State bank was located and transacted business. In case of the death, removal or refusal to act of such agent or agents, the stockholders, on the same notice, to be given by the Commissioner, upon proof of such death, removal or refusal to act being filed with him, and by the same vote hereinbefore provided, may select a successor and shall have the same power and be subject to the same liabilities and duties as the agent originally elected. Dividends and unclaimed deposits remaining unpaid in the hands of the Commissioner for six months after the order for final distribution shall be by him deposited in some State bank to be designated by the State Banking Board to the credit of the Commissioner in his name of office, in trust for the several depositors with and creditors of the liquidated State bank from which they were received, who are entitled thereto. The Commissioner shall show in his official report the names of the State banks so taken possession of and liquidated, and the amounts of unclaimed and unpaid deposits or dividends, with respect to each of them, respectively. The Commissioner shall pay over the moneys so held by him to the persons respectively entitled thereto upon the order of the State Banking Board, who shall direct such payment to such persons upon being furnished satisfactory evidence of their right to the same. In case of doubt or conflicting claims, the State Banking Board may require an order of the district court, if in session, or the judge thereof, if in vacation, authorizing and directing the payment thereof. The State Banking Board may apply the interest earned by the moneys held by the Commissioner, or may authorize him to apply the same toward defraying the expenses incurred in payment and distribution of such unclaimed deposits or dividends to the depositors and creditors entitled to receive the same, and the Commissioner shall include in his official report a statement of the amount of interest earned by such unclaimed dividends. Any State bank may, at any time, place its affairs and assets under the control of the Commissioner by posting a notice on its front door, as follows: "This institution is in the hands of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of the State of Texas." The posting of this notice or of the same notice by the Commissioner or any State bank examiner at any time when he shall have taken possession of the property and business of a State bank, shall be sufficient to place all its assets and property of whatever nature in the possession of the Commissioner and shall operate as a bar to any attachment proceedings whatever.

Sec. 10. In the event the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall take possession of any bank or trust company, subject to the depositors' guaranty fund plan of this act, as herein provided, the depositors of said bank or trust company, as specified in Section 4 of this act, shall be paid in full out of the cash in said bank or trust company that can be made immediately available from such bank, and the remainder shall be paid out of the depositors' guaranty fund through the said board in the event the cash available in said institution shall be insufficient; provided, that deposits upon which interest is being paid or contracted to be paid directly or indirectly by said bank, its officers or stockholders, to the depositor and deposits otherwise secured shall not be insured under this act, but shall only receive the pro rata amount which may be realized from the assets, resources and collections of and from such banks and trust companies, its stockholders or directors.

Sec. 11. The State shall have, for the benefit of the depositors' guaranty fund, a first lien upon all assets of such bank or trust company, and all liabilities owing or accruing to such bank or trust company, in the event of the closing, as provided by law, of any such State bank or trust company operating under the depositors' guaranty fund plan, which lien shall attach and be in force from the time such bank or trust company is legally closed, upon all the property and assets then in possession of such bank or trust company; provided, however, that any deposits on which said bank was paying interest and any other deposits or debts not insured under this act and which are entitled to share in the assets, shall share in the dividends and proceeds of such assets and collections pro rata or as may be provided by law.

Sec. 12. In the event the depositors' guaranty fund, or any part thereof, shall be used by said banking board to pay off the depositors of a National bank which has accepted the provisions of this law, then said banking board shall receive from the receiver or other officer in charge of said bank the pro rata share of the proceeds of the assets and collections which would be due to said depositors to the amount so paid by the banking board.

Sec. 13. Any State bank or banking and trust company, incorporated under the laws of this State, desiring to maintain a savings department or to use or continue to use the word "savings" as a part of its corporate name, or in or as part of any sign or advertisement, or in or upon any stationery used or to be used by it, shall establish and maintain a savings department in compliance with the provisions of this section. Such savings department may be established by the board of directors adopting a resolution providing therefor, at a regular meeting, which shall contain a copy of this section, and a certified copy of which shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and also recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such bank or banking and trust company is located; such copies to be filed by the bank or banking and trust companies maintaining such savings departments and using the word "savings" as above provided at the time this act shall take effect, and which desire to continue to do so, within ninety days from the time this act shall take effect, and to be filed by banks desiring to establish such savings departments after this act shall take effect prior to the establishment of such department. All banks or banking and trust companies establishing or maintaining a savings department or using the word "savings" as above provided after this act shall take effect, or which having such departments or using the word "savings" at the time this act shall take effect, shall continue to maintain such departments or to so use the word "savings" more than ninety days thereafter shall keep the business of such department entirely separate and distinct from the general business of such bank or banking and trust company, and shall keep all moneys received as such savings deposits and the funds and securities in which the same may be invested, at all times segregated from and unmingled with the other moneys and funds of the bank or banking and trust company, and may invest not more than eighty-five per cent of the total amount of such savings deposits in any of the following classes of securities, and not otherwise, to wit:

1. In bonds or interest bearing notes or obligations of the United States or of those for which the faith of the United States is pledged for the payment of principal and interest.

2. In bonds of any city, county, town or school district or other subdivision of this State, now organized or which may hereafter be organized, and which is now or may hereafter be authorized to issue bonds under the constitution and laws of this State, which has not defaulted in the payment of any part of either principal or interest thereof, within five years previous to making such investments.

It shall be the duty of the directors of such bank or banking and trust company, as soon as practicable, to invest the moneys and funds of such savings department, by purchase or otherwise, in the securities above described, and from time to time to sell and reinvest the proceeds of such investments, but for the purpose of meeting current demands in excess of the receipt, any of the securities may be sold, or taken up and replaced in cash by the bank or banking and trust company out of its general fund, and there shall be kept on hand at all times not less than fifteen per cent of the whole amount of such deposits in actual cash, in such savings department.

It shall be lawful to require sixty days' written notice of the withdrawal of any savings deposits as provided for in this section, at the option of the bank or banking and trust company. In case of the insolvency or liquidation of any State bank or banking and trust company which shall establish or maintain a savings department under the terms of this section, its savings depositors shall have an exclusive prior lien upon all the assets, including cash, of such savings department, and which shall be first paid, and the remainder, after they have been paid in full, shall be applied to the payment of claims of general creditors. It shall be the duty of the president of each State bank or banking and trust company maintaining a savings department under the provisions of this section, to file with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking not less than ten days after the first calendar month a statement of the assets and liabilities of such savings department, upon a form to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and it shall be unlawful for any officer of any State bank or banking and trust company to receive or assent to the receiving of any savings deposits, when the last preceding monthly statement, as herein provided for is not conspicuously posted in the office from wherein its business is transacted.

At the end of any period for which such bank or banking and trust company may lawfully declare a dividend upon its stock, it shall be proper to transfer to the general fund of such bank or banking and trust company all accumulated earnings of the said savings department after the payment or credit of all interest due on the accrued savings deposits, and the legitimate expense of such department have been provided for. All such savings departments shall be governed by the terms and provisions of this act so far as the same are applicable and are not in conflict with the special provisions of this section and shall also be governed by such provisions of laws of the State applicable to savings banks as are not in conflict with any of the provisions of this act or of this section, and such reasonable rules and regulations for the control of such savings department may be adopted and put in force by the board of directors at any regular meeting of the stockholders at any annual meeting; provided, that such rules and regulations shall not become effective until they have been submitted to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and by him approved.

It shall be unlawful for any director or officer of any bank or banking and trust company which shall establish or maintain or continue to maintain a savings department or which shall use the word "savings" as provided in this section to knowingly misappropriate any moneys or funds belonging to such savings department or to use or consent to the use of any such moneys or funds otherwise than for the payment of lawful demands of savings depositors, and in the making of such investments as are prescribed in this section, and in the payment of such dividends to the shareholders as are allowed by the law to be paid therefrom, or to borrow any of the funds belonging to such savings department, or to in any way be an obligor for moneys loaned by or borrowed of such savings department, or to receive or accept, directly or indirectly, any commission, brokerage or other valuable thing or favor of any kind by reason or on account of any loan or investment made out of the funds of such savings department, or to sell to such savings department any security or other investment, or wilfully and knowingly do or perform any act or transaction by or as a result of which at any time the assets of such savings department, including cash, shall not at least equal in amount the deposits in such savings department, at least fifteen per cent of which shall be actual cash in such savings department.

Any officer or director of any State bank or banking and trust company who shall knowingly violate the provisions of this section, shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall, upon conviction, be punished by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than one nor more than five years.

In computing the aggregate amount of average annual deposits of any bank or banking and trust company for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not it shall be required to increase its capital stock as provided in this act, or for the purpose of determining the amount required to be paid into the depositors' guaranty fund as provided in this act, the deposits of its savings department as provided in this section shall not be included.

Sec. 14. In the event of the voluntary liquidation of any bank or trust company operating under the provisions of the depositors' guaranty fund, when it shall be made to appear to the State Banking Board that all depositors have been paid in full, said board shall return to such bank or trust company the pro rata part paid by it into such fund then unused.

Such instrument and the security thereby provided shall be approved by the county judge of the county in which such business is domiciled, and shall take effect and be in force from and after the time it is approved and filed in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking. Every such corporation shall comply with the provisions of this act, as herein provided, and every such corporation that may hereafter be incorporated shall comply with the provisions of this act as to the depositors' guaranty fund plan or the bond security system on filing its charter, before it shall be permitted to receive deposits. Every such bond or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity filed as provided for in this act, shall secure depositors at the time said bond is filed and approved and all deposits made during the period of twelve months thereafter.

In case the bond hereinabove provided for shall be executed by personal obligation or security, then in no event shall such bond be deemed adequate and sufficient unless and until it shall have been executed by at least three different persons or individuals of financial responsibility and solvency satisfactory to the authorities herein authorized by this act to approve such bond. Any such corporation shall, in such event, file a bond or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity in like amount as it would be required to file if incorporated under the laws of Texas.

Any such person or firm transacting the business of a private bank shall in such event file a bond or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity in an amount to be fixed by the Commissioner of Insurance, which amount shall in no case be less than one-half the amount of the average of the daily deposits with such persons or firm for the preceding period of twelve months; provided, that no person or firm shall be permitted to take the benefit of this section unless such person or firm shall have been engaged in such business in the State of Texas for the period of at least twelve months; provided, that any such person, firm or corporation shall submit to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking such reports and statements concerning its deposits, and concerning the solvency of such bond or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity as he may require in order to enable him to determine the sufficiency of such bond, or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity, and shall pay all such reasonable expenses as may be incurred by him in the making of an examination thereof; provided, further, that such bond, policy of insurance or other guaranty shall be approved by the county judge and filed with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking as provided for in Section 15 hereof. Whenever any maker or signer of any bond or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity other than the principal therein, shall be required under the provisions of this act to pay over for the benefit of the depositors with any person or corporation, any sum or sums of money, such maker or signer making or participating in such payment, shall thereby become subrogated to the rights of the depositor to the extent of the payment or payments so made, and entitled to assert such right in accordance with the laws of the State, secondary and subject to the rights of all depositors secured by such bond, or policy of insurance, or other guaranty of indemnity.

Sec. 19. The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, when in his judg-

If at any time it shall appear to the State Banking Board that any bond, or policy of insurance or other guaranty of indemnity filed as provided for herein by any corporation organized under the laws of Texas is insufficient, they shall have the authority, and it shall be their duty, to require such corporation to file new or additional security in an amount sufficient to protect its depositors in accordance with the provisions of this act. In the event such corporation shall refuse or fail to comply with such requirements they shall communicate the facts to the Attorney General, who shall thereupon institute such proceedings and take such steps as the nature of the case may require. The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and the Attorney General shall, in such event, have and exercise, for the protection of depositors, all the authority conferred upon them by Section 40 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws, enacted at the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature, and all authority conferred by the provisions of this act.

Section 25. All State banks transacting business in this State shall be required on or after the first day of January, 1910, to hold a certificate of authority to transact a banking business issued by the Commissioner, in compliance with the provisions of this act, and to keep the same conspicuously posted at all times in the banking house where such business is transacted.

It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to issue to each State bank which the State Banking Board shall have approved and certified to him as provided in this act as being entitled to transact a banking business, a certificate of authority in such form as the State Banking Board shall approve to be signed by him under his official seal, certifying that such State bank is authorized under the laws of this State to engage in the banking business. Such certificate of authority when issued to guaranty fund banks shall contain the following statement on the face thereof in bold type: "The non-interest-bearing and unsecured deposits of this bank are protected by the State bank guaranty fund." And when issued to bond security banks shall contain the following statement on the face thereof in bold type: "All deposits of this bank are protected by security bond under the laws of the State of Texas." And when issued to the State banks other than guaranty fund banks and bond security banks, it shall contain neither of these, nor any similar statement. The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall close all State banks which the State Banking Board shall disapprove and determine not entitled under the laws of this State to transact a banking business, and shall proceed in such cases in the manner provided by law with respect to insolvent banks, unless such banks shall go into voluntary liquidation; provided, that hereafter the Secretary of State shall on issuance of any charter to any bank or banking and trust company, deliver the same to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, who shall deliver such charter to such corporation, together with the certificate herein provided for upon such corporation showing to the satisfaction of the State Banking Board that it has complied with the State banking laws.

Any person or persons who shall in any capacity transact or hold themselves out as transacting the business of banking for or on behalf of any State bank or State banking and trust company after the first day of January, 1910, without such bank or banking and trust company shall hold a certificate of authority as herein provided for, except in cases where such certificates shall not yet have been issued to newly incorporated banks as herein provided for, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished for each offense, each day being considered as a separate offense, by a fine of not less than $100 and not exceeding $1000, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 26. Section 39 of Chapter 10 of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-Ninth Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Sec. 39. It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, at least once in each quarter of each calendar year to cause each banking corporation heretofore or hereafter incorporated under the general laws of the State of Texas, subject by law to examination to be thoroughly and fully examined, and any such corporations may be examined whenever such Commissioner may deem it necessary or expedient. Such Commissioner and all State bank examiners shall have the power to administer oaths to any person whose testimony may be desired for the purpose of any such examinations. The expense of every general and special examination shall be paid by the corporation examined in such amount as the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall certify to be just and reasonable. Provided, such expenses shall be paid in proportion to the amount of capital stock of the various corporations as follows: Those with a capital stock of $10,000, shall not pay more than $12.50; those with a capital stock of more than $10,000 and not exceeding $25,000 shall not pay more than $15.00; those with a capital stock of more than $25,000 and not exceeding $50,000 shall not pay more than $20.00; those with a capital stock of more than $50,000 and not exceeding $100,000 shall not pay more than $30.00; those with a capital stock of more than $100,000 and not exceeding $250,000 shall not pay more than $37.50; those with a capital stock of more than $250,000 and not exceeding $500,000 shall not pay more than $75.00; those with a capital stock of more than $500,000 and not exceeding $1,000,000 shall not pay more than $125.00; those with a capital stock of more than $1,000,000 and not exceeding $2,000,000 shall not pay more than $150.00; those with a capital stock of more than $2,000,000 and not exceeding $4,000,000 shall not pay more than $200.00; and those with a capital stock exceeding $4,000,000 shall not pay more than $300.00.

The permanent surplus of any such corporation shall be reckoned in ascertaining the fees for examination as a part of its capital stock. All sums collected as examination fees shall be paid by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking directly into the State Treasury to the credit of the general revenue fund. Payments for salaries and expenses of examinations and for expenses of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking in enforcing this act, shall be made upon the certificate of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking by warrant of the Comptroller upon the State Treasurer.

Sec. 27. If from the sworn statement of the average daily deposits of any bank for the year ending on the first day of November, 1909, or of any subsequent year, filed with the Commissioner as provided in this act, it shall appear that such average daily deposits for such year amounted to more than five times the capital stock and surplus of such bank on November 1 of such year, if the capital stock of such bank is not more than $10,000 or more than six times such capital stock and surplus if the capital stock is more than $10,000 and less than $20,000; or seven times such capital and surplus, if the capital stock is $20,000 or more, and less than $40,000; or eight times such capital stock and surplus, if the capital stock is $40,000 or more, and less than $75,000; or nine times such capital stock and surplus, if the capital stock is $75,000 or more, and less than $100,000; or ten times such capital stock and surplus, if such capital stock is $100,000 or more, then in any such case it shall be the duty of the State Banking Board to require that such State bank shall within sixty days thereafter increase its capital by 25 per cent thereof, and it shall be the duty of the Commissioner to immediately furnish such State bank with a certified copy of the order making such requirement, and upon the receipt of such requisition the directors of such State bank shall, within the time required, cause such increase to be made in its capital stock, and if the same is not done within such time, it shall be unlawful for such bank to thereafter receive any deposits at any time when its total demand and time deposits shall in the aggregate amount to more than the limitation herein placed upon deposits; provided, that any State bank which purchases the assets of any other bank shall before the purchase of the assets of such other bank, increase its capital to such an amount that the same will have the ratio to the total deposits of the bank the assets of which it has purchased, as defined and required in this section.

Sec. 28. After this act shall take effect it shall be unlawful for any State bank or trust company to own more than ten per cent of the capital stock of any other banking corporation, or to make a loan, secured by the stock of any other banking corporation if by the making of such loan the total stock of such other banking corporation held by it as collateral will exceed in the aggregate ten per cent of the capital stock of such other banking corporation unless the ownership or the taking of a greater percentage of such capital stock as collateral shall be necessary to prevent loss upon a debt previously contracted in good faith, and any such excess so taken as collateral or owned by such State bank shall not be held as collateral nor owned by it for a longer period than six months.

Sec. 29. All State banks and trust companies shall be permitted to loan upon or discount commercial or business paper secured by lien upon cotton and cotton seed products to the same extent and upon the same conditions as is now or may be provided for National banks under the laws of the United States.

Sec. 30. Any bank or trust company created by virtue of a special act of the Legislature of the State of Texas now or hereafter engaged in the general banking business in Texas and which at the time has only one place of business and which has heretofore accepted or may hereafter accept one or more of the provisions of the Acts of the Twenty-ninth Legislature known as the State banking law, thereby submitting itself to the jurisdiction of the State Banking Department, may with the approval of the State Banking Board avail itself of the provisions of this act, either as a bond security bank, or as a guaranty fund bank by vote as prescribed for State banks.

Sec. 31. All guaranty fund banks provided for in this act are hereby authorized and empowered if they desire so to do, to publish any form of advertising which they may adopt, or upon their stationery the following words: "The non-interest-bearing and unsecured deposits of this bank are protected by the depositors' guaranty fund of the State of Texas." All bond guaranty banks provided for in this act are hereby authorized and empowered if they desire so to do, to publish by any form of advertising which they may adopt, or upon their stationery, the following words: "The deposits of this bank are protected by guaranty bond under the laws of this State." Said banks are authorized to use the terms "Guaranty Fund Bank" or "Guaranty Bond Bank," as the case may be, but they are hereby prohibited from describing said forms of guaranty by any other terms or words than herein named. Any guaranty fund bank or bond security bank or any officer, director, stockholder or other person for any such bank who shall write, print, publish or advertise in any manner or by any means or permit any one for them, or for said bank, to write, print, publish or advertise any statement that the deposits of any such bank are secured otherwise than as permitted in this section, or who shall make or publish any advertisement or statement to the effect that the State of Texas guarantees or secures the deposits in any such bank or banking and trust company shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or confined in the county jail for not less than three months nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any person who shall write, print, publish or advertise the above statement authorized to be used by bond security banks or guaranty fund banks other than as herein authorized shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or confined in the county jail for not less than three months nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 32. Any National bank in this State may voluntarily avail its depositors of the protection of the bond security system herein provided for State banks.

Sec. 33. Section 44, Chapter 10, of the Acts of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas is hereby amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

"Section 44. The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking from time to time shall appoint such number of State bank examiners as may be necessary to make the examinations of banking corporations required by law, which number shall at no time exceed one for each forty banking corporations then subject to examination under the laws of this State. As full compensation for the performance of the duties of examiners each person so appointed shall be entitled to receive a salary of $2000 per annum, besides necessary traveling expenses. An itemized account of such expenses shall be rendered monthly under oath by each examiner and shall be approved by the Commissioner."

Sec. 34. Section 56 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas, is hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

"Section 56. The directors of any bank or trust company organized under this act may appoint and remove any officer or other employe at pleasure. The officer or employe shall have no power to endorse, sell, pledge or hypothecate any note, bond or other obligation received by such corporation for money loaned until such power and authority shall have been given such officer or employe by the board of directors in a regular meeting of the board, a written record of which proceedings shall have first been made upon the minutes of the corporation; and all acts of endorsing, selling, pledging or hypothecating done by said cashier or other officer or employe of any such bank or trust company without the authority of the board of directors given as herein provided, shall be null and void."

Sec. 35. Every officer of every State bank, upon which the powers of a cashier or treasurer may be imposed by the board of directors shall, before entering or being permitted to enter upon the exercise of such powers, or the duties of his office, give a good and sufficient bond in such sum and with such surety or sureties as the board of directors may approve, and in such form as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, conditioned to pay the bank such pecuniary loss as the bank may sustain of money or other valuable securities embezzled, wrongly abstracted or willfully misapplied by said officer in the course of his employment as such and in the course of his employment in any other position in the bank to which he may be appointed, reappointed, elected, re-elected, or temporarily assigned. Such bond shall be approved by the board of directors in writing on the minutes of the corporation, and no member of the board of directors or officers of such State bank shall become surety thereon, and the same shall be deposited in some safe place, inaccessible by the maker thereof or the sureties thereupon, to be prescribed by the board of directors and shown upon the minutes of the corporation.

Sec. 36. No State bank shall make any loan or discount on the security of the shares of its own capital stock, nor be the purchaser or holder of any such shares, unless such security or purchase shall be necessary to prevent a loss upon a debt previously contracted in good faith; and stock so purchased or acquired shall, within six months from the time of its purchase, be sold or disposed of at public or private sale, or, in default thereof, such State bank shall be considered to have its capital stock impaired to the extent of the par value of such shares.

Sec. 37. It shall be unlawful for any such bank to hypothecate or pledge as collateral security for money borrowed upon bills payable or certificates of deposit, or otherwise, its securities to an amount more than 50 per cent greater than the amount borrowed thereon, or for any State bank to issue or execute any bills or other evidence of indebtedness secured or to be secured, by the pledge or hypothecation of any of its securities which shall not contain a provision that in the event such State bank shall, for any cause, have its property and business taken possession of by the Commissioner, at any time before such pledge or hypothecation shall have been actually foreclosed, a grace of thirty days after the date of such taking possession shall be allowed in which such bank or commissioner shall be permitted to redeem such securities so hypothecated or pledged by the payment of the amount due as principal and interest on such indebtedness.

Sec. 38. Section 50 of Chapter 10 of the General Laws of the First Called Session of the Twenty-ninth Legislature is hereby amended so as hereafter to read as follows:

"Section 50. No bank and no bank or trust company or any member of either shall, during the time it shall continue in banking or banking and trust operations, withdraw or permit to be withdrawn, either in the form of dividends or otherwise, any portion of its capital. If losses have at any time been sustained by any such association equal to or exceeding its undivided profits then on hand, no dividend shall be made; and no dividend shall ever be made by a bank or bank and trust company while it continues its banking and trust operations to an amount greater than its net profits then on hand, deducting therefrom its losses and bad debts. All debts due to any State bank on which interest is past due and unpaid for a period of six months unless the same are well secured or in process of collection, shall be considered bad debts within the meaning of this section.

"The board of directors of any bank or trust company organized under this act may declare a semi-annual or quarterly dividend, if such dividend has been earned, provided the corporation be fully solvent, without such earnings proposed to be divided. But they shall not declare a dividend at any time when the capital of such corporation shall have become impaired to such an extent that it is not worth in good resources the full amount paid in after the payment of all liabilities, and any officer or director of such corporation who shall assent to declaring and paying dividends where the capital stock is so impaired, shall be personally liable to the creditors of the corporation to the amount of his proportion of the proposed dividend, if any loss occur by reason of the payment of such dividends."

Sec. 39. The State Banking Board shall have the power from time to time to make such changes in the form of the statements required of each banking corporation as it may deem advisable, and to require any additional statements which it may deem necessary as to average daily deposits, capital stock, surplus, character of deposits and such other matters as it may deem necessary to the enforcement of this act.

Sec. 40. Should the courts declare any section of this act unconstitutional or unauthorized by law or in conflict with any other section or provision of this act, then such decision shall affect only the section or provision so declared to be unconstitutional and shall not affect any other section or part of this act.

Sec. 41. Every president, cashier, director, teller, clerk or agent of any State bank or banking and trust company incorporated under the laws of Texas who embezzles, abstracts or willfully misapplies any of the moneys, funds or credits of such State bank, or who, without authority from the directors, issues or puts forth any certificate of deposit, draws any order or bill of exchange, makes any acceptance, assigns any note, bond, draft, bill of exchange, mortgage, judgment or decree, or who makes any false entry in any book, report or statement of such State bank, with intent in either case to defraud such State bank, or any other corporation, body politic, or any individual, person, firm or association or to deceive any officer of such State bank, the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, or any examiner or special agent, authorized by law to examine the affairs of any such State bank, and every person who, with like intent, aids or abets any officer, clerk or agent in any violation of this section shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall, upon conviction, be imprisoned in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than five years nor more than ten years.

Sec. 42. Any director of a State bank or banking and trust company incorporated under the laws of this State who shall either directly or indirectly borrow any of the funds of such bank in excess of 10 per cent of its capital and surplus without the consent of a majority of the directors of the bank first having been obtained and made a matter of record at a regular meeting of the board, or without the written consent of such majority of the directors other than the borrowers being jointly executed by them and filed in the archives of such bank before the loan is made, and any officer of a State bank who shall knowingly become indebted to such bank, directly or indirectly, in any sum whatever, without the consent of a majority of the board other than the borrower, obtained or recorded, or filed in like manner, and any officer or director of such bank who shall knowingly loan or assent to the loaning of any of its funds to any officer, or any of its funds to any director, in excess of 10 per cent of its capital and surplus without such consent being first obtained and recorded or filed, or who shall knowingly permit any such officer or director to become indebted to the bank or liable to it without such consent, shall be deemed guilty of a felony and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for a term of not less than two years, upon conviction thereof.

Sec. 43. Any officer, director or employee of any State bank or trust company who knowingly or willfully fails or refuses to perform any duty imposed upon him by law or who shall do or perform or assist in doing or performing any act or transaction prohibited by the provisions of this act, for the punishment of which provision is not otherwise herein made, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term of not less than thirty days nor more than ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 44. Neither the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking nor any regularly appointed clerks or employees of the Department of Insurance and Banking, nor any State bank examiner shall, at any time during his incumbency, be financially interested, directly or indirectly, in any State bank or banking and trust company subject to the supervision of the Department of Insurance and Banking, or knowingly be or become indebted, either directly or indirectly, to any such State bank or banking and trust company.

Any officer or employee named in this section violating its provision shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $500 and the venue in such case shall be in the county wherein such State bank or banking and trust company is located. The violation of the provisions of this section shall work a forfeiture of the office or position held by the person guilty of such violation.

Sec. 45. Any officer, clerk or agent of any State bank or banking and trust company incorporated under the laws of Texas, who shall willfully certify to any check or checks before the amount thereof shall have been regularly entered to the credit of the drawer, upon the books of such State bank or banking and trust company shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine of not less than five hundred nor more than five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the State penitentiary for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 46. Any State bank examiner or special agent who shall knowingly and intentionally fail or refuse to notify the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking in writing of any violation of the criminal provisions of this act within ten days after the same shall have come to his notice or attention, unless such notice shall, within his knowledge, have been previously given by some other bank examiner or special agent, or any Commissioner of Insurance and Banking who shall knowingly and intentionally fail or refuse to notify in writing the county or district attorney charged by law with the duty of the prosecution thereof, of any such violation within ten days after the same shall have come to his knowledge or attention shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction, be punished by fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than three nor more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and upon conviction shall be removed from office.

Sec. 47. The provisions of this act shall be held to be cumulative of all laws now in force applicable to State banks or banking and trust companies incorporated under the laws of Texas, not in conflict herewith.

Sec. 48. It shall be unlawful for any State bank or banking and trust company in this State to directly or indirectly loan to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking or any other person interested in or employed by the Department of Insurance and Banking, and it is hereby expressly provided that a violation of this provision shall render such corporation liable to a penalty of not less than $100 nor more than $1000, to be recovered for the benefit of the State.

Sec. 49. The fact that there is no law in the State providing for a fund for the protection of depositors in banks and trust companies creates an emergency which requires that the constitutional rule that requires bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and this act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the kind providences which have been over us since our last assembly in this place. While we have been wandering about a loving eye has pursued each of us, and we thank Thee that we are permitted to come together in accordance with the proclamation of the Governor of our great Commonwealth; and at the very opening of this session we would approach Thee and seek that preparation of heart and intellect that will fit us for the work that is now before us. May each member of this Legislature get a clear insight as to the needs of our great State, and may each member seek that wisdom that cometh down from above that will guide him into a proper and faithful discharge of all duties. Bless our State with a wise and judicious administration; bless the Governor of our State, and may his administration be so wisely conducted that it will bring the greatest blessing to the greatest number of our people. Bless the President of this Senate who is at this time grieving over the death of a departed and loving mother. Give him, oh Lord, the consolation of our holy religion in this his sad hour; bless his aged father in his much feebleness and age. The Lord be present in that home and give comfort and consolation. Bless our loved ones that are left at home. Bless us all for life labors and give courage to do our work and at last bring us all to Thyself in great peace, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Executive Office,
State of Texas.

Austin, July 19, 1910.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

In response to a popular demand and in obedience to what appeared to be a general desire of the insuring public, this Legislature, at its First Called Session, enacted, and the Executive approved, the law contained in Chapter 18 of the General Laws of the Thirty-first Legislature, and known as the Fire Rating Law.

At the time of the enactment of this law and for many years prior thereto there was a widespread and well-founded dissatisfaction with general fire insurance conditions, and especially was there dissatisfaction with respect to the fire insurance premium rates, and the people were ready to welcome almost any proposed remedy for the evils and inequalities obtaining. It was a matter of common knowledge that small property owners were uniformly required to pay higher rates of insurance than their more fortunate neighbors with large holdings. Under conditions then existing the fire insurance premium rates were unfair, inequitable and affected adversely a majority of the individuals composing the insuring public. The assurances of benefits to accrue to the people under the law as proposed and enacted won for it in advance almost universal approval. It had for its object the regulation and control of fire insurance premium rates, the prevention of so much fire waste and not only a reduction of fire insurance premium charges, but a more equitable adjustment of fire insurance rates applying on property covered by insurance in Texas. The unusual fire waste in the State, together with the inequitable and unequal premium rates charged by the fire insurance companies created the demand for legislative action, and while the action taken is believed to be a move in the right direction and while regulation of fire insurance companies and of fire insurance rates is believed to be sound in principle, still the law as framed and as attempted to be applied under technical construction, has been a disappointment to its friends and to the insuring public. That it is defective and inadequate and that it is insufficient to meet and correct the acknowledged evils, all will now admit. That a law under which existing conditions are possible should not stand, but should be repealed, is a proposition that can not be successfully combated.

Some of the defects in the act were apparent at the time of its approval by the Executive, but, inasmuch as it carried with it a discretion to be exercised in its enforcement by the officers charged with the duty, and indulging the hope and belief that such discretion would be employed in the interests of the people and with fairness to the companies, and having every confidence that such discretion would always be exercised in an effort to give full force and effect to the manifest intention of the Legislature, and believing that a fair test of the principle involved could be and would be made, I approved it, and undertook to provide relief to the people under its provisions. It was believed that the principle of State regulation and control of fire insurance premium rates was practicable under just regulation laws, and that the State should not hesitate to assume and discharge that duty. It was also believed that the law as passed, although defective in many important essentials, would by a practical administration, vindicate the wisdom of entering this new field of corporation regulation. The people were, and are, entitled to a fair test of the principle under an effective and comprehensive law. It was inconceivable at the time of the enactment of the law that the legislative intention would be so warped by tortured and technical construction, as to furnish the insurance companies an opportunity to levy additional tribute and oppress the people. The fact remains, however, that the insurance companies are attempting to avail themselves of their surprising opportunity, and are proceeding along lines which will necessarily result in a loss to the insuring public of hundreds of thousands of dollars per annum.

The law which was intended to secure reasonable and fair premium rates under regulations fair and just to all, has been given an interpretation by the insurance companies which was never intended. Corporate greed again asserts itself and a combination of circumstances with which the public is familiar, have brought about the intolerable situation which demands legislative action. Conditions have arisen which demonstrate the inadequacy of the law as framed, and as an effort to amend the law might result in further complications and difficulties, the following appropriate procedure is respectfully recommended:

1. The passage of a bill repealing the law referred to outright.

2. The enactment of an adequate law to prevent combinations by the insurance companies to destroy competition in fire insurance rates in Texas; providing appropriate penalties therefor and providing means for the enforcement of same.

3. The enactment of a law regulating and controlling fire insurance companies doing business in this State, and the regulation and control of fire insurance premium rates; to establish and fix rates and to effectively prevent the use of what is known as the "key rates," recently promulgated by the fire insurance companies. Such law as may be enacted should provide proper penalties for all violations of the law and embrace ample provisions for the enforcement thereof.

4. The enactment of a law prescribing the conditions under which fire insurance companies chartered under the laws of other States may secure permits to do business in Texas and providing that such companies shall show by appropriate proof and in manner and form to be prescribed by the law, that the company has never at any time undertaken to dominate legislation by threats to withdraw from the State, and that the company has never at any time withdrawn from this State or ceased to do business in Texas on account of any law enacted by a Legislature of Texas.

Fire insurance companies, and other corporations, undertaking to dominate legislation by threats to withdraw from the State, and companies that actually withdraw from the State or cease to do business in the State for such reasons, should not be permitted to re-enter the State on any condition, and adequate laws in this respect are respectfully recommended.

There are other important subjects that will be presented for the attention and consideration of the Legislature at an early date, but for the present the following additional subjects only are presented to your honorable bodies for consideration:

1. The enactment of, suitable and effective laws to prohibit the exhibition of prize fights or glove contests by means of the moving picture films or other devices, in moving picture shows, or elsewhere, by any association, corporation or individual, and also to prevent immoral exhibitions by and through such agencies.

2. The enactment of a law making appropriations to construct, enlarge and equip additional buildings for the care and treatment of the colored insane at the State Asylum at Austin and for other necessary repairs and equipment for that institution.

Ample provision has been made for all the insane except perhaps seventy-five negroes now confined in county jails, for whose care and treatment accommodations should be provided without delay.

I will again communicate with the Legislature during the coming week, and from time to time as the welfare of the people may demand.

Very respectfully,

T. M. CAMPBELL,
Governor of Texas.

APPENDIX.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The Chair had the following telegram read to the Senate:

President of Senate, Austin, Texas.

The undersigned citizens of El Paso respectfully urge you not to amend the charter of the city of El Paso as requested by its present administration in any way so as to effect the public school system, to increase the salary of the mayor of the city, or allow the arbitrary extension of the corporate limits of the city to take in any territory without the citizens of the territory involved first asking by majority vote to be taken into the city limits.

Signed—W. H. Austin, E. B. Welch, A. Schwartz, F. W. Aines, E. W. Pew, John A. Harper, Burt Oronodoff, W. C. Wilite, Lamar Davis, Hugh A. McLean, W. T. Hixon, Aug. G. Andreas, B. P. Michelson, S. K. Fredunthal, A. P.

Coles, J. Calisher, James L. Marr, Harris Krupp, T. H. Springer, E. Strauss, El Paso Times Co.

Governor A. B. Davidson, Senate Chamber, Austin, Texas.

Dear Sir: As you are aware, there is in contemplation a great national exposition to be held upon the completion of the Panama Canal. The completion of this great national project will mean much to every Gulf port, but especially to Texas. The Gulf States have united upon New Orleans as a proper place where this exposition shall be held and that city is making every effort to enlist the active co-operation of her sister cities upon the Gulf. With that end in view, Governor Sanders of Louisiana, who has been recently elected to the United States Senate, has been requested by the city of New Orleans to address the Texas Legislature upon this topic should it be desirable and convenient to that honorable body for him to do so. I am just in receipt of the following telegram from Mr. T. P. Thompson, Chairman of the Executive Committee having the exposition matters in charge, to wit:

"We are very anxious for Governor Sanders to address your Legislature on the exposition for New Orleans and the South, not asking for financial support, but to impress upon your State Senators and Representatives the importance of working for congressional recognition. He has consented to do so, provided satisfactory dates can be arranged. Please wire me three or four different days on which Legislature would hear an address from him."

I shall be very glad, therefore, if you would take up the matter with your associates and if it commends itself to your and their judgment, at an early date pass a resolution inviting Governor Sanders to make such address before your honorable body and notify him thereof through our Chief Executive or other proper channel. I can but feel that this exposition means much to the Texas coast line and that Texas as a whole will realize great good therefrom. It will be noted from the telegram that the object of the address is not to ask for any financial support, but merely to arouse interest and to impress upon our Representatives in Con-

Trusting that this matter will receive your favorable consideration, I have the honor to be

Your obedient servant,

H. M. GARWOOD.

By Senator Cofer:

Howe, Grayson County, Texas,
July 21, 1910.

The Hons. John Marshall, R. E. Cofer,
J. R. Elliott and J. S. Aston, Austin, Texas.

Gentlemen: We the undersigned citizens of Howe and vicinity do hereby respectfully urge that you do not favor a repeal of the present insurance law, against which it appears Governor Campbell is directing his energy.

We respectfully suggest that the law be cured as quickly as possible of its defects, and that the Fire Rating Board be given powers with reference to insurance companies doing business in Texas, equal to those of the Railroad Commission, with reference to railway lines. We believe that an arrangement could be made between the Rating Board and insurance companies, under which a compromise or an emergency rate could be adopted until the board and companies have had sufficient time to agree on permanent rates. Reliable fire insurance is just as important to the welfare of our citizens as railway transportation, and we believe that the companies should be subject to the same control in order that fair and equitable rates may be enforced. The present law was doubtless railroaded through too hurriedly and contains many defects. There are very few laws, however, that have not been amended in some way.

Thanking you in advance for your best efforts in direction indicated.

Numerously signed.

P. Hayter, resigned, and in said special election the said Hon. C. V. FIRST HOUSE MESSAGE.

Austin, Texas, July 27, 1910.

Hon. A. B. Davidson, President of the Senate

Sir: I am directed by the House to inform the Senate that the House has passed Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 2, Inviting Governor Sanders to address the Legislature.

Respectfully,

BOB BARKER,
Chief Clerk, House of Representatives.

SIMPLE RESOLUTION.

By Senator Hudspeth:

Resolved, That the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds be instructed to place a sufficient number of electric fans in the Senate Chamber to keep the members cool, said expense to be paid for out of the contingent expense fund of the Legislature; and be it further

Resolved, That he be instructed to maintain sufficient lights to light up the Senate Hall and committee rooms for the benefit of members, stenographers and committee clerks. And that the Sergeant-at-Arms be instructed to deliver a copy of this resolution to said Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds forthwith.

Senator Mayfield offered the following amendment to the resolution:

Amend the resolution by adding: "Provided, that no Senator have no more than two fans."

Senator Holsey moved to table both the resolution and the amendment.

Pending discussion,

On motion of Senator Murray further action on the resolution was postponed until tomorrow morning.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE REPORT.

By Senator Murray:

Austin, Texas, July 27, 1910.

Hon. A. B. Davidson, President of the Senate.

Sir: We, your committee appointed to investigate the matter of employees, beg leave to report that we have made as thorough investigation as is possible under conditions to do, and after mature reflection we beg leave to report back to the Senate the following facts and recommendations, to wit:

1. We find that only three of the stenographers have their own machines here for use. Several of the others have already been supplied with machines by the Sergeant-at-Arms, who rented same (as he considered) under instructions of the President Pro Tem. of the Senate.

2. From the best information that we can obtain it is our opinion that there is only one among all the stenographers who would likely be able to take the dictations of anything like a rapid speaker. This is a young man who does not claim to be a court stenographer, but who from all the information that we are able to obtain we conclude is qualified to act as a court stenographer, and while we realize the importance of having at least one first-class stenographer able to do any and all kinds of work, we feel warranted in recommending to the Senate that for the present at least they take no action relative to the employment of an experienced court stenographer, believing, as we do, that the young man spoken of will prove competent for the present.

3. We are reliably informed that Miss Bonna Whitaker is not a stenographer or typewriter; therefore, we recommend that she be assigned by the Senate as an assistant in the enrolling and engrossing rooms, and that the Senate elect in her stead as a stenographer Miss Jennie Daugherty. In our opinion this will furnish all the employees necessary to transact the business of the Senate under any conditions that may arise.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WILLACY, BRACHFIELD.

The committee report was read and adopted.

By Senator Alexander:

Resolved, That 600 copies of the Senate Journal be printed each day, 150 of which shall be for the use of the House of Representatives, and shall be delivered to the Sergeant-at-Arms of that body by the printers, one copy to the Governor and one to each of the heads of departments, and the remainder to be prorated among the members of the Senate.

COMMITTEE REPORT.

Austin, Texas, August 2, 1910.

Hon. A. B. Davidson, President of the Senate.

Sir: We, your Committee on Privileges and Elections, to whom was referred House Concurrent Resolution No. 1, providing for certain investigations, beg leave to report that we have considered same and upon such consideration your committee reports back that it is not ready to report upon such resolution but desires to give it some further consideration and to give an opportunity to each person who desires to be heard upon said resolution. Your committee now reports the following resolution for the action of the Senate:

Whereas, The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, having under consideration House Concurrent Resolution No. 1, providing for an investigation of various and sundry rumors and miscellaneous campaign charges, has had two public hearings, at which any person could appear and present evidence or something tangible before said committee; and

Whereas, No person has appeared, either in person or by representation, and no evidence of any kind whatsoever has been presented to said Senate committee for its consideration, and said committee can not in the absence of some showing of a necessity for an investigation act intelligently or frame its report to the Senate; and

Whereas, Said committee does not desire to report said resolution adversely, if there is really any ground for an investigation; and

Whereas, Such an investigation as proposed would cost thousands of dollars in futile attempts to investigate intangible and vague rumors, and with the lights now before the Senate would probably be futile and amount to nothing; therefore, taking the benefit of experience from former expensive legislative investigations; be it

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Privileges and Elections be directed to retain said House Concurrent Resolution No. 1 and that Hon. Cone Johnson of Smith county and Hon. M. M. Crane of Dallas county (who seem from newspapers to be the persons making certain charges) and any other persons be given the opportunity to appear before said Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections on Friday, August 5, 1910, at 2 o'clock p. m., at Committee Room No. 3, in the Senate south wing of the Capitol at Austin, Texas, then and there to unbosom themselves and to disclose to said committee any facts in their possession touching or in any way reflecting upon the integrity, good faith or fitness of the Thirty-first Legislature or any member, officer or employe thereof, to the end that it may be known to the people of Texas whether such charges have any basis or foundation or are merely campaign thunder.

PERKINS, Chairman.

Senator Hudspeth moved that the time set for the executive session be postponed until 5 o'clock today, and that the matter of considering the appointment by the Governor to fill the office of Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, presented on this day, be considered at that time.

The motion required unanimous consent, and there was objection, and the motion was declared lost.

The Chair (Senator Veale) overruled the point of order.

Senator Hume moved to table the amendment.

The Chair (Senator Veale) sustained the point of order.

Sec. 2. Section 7a. No insurance company or officer, agent or representative thereof, coming within the provision of this act shall put into effect any rate or tariff or collect any premium under or by virtue of any rate or tariff until such rate or tariff has been approved by the State Fire Rating Board.

Hon. A. B. Davidson, President of the Senate.

Sir: I am directed by the House to inform the Senate that the House has passed the following bill:

House bill No. 13, A bill to be entitled "An Act providing for the election, qualification, bond and duties of the Comptroller of Public Accounts of the State of Texas and of his employees; providing for a complete system of accounting, bookkeeping and auditing for

Respectfully,

BOB BARKER,

Chief Clerk, House of Representatives.

BILL READ AND REFERRED.

The Chair (Lieutenant Governor Davidson) had referred, after its caption had been read, the following House bill: House bill No. 13, referred to Committee on State Affairs.

HOUSE BILL NO. 5.

Senator Alexander moved that the Senate rule requiring committee reports to lie over for one day be suspended, for the purpose of considering this bill (see Appendix for committee report).

The motion was adopted by the following vote:

Yeas—28.

Adams.	Peeler.
Alexander.	Perkins.
Brachfield.	Ratliff.
Bryan.	Real.
Cofer.	Senter.
Greer.	Sturgeon.

The Chair laid before the Senate, on second reading and regular order, House bill No. 5, A bill to be entitled "An Act to prohibit the exhibition or representation of prize fights and glove contests by moving picture films or other means. and creating an emergency."

(Senator Senter in the chair.)

The committee having recommended a substitute bill, and that the bill be not printed, the question was on the adoption of the committee report.

The committee report was adopted.

Senator Veale offered the following amendment:

Amend the bill by striking out all after the words "A bill," and substitute the caption and bill of the House.

COFER,

VEALE.

Senator Alexander made the point of order on the amendment, contending that the action by which the Senate adopted the committee report, which recommended a substitute bill, would preclude again substituting the same subject matter that the Senate had voted on, in the form of an amendment.

The Chair (Senator Senter) sustained the point of order.

Senator Veale offered the following amendment:

Amend the bill by striking out all of Section 1 of the bill and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Section 1. That any person, corporation or association of persons who shall exhibit, produce or be concerned in exhibiting or producing any representation of any prize fight or any glove contest, or the presentation of any legal hanging or execution of a human being, or the hanging, burning or other means of execution of any human being by any mob, or the representation of any bull fight, train robbery, bank robbery, or stage coach robbery, or lewd, lascivious or obscene pictures, by means of moving picture films or by any other means whatsoever in any theater, opera house, tent or moving picture show, or in any other public place, whether a fee of admission is charged or not, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and shall be imprisoned in the county jail not less than thirty nor more than ninety days. Each exhibition prohibited in this section shall constitute a separate offense."

VEALE,
COFER,
STURGEON.

Senator Alexander moved to table the amendment.

Senator Watson made the point of order that the matter contained in the amendment does not come within the call of the Governor, submitting this subject for legislation.

Here Senator Sturgeon moved that the Senate recess until 2:30 o'clock today.

The motion was lost.

Action recurred on House bill No. 5, the question being on the point of order by Senator Watson, and the Chair (Senator Senter) sustained the point of order, stating that a part of the subject matter contained in the amendment was germane to the call of the Governor, but, taking it as a whole, it would not be germane.

Senator Veale appealed from the ruling of the Chair.

President Pro Tem. Alexander was called to the chair.

Question—Shall the Chair be sustained?

The Senate sustained the ruling of the Chair.

Senator Senter again took the chair.

Bill read second time, and passed to third reading.

On motion of Senator Alexander, the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days was suspended, and the bill put on its third reading and final passage by the following vote:

Yeas—28.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That every person or firm having a license under the provisions of this act who may be engaged or who may hereafter be engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquors (in any locality in this State other than where local option is in force) shall close and keep closed their houses and places of business and transact no business therein or therefrom and make no sale of intoxicating liquors therein or therefrom from and after 6 o'clock p. m. until 7 o'clock a. m. of the succeeding day of each week and shall close and keep closed their houses and places of business and transact no business therein or therefrom and shall sell no intoxicating liquors therefrom after 6 o'clock p. m. on Saturday evening until 7 o'clock a. m. the following Monday of each week, and any such person or firm or his or their agent or employe who shall open or keep open or permit to be opened or kept open any such place or places of business for the purpose of traffic or who shall sell or barter or permit to be sold or bartered any intoxicating liquors of any kind or who shall transact or permit to be transacted therein or therefrom any such business between the hours aforesaid shall be deemed guilty of a felony and on conviction shall be punished by confinement in the penitentiary for not less than one year nor more than three years.

Sec. 2. The fact that the present law is defective and that this is an extra session and that the calendar is, or will be, badly crowded creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity for the suspension of the constitutional rule which requires bills to be read on three several days and that this act should be in force from and after its passage, it is therefore hereby so enacted.

Sec. 2. That Section 15, page 304, of Chapter 17 of the Acts of the Thirty-first Legislature, regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors and approved April 17, 1909, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

That every person or firm desiring to engage in the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication, to be drunk on the premises, shall, before engaging in such sale, be required to enter into a bond in the sum of $5000; provided, however, that any person or firm dealing exclusively in malt liquors shall be required to give bond only in the sum of $1000, with at least two good, lawful and sufficient sureties, and the sureties required by law on the bonds of liquor dealers shall make affidavit before some officer authorized to administer oaths, that they, in their own right, over and above all exemptions, are each worth the full amount of the bond they sign as sureties, and no county judge shall approve any such bond unless the affidavit as provided for in this section shall have been duly made. The approval of any such bond by the county judge without such affidavit shall make said county judge liable for any penalty recovered on such liquor dealer's bond, and any person who shall make any false affidavit as required by this act shall be punished as provided for in the Penal Code of this State. Provided, that nothing herein shall prevent the making of such bond by a surety company as permitted by law, payable to the State of Texas, to be approved as to security by the county judge, which bond shall be conditioned that said person or firm: so selling spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication, in any quantity to be drunk on the premises, shall not either in person or knowingly by any agent, employe or representative during the year for which such license shall run, keep open the house or place where liquors shall be sold under such license for the sale thereof or transact such business in such house or place of business after 12 o'clock midnight on Saturday, and between that hour and 5 o'clock a. m. of the following Monday of any week; and that such person or firm shall keep an open, quiet and orderly house or place for the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication, and that such person, or firm or his or their agent or employe, will not sell or permit to be sold in his or their house or place of business, nor give nor permit to be given any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication to any person under the age of 21 years, or to a student of any institution of learning, or any habitual drunkard, after having been notified in writing through the sheriff or other peace officer by the wife, father, mother, daughter or sister of such habitual drunkard, said notice shall be in effect for a period of two years not to sell to any such person and that he or they will not permit any person under the age of 21 years to enter and remain in such house or place of business, that he or they will not permit any games prohibited by the laws of this State to be played, dealt or exhibited in or about such house or place of business, and that he or they will not rent or let any part of the house or place in which he or they have undertaken to sell spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication, in any quantity to be drunk on the premises, to any person or persons for the purpose of running or conducting any game or games prohibited by the laws of this State; and that he or they will not adulterate the liquors sold by them in any manner, mixing the same with any drug, and that he or they will not knowingly sell or give away any impure or adulterated liquors of any kind; and that he or they will not while engaged in such business contribute any money or other thing of value directly or indirectly to any campaign fund to assist in the election or defeat of any candidate or to carry or defeat any measure voted upon in any primary, city, county, State, general, special or local election; which said bond shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county where such business is conducted, and shall be recorded by such clerk in a book to be kept for such purpose, for which service said clerk shall be entitled to a fee of 75 cents, which said bond may be sued on at the instance of any person or persons aggrieved by the violations of its provisions, and such person shall be entitled to recover the sum of $500 as liquidated damages for each infraction of the conditions of such bond, and the said bond shall not be void on the first recovery, but may be sued on until the full penal sum named therein shall have been recovered. In addition to civil proceedings for individual injuries brought on said bond, as above indicated, if any person or firm shall violate any of the conditions of the bond herein required, it shall be the duty of the county and district attorney, or either of them, to institute suit thereupon, or any person owning real property in the county may institute suit thereupon, in the name of the State of Texas, for the use and the benefit of the county, but no compensation shall be allowed such citizen, and he may be required to give security for costs, and the amount of $500 as a penalty shall be recovered from the principals and sureties upon the liquor dealer's bond upon the breach of any of the conditions thereof; and hereafter when any recovery is had by any person or by any county or district attorney for the use and benefit of the county in any action in any court of competent jurisdiction upon the bond of any person or firm engaged in the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication, or malt liquors exclusively, to be drunk on the premises, in any locality other than where local option is in force, upon the ground that such licenses sold or permitted to be sold, or gave or permitted to be given any such liquors to a minor in his place of business, or permitted a minor to enter or remain in his place of business, or sold such liquor to any habitual drunkard after having been notified in writing not to sell to such habitual drunkard or that such licensee permitted prostitutes or lewd women to enter and remain in his place of business, or permitted any games permitted by the law to be played, dealt or exhibited in or about his place of business, or any part thereof for such purpose or purposes, the license of such person or firm shall by reason of such recovery be forfeited, revoked and cancelled and the court entering judgment of recovery shall also enter an order declaring forfeited, revoked and cancelled such license, and the unearned portion of the occupation tax paid therefor shall not be refunded but shall be forfeited to the State and county, city or town to which the money for the same may have been paid. And any person or firm who shall sell any such liquors or medicated bitters in any quantity, to be drunk on the premises, without first giving bond, as required by this act, or who shall sell the same after said licenses have been forfeited, revoked or cancelled, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined in the same amount provided for sales where no license has been obtained.

An open house in the meaning of this chapter is one in which no screens or other device is used or placed inside or outside of such place of business for the purpose of or that will obstruct the view through the open door or place of entrance into any such house or place where any intoxicating liquors are sold to be drunk on the premises.

A quiet house or place of business in the meaning of this chapter is one in which no music, loud or boisterous talking, yelling or indecent or vulgar language is allowed, used or practiced, or any other noise calculated to disturb or annoy any person residing or doing business in the vicinity of such house or place of business, or those passing along the streets or public highways.

By an orderly house is meant one in which no prostitutes or lewd women or woman are allowed to enter or remain; and it is further provided that said house must not contain any vulgar or obscene pictures.

Any surety on such bond may relieve himself from further liability thereon by giving the principal in said bond notice in writing that he will no longer remain as surety thereon, and by filing with the county judge an affidavit that such notice has been given, and if within five days after such notice the principal fails to make a new bond he shall cease to pursue said business until a new bond is given. Any person who shall continue to pursue said business after such notice is given and such affidavit is filed shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in cases where no license has been procured; provided, that where the sale was made in good faith, or the minor permitted to enter and remain in good faith, with the belief that the minor was of age, and there is good ground for such belief, that shall be a valid defense to any recovery on such bond; provided further, that where the sale to an habitual drunkard is made in good faith, with the belief that he is not an habitual drunkard, and there are good grounds for such belief, that shall be a valid defense to any recovery on such bond; provided, the provisions of this act shall apply to suits by the State or by any individual. Provided, that no license shall be issued under this act to any person who has been convicted of a felony and served such term of conviction.

Sec. 3. Since there is now no law prohibiting liquor dealers from making contributions to campaign funds and the near approach of the close of the Special Session of the Legislature creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity for the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days and that this act shall be in force and effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted.

COFER.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

By Senator Cofer:

Galveston, Texas, August 5, 1910.

Senator Cofer, Austin, Texas.

Dear Sir: I have been reading with a great deal of interest the articles in the newspapers of the past few days with regard to the work of the Legislature along the line of restricting the liquor traffic in the State of Texas.

In behalf of the Texas Christian Endeavor Union, representing about six hundred and fifty societies, with a membership of about twelve thousand Christian young people, I wish to thank you for your earnest efforts to cleanse this great State from the evils of the saloon, and to offer you all the support and encouragement possible.

We earnestly hope that the bills which you and your colleagues have presented to the Senate will be passed and enacted into laws that will effectually drive the saloon from our University cities and towns, and also prevent the procuring of liquor in the local option sections.

With best wishes and prayers for your success in these measures, I am,

Yours sincerely,

CHARLES COTTY,
Secretary Texas C. E. Union.

EXECUTIVE MESSAGE.

Executive Office,
State of Texas.

Austin, August 6, 1910.

To the Legislature:

By virtue of authority vested in me by Section 40, Article 3, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, I hereby designate and present to you for your consideration the following subjects and suggest legislation thereon:

1. Legislation requiring the erection and maintenance of buildings for the protection from rain, wind, and inclement weather, of employes engaged in repairing railroad cars and other railroad equipment, and providing penalties for violations, and regulating suits for such penalties, and such further legislation upon this subject as may be appropriate and is necessary to provide proper protection to employes engaged in such work.

2. Legislation requiring persons, firms, corporations and associations of persons engaged in compressing cotton in this State to so bind and tie all bales of cotton so that no bale of cotton by them compressed, recompressed, baled or rebaled, shall be delivered to any railroad company or other common carrier unless the same is free from "spiders," exposed ends of bands or any exposed or any obtruding part of the ties, bands, buckles or splices used in tying or baling such bale of cotton, and to provide penalties and methods of enforcement of the laws enacted on this subject.

3. Legislation making an appropriation for the repair, improvement and construction of a sewerage system and for general repairs for the North Texas Hospital for the Insane. An appropriation approximating $5000 will be necessary for the repairs and improvements here mentioned, and as the present sewerage system is not only endangering the health of the inmates of the institution, but of the people of the city of Terrell, it is respectfully urged that action be taken at once.

An appropriation of $1200 for overhauling and repairing the three boilers at the Deaf and Dumb Institute, and to put them in safe working condition, is also presented for your consideration. This work should begin at once, so that the boilers may be made safe prior to the opening of this Texas School for the Deaf and Dumb in September.

The General Appropriation Bill carried an item of $1200 for clerk hire for the State Tax Commissioner, which item was vetoed, as it was believed that the Commissioner would only need the services of a clerk during the months of May and June, and that provision could be made therefor by a deficiency appropriation. The Commissioner employed a clerk for the months mentioned at $100 per month, and as there is some doubt about the authority of the Governor to allow deficiencies in the absence of an appropriation naming the item to which such deficiency could be attached, it is here suggested to the Legislature that an appropriation of $200 be made to pay for the services of the clerk employed for the months of May and June as above stated.

4. Legislation amending the election laws of the State of Texas as may be deemed necessary by the Legislature and as may be necessary to conform to the amendment of Section 120 heretofore submitted by message to your Honorable Bodies.

5. Legislation reorganizing the Seventieth Judicial District of Texas, and to fix the time of holding court in each of the counties of the said Seventieth Judicial District, and declaring an emergency. The act creating the Seventieth Judicial District is Chapter 8, General Laws of the Thirty-first Legislature, page 10, which act was approved February 3, 1909, and became a law on the same day. The said district was at the time of creation composed of the counties of Midland, Ector, Gaines, Glasscock, Reeves and Ward, and the unorganized counties of Andrews, Winkler, Crane, Loving and Upton. Since the creation of the district the counties of Andrews, Winkler and Upton have been organized and the counties of Crane and Loving remain unorganized. The three counties organized now have no established and fixed terms or sessions for the district court in such counties, and it is of great public importance that terms of court for said counties should be provided by law at once.

Very respectfully,
T. M. CAMPBELL,
Governor of Texas.

APPENDIX.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

By Senator Paulus:

To the Hon. D. A. Paulus, Austin, Texas:

We, the undersigned citizens of Shiner, Lavaca county, Texas, being apprised of the fact that our fire insurance rates have been raised from 100 to 400 per cent, as the result of the operation of the Fire Insurance law as passed by the Thirty-first Legislature, and feeling that the rates as they now stand are excessive and unjust, do humbly petition you to use your influence and vote to have the present law repealed, and to enact a law that will operate to produce rates which will not be prohibitive. We further petition you to use your influence and vote to eliminate the co-insurance clause from all risks except cotton, grain, cotton seed products and such other risks to which it applied before the enactment of the present law.

By Senator Sturgeon:

Dodd City, Texas, Aug. 9, 1910.

Hon. B. B. Sturgeon, Austin, Texas:

We, the undersigned citizens of your district, are watching with interest the prohibition legislation now pending before the Texas Legislature, and feel especial concern relative to the ten-mile law, prohibiting the sale of liquor where our State schools are located. We commend your attitude, and trust the bill may become a law.

Numerously signed.

By Senator Adams:

Brownwood, Texas, August 8, 1910.

Hon. W. N. Adams, Senator Twenty-sixth District, Austin, Texas.

Dear Senator: At the instance of the signers of the enclosed petitions we hand you the same and urge that you give them due consideration.

It is but fair to say that only a few hours have been given to circulating these petitions, but you can see from the signatures that your constituency is well represented therein.

Other petitions from this county will follow within a short time.

We can conservatively state that two-thirds of the voters of this county favor the passage of the "quart law" bill.

Yours very truly,

J. H. GROVE,

JNO. W. GOODWIN,

TOM LEACH,

Committee.

Brownwood, Texas, August 5, 1910.

To Hon. W. N. Adams, Senator Twenty-sixth Senatorial District of Texas:

The House grants request of Senate for Free Conference Committee on Senate bill No. 7 and appoints the following on the part of the House: Messrs. Gilmore, Cox, Stratton, Rayburn. Min-ton.

The House refuses to concur in Senate amendments to House bill No. 5 and requests the appointment of a free conference committee. The following committee has been appointed on the part of the House: Messrs. Bowles, Gilmore, Terrell of Cherokee, Hamilton of Childress, Terrell of Bexar.

BILLS READ AND REFERRED.

The Chair (Lieutenant Governor Davidson) had referred, after their captions had been read, the following House bills:

House bill No. 30, referred to Committee on Judicial Districts.

House bill No. 29, referred to Committee on Towns and City Corporations.

SIMPLE RESOLUTION.

Action recurred upon the simple resolution by Senator Cofer, the question being on the substitute motion by Senator Meachum to table same.

HOUSE BILL NO. 5—FREE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON.

Senator Ward here moved that the Senate grant the request of the House for a Free Conference Committee on House bill No. 5. The motion was adopted, and the Chair (Lieutenant Governor Davidson) appointed the following as the Free Conference Committee: Senators Ward, Cofer, Alexander, Perkins and Harper.

(Senator Peeler in the chair.)

SIMPLE RESOLUTION.

Action recurred on the simple resolution by Senator Cofer et al., the question being on the substitute motion by Senator Meachum to table the resolution.

Pending prolonged discussion, Senator Meachum moved that further debate on the resolution be limited to three minutes to each side, and on that motion, Senator Watson moved the previous question, which was duly seconded.

Senator Terrell of Bowie made the point of order that rules of the Senate do not provide a limit of time for any member to speak.

Pending discussion on the point of order, Senator Meachum made a further point of order that Senator Terrell of Bowie was not discussing the point of order; also that the previous question had been moved and seconded.

The Chair (Senator Peeler) held that Senator Terrell of Bowie would have to speak to the point of order; and that unless some authority could be shown that a time limit could not be made for a member to speak, the point of order would be overruled.

Senator Terrell of Bowie appealed from the ruling of the Chair.

Senator Hudspeth was called to the chair.

Question—Shall the Chair be sustained?

The Senate sustained the Chair by the following vote:

Yeas—15.

Adams.	Paulus.
Harper.	Real.
Hudspeth.	Senter.
Hume.	Terrell of McLennan.
Kauffman.	Watson.
Kellie.	Weinert.

Senator Alexander, being recognized, began stating a point of order, citing Rule 21 of the Rules of the Senate.

Senator Hudspeth, who was then presiding, stated that he would overrule the point of order.

Lieutenant Governor Davidson then took the chair.

Senator Alexander then stated his point of order that the motion made by Senator Meachum was out of order because Rule 21 provided that when a question is under consideration by the Senate that no motion shall be made except such as set out in Rule 21 of the Senate Rules.

Senator Meachum made a point of order to the point of order that the Senate had already held that the motion was in order; an appeal had been taken from the ruling of the Chair; the Chair sustained; that, therefore, the further point of order made by Senator Alexander is out of order at this time.

The Chair (Lieutenant Governor Davidson, who was presiding) stated that he would not reverse the ruling of Senator Hudspeth, who had overruled the point of order, and if the Senate desired to do so, it could appeal from the ruling of the Chair.

There being no desire to appeal from the ruling of the Chair, action recurred on the previous question, which had been moved and seconded.

Senator Brachfield made a point of order, citing Rule 38, page 9, which requires motions to be made in writing when called for by any Senator, and called for the motion by Senator Meachum to be in writing.

The Chair (Lieutenant Governor Davidson) at first sustained the point of order, but after consideration reversed his ruling and overruled same.

Action recurred on the motion to order the previous question on Senator Meachum's motion.

Adams.	Paulus.

Adams.	Paulus.
Greer.	Peeler.
Harper.	Real.
Hudspeth.	Senter.

Senator Terrell of Bowie spoke for three minutes, whereupon Senator Hudspeth moved that his time be extended for 59 minutes.

The motion was adopted.

Action recurred on the substitute motion by Senator Meachum to table the resolution.

The motion to table prevailed by the following vote:

REASONS FOR VOTING.

I vote "yea" for the adoption of the majority of the committee report on Senate bill No. 15, being adverse to the passage of such bill which prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquors within ten miles of any State institution of learning.

1. I contend that the bill is violative of Article 16, Section 20, of the State Constitution.

2. I am also against the bill because the people are not demanding its passage.

3. In an article published in the Texas Christian Advocate of July 21, 1910, over the signature of Dr. James Campbell, a Methodist minister well known in Texas, wherein he advocated the removal of the Southwestern University, one of the greatest educational institutions in the South, from Georgetown, a local option town, to Dallas, a city having about four hundred saloons, the following argument, among other things, was advanced by Dr. Campbell:

"But, after all, the question of temptation is not one of the city, or of the town, nor even of the country—it is a question of human nature. 'It must needs be that offenses come' and come they will whether in the city, the village of the wilderness. Holy Writ teaches that none are tempted beyond their powers. 'There hath no temptation taken you but such as man can bear; but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation make also the way of escape, that ye may be able to endure it.' 1 Cor. 10-13.

"The common humanity the world over is subject to the common temptations which befall men everywhere. 'All that is in the world is the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye and the pride of life.' Another inspired writer says: 'Count it all joy, my brethren, when ye fall into manifold temptations, knowing that the proving of your faith worketh patience.' (Jas. 1:2-3.) 'Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been approved he shall receive the crown of life which the Lord promised to them that love him.' Temptation is common to all men, not because all men are surrounded by the same conditions externally, but because all men have the same temptable nature. Temptation is necessary to development. It is the friction which visits righteousness, and at the same time is necessary to it. 'Friction resists the progress of the locomotive, but you do not oil the rails to increase the speed.' You can't get rid of the devil by fleeing from him in the city to the village, nor from the village to the wilderness. Flee not from him to any place of refuge, for when you get there you will find him waiting for you. 'Resist the devil and he will flee from you.' Keep him on the run. Resist him in the city and he will flee to the village. Resist him in the village and he will flee to the wilderness. Resist him in the wilderness and drive him into the sea. Remember the adversary is not partial to great crowds. He takes men individually, in the secret recesses of their own hearts. In the beginning he did not attack Adam and Eve both at once, but he took the woman single-handed and alone. The two together might have been more than a match for him. Again the greatest battle ever fought between man and the devil was in the wilderness near Jerusalem. Satan was afraid to attack the Son of Man in the city full, but single-handed and alone he met his conqueror that time in the country. Yet the tempter knew that he would have a better advantage to win in the country where his antagonist would not have the support of the sympathetic atmosphere of the people in the great city.

In the city the moral and better classes are more separate and distinct in their associations than in smaller towns where the good and the bad mix and mingle more readily. The city has its slums, it is true, but there lies between them and the better classes a great gulf. Neither are the slums fed from the better districts of the city, but from their natural increase among themselves, and from foreign immigration of the same class, and from the Noah Claypoles who drift in from the country. All this talk about the superior advantages of a small town over the city for a college because of fewer temptations and a better moral atmosphere is mere 'rot,' and 'tommy-rot' at that."

J. L. PEELER.

Executive Office,

APPENDIX.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

By Senator Terrell of McLennan:

Waco, Texas, August 8, 1910.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives, Thirty-first Legislature, Austin, Texas.

Gentlemen: Believing that the State should maintain control of the fire insurance rates and that the existing statute, known as the Fire Rating Board law, is based upon principles of equity and justice and will eventually work the greatest good to the greatest number, we, the undersigned citizens and insurers of McLennan county, respectfully petition your honorable body not to repeal the existing law, but to perfect the same by such amendments as may be necessary. We favor the amendment of the law to the end that no schedules or rates filed by the insurance companies shall become effective until approved by the Fire Rating Board, and that the board shall have authority over all forms and clauses used by the companies in writing fire insurance in Texas.

By Senator Adams:

Brownwood, Texas, August 10, 1910.

Hon. W. N. Adams, Austin Texas.

Dear Senator: I herewith hand you additional petitions received by me through the mail today, and I hear of others that are being signed which have not yet been received, but will be forwarded by tomorrow's mail.

We would like very much for you to consider the fact that nine out of the ten counties in the Twenty-sixth Senatorial District are absolutely dry, and in only one county in this district is there a saloon, and a part of that county has dry territory.

We can not believe but that you will vote for the best interests of your constituency in this district, and we know that you are aware of the fact that it is overwhelmingly for this measure, and I think the names on these petitions show that this county is well represented for the short time that we have had to circulate the petitions.

Yours very truly,

TOM LEACH.

Brownwood, Texas, August 5, 1910.

To Hon. W. N. Adams, Senator Twenty-sixth Senatorial District of Texas:

We, the undersigned citizens of Brown county, Texas, believing that Brown county and the Twenty-sixth Senatorial district is opposed to the saloon and desire that it be abolished, respectfully request that you vote for and support the bill now pending before the Legislature known as the "quart law."

Numerously signed.

WARD, Chairman.

In Memory of
Hon. C. C. Stokes.

Whereas, The angel of death has passed over the home of our beloved Senator and friend, Hon. C. C. Stokes of Houston county, and borne his soul peacefully away, and, as we stand in the presence of death, we seek in vain to find out God's inscrutable ways. We can not understand why the young, the brilliant, the brave, the Christian man should be stricken in his prime. We can only mourn the loss of our friend; and

Whereas, Senator Stokes was serving his second term in the Senate of Texas and has faithfully represented his district during all these years with fidelity and steadfastness worthy of emulation and our highest commendation and in a way to earn for himself the respect and esteem of his associates in this high body; and

Whereas, Senator Stokes in his private life exemplified the highest virtues of the good man and in his daily walk lived the Christian religion, which he professed, and we shall miss his kindly words, his cheerful smile, his open hand, his frank counsel; and

Whereas, It is proper that the Senate in an official manner should in this sad hour show its appreciation of the official service of Senator Stokes and we, his comrades in the Senate, should testify to his worth as a citizen, as a man and as a friend; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That in the death of Senator Stokes, not only his Senatorial District, but the State of Texas has lost one of her most devoted, patriotic and able sons, one whose strong body and vigorous mind gave promise of many years of brilliant service; and be it

Resolved further, That we extend to the surviving widow of Senator Stokes and to his family our deepest sympathy and pray that He, who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb, may console them in this sad hour and in the days to come, as they mourn their great loss; and be it

Resolved further, That a page of the Senate Journal be set aside in memory of the deceased Senator and that when the Senate adjourns today it do so out of memory to the deceased, and that the Governor be requested to have the flag on the Capitol placed at half mast today; that a copy of these resolutions be furnished his devoted widow and family, reminding them of the esteem in which their loved one was held by his friends and associates, and that copies hereof be furnished the press for publication; and be it

Resolved, That a committee of the Senate, composed of four Senators, be appointed to attend the funeral and to secure a suitable floral offering.
